A REAL WINTER'S WALK

Two youngsters in Wichita, Kan., enjoy their stroll to school more than usual today as an overnight snowfall brought two inches of flakey moisture. The winter blast brought below freezing temperatures in sections of the midwest. The cold front, which hit Wichita yesterday, was heading into sections of Oklahoma and Arkansas today.

SCHOOL REPORT'S COOL RECEPTION

Mill Valley Petitioners Want More Time To Study Document On Class Innovations

By GEORGE NEVIN

A 12-page report answering criticism of education in the Mill Valley School District, particularly its more progressive aspects, was greeted coolly last night.

Trustees and members of the audience who had signed a petition faulting the district for excessive innovation and lack of emphasis on academic subjects asked for more time to evaluate the report.

The document, prepared by Supt. James A. Collins, contained suggestions on how the board might meet the fears and complaints aired by the petitioners at three special board meetings this month and last.

Only one of Collins's numerous proposals was enacted last night: the board agreed to meet at 8 p.m. Dec. 6 at Park School to go over the district's testing program.

One of the points raised by the petitioners at the special meetings was the lack of adequate and proper testing to determine what and how well children were learning.

The board agreed to hire Vernon Dahl, vice-president of the Berkeley Testing Service, to attend the meeting and interpret district test data, at a fee of between $50 and $100.

Other of Collins's recommendations will be studied by the board and discussed at later meetings. These were broken down under two headings, immediate and long-range.

Immediate suggestions were to allow parents dissatisfied with the type of education their children are getting to transfer them to other, more structured schools in the district, and to allow them to bring their dissatisfactions to the school principal, then the superintendent, and then the school board.

Long-range proposals included balancing the staffs at each school to distribute more evenly the traditional and innovative teachers (one of the charges has been that the district discriminates against more conservative teachers), and creation of one or more extra

Pakistani Jets Are Downed

NEW DELHI (UPI)—An Indian cabinet minister told Parliament today that Indian jet fighters shot down three of four intruding Pakistani warplanes Monday and government sources on both sides reported heavy fighting along their borders during the day.

A state of emergency was declared throughout Pakistan in view of what the Islamabad government said was the threat of foreign attack.

A Radio Pakistan broadcast claimed Pakistani troops repelled an attack by regular Indian forces in the Comilla sector of East Pakistan today and "completely annihilated" the 19th Punjab Battalion of the 311th Mountain Brigade, 57th Indian Division. It said the Indians left behind "197 dead bodies." There was no mention of Pakistani casualties.

In Pakistan, the government declared a state of emergency. A broadcast heard here by official Radio Pakistan said "in Pakistan a state of emergency has been declared. A proclamation issued in Islamabad says the president is satisfied that a grave emergency exists in which Pakistan is threatened by external aggression."

Pakistani President A. M. Yahya Khan said Monday that India was waging an undeclared war against the nation. Government sources said fighting with Indian forces was under way in four sectors along the border but gave no details.

In New Delhi, Indian government sources said fighting went on during the day in three sectors "on the border" with Pakistan but declined to detail the intensity of the clashes except to describe them as "battles." They refused to specify whether the fighting was along the border or in Indian or Pakistani territory.

Pakistani newspapers said that if Pakistan is forced to fight for its survival, it will fight with all its might and India too will go up in flames."

Shortly after the broadcast, Prime Minister Indira Gandhi met with senior advisers making up her political affairs committee to discuss the deepening crisis.

Indian Minister of Defense Production Vidya Charan Shukla told parliament four Pakistani Sabrejets intruded into Indian airspace near the village of Boyra Monday. Three of them were shot down by Indian air force Gnat fighters and two of the Pakistani pilots were captured after they parachuted from their planes. He did not say what happened to the other pilot. There was no damage to the Indian jets, Shukla told a cheering parliament.

The disclosure came following charges by Pakistan in the United Nations and over its official radio that Indian troops had launched an all-out offensive across the border into East Pakistan. The charges were denied by the Indian government.

At the same time, further restrictions were put into effect. The Indian government today banned travel into border areas and any flights above them not given specific clearance.

Nixon's Nominees To High Court Clear Committee

Powell is Unanimously Approved; Vote On Rehnquist Is 12 To 4

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lewis F. Powell and William H. Rehnquist were endorsed today by the Senate Judiciary Committee for confirmation as Supreme Court justices — Powell unanimously and Rehnquist by a 12-4 vote.

Opponents of Rehnquist, 47, an assistant attorney general, vowed they would continue to fight his appointment on the Senate floor. The 64-year-old Powell, a Richmond attorney and a former president of the American Bar Association, is expected to have clear sailing.

Voting against confirmation of Rehnquist in the committee were Sens. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., and John V. Tunney, D-Calif. President Nixon announced the selection od Powell and Rehnquist on Oct. 21 to succeed two longtime associate justices, Hugo L. Black and John M. Harlan, who retired within a week of each other in September because of ill health. Black died eight days after his retirement.

Administration leaders expressed confidence that both Rehnquist and Powell would be confirmed —probably early next month —to bring the short-handed Supreme Court back to its full nine-man strength.

Foes of Rehnquist said they were still unsatisfied with his written responses last weekend to questions about his past actions, particularly in the civil rights field, and would continue to press their case on the floor.

They particularly were critical of Rehnquist's attitude, while practicing law in Phoe-

Sadat Is Firm On Israeli Withdrawals

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

President Anwar Sadat told an African peace mission in Cairo today there can be no peace in the Middle East without an Israeli commitment to withdraw from all occupied Egyptian territory, a Foreign Ministry official said.

Sadat, who had said war with Israel was the only course left open to Egypt, without such a pledge, met for two hours with Presidents Leopold Senghor of Senegal, Maj. Gen. Yakubu Gowan of Nigeria and two top cabinet ministers from Cameroun and Zaire.

Both Egyptian and Israeli newspapers warned again of the dangers of resumed warfare. Israeli officials already have said they are taking at face value Sadat's repeated statements that the Middle East conflict must be resolved this year, either by peace or by war.

Government sources in Paris disclosed that China turned down an invitation from France to take part in the Big Four talks on the Middle East being conducted by their ambassadors to the United Nations in New York. The sources noted that Peking consistently has opposed attempts by the United States, Soviet Union, Britain and France to force any settlement.

In Jerusalem, speakers for 10 political parties and factions representing a cross-section of Israeli's political spectrum took the floor in the Knesset (Parliament) during the day in a special emergency debate called in the wake of Sadat's warlike weekend statements.

One by one they denounced the United States for its "appeasement" of Egypt and castigated Cairo for escalating tensions in the Middle East.

The debate came as Israel carried out a nationwide test of its air raid warning systems—the first in about six months. No civil defense drill accompanied the siren blasts and Israelis took it all in stride.

The Egyptian official said Sadat told the African diplomats that Egypt's position remained the same as he announced Nov. 11-that an Israeli commitment to withdraw from Egyptian territory was the "basis of which there can be peace. Without it there can be no peace."

Israel has adamantly refused to give any such commitment in advance of an overall peace agreement.

The Cairo source said tte African mission submitted "ideas and suggestions" rather than proposals aimed at obtaining further clarification of Egypt's position.

Nixon Fears Any Europe Cutbacks

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon said today that a Senate move to cut U.S. troop strength in Europe by 60,000 could severely damage the American position in "vitally important new initiatives for peace" with the Russians.

Nixon cautioned against the reduction, from a present force of 310,000 GIs in Western Europe. The cut is called for in an amendment approved by the Senate Appropriations Committee last week in the $71 billion defense money bill.

In addition to the troop reduction amendment, Senate doves served notice they would make another attempt to attach to the bill an amendment to force U.S. withdrawal from Indochina by cutting off all funds except for the withdrawal process.

Nixon cautioned against approval of the European troop reduction in a letter to Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., of the Senate Armed Services Committee. The letter was made public by Stennis late this morning and by the White House shortly afterward.

Nixon said a NATO emissary, Manlio Brosio, would be going to Moscow next week to begin discussions on balanced force reductions in Europe by NATO and Communist Warsaw Pact forces.

"At the same time, the Berlin negotiations have entered the final and most difficult stage," Nixon wrote. "As you know, we are also making significant progress in the SALT (strategic arms limitation talks) negotiations.

"We are now preparing to

Rail 'Unable To Meet Debts'

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The Reading Co., operator of the Reading Railroad, Tuesday filed for reorganization under the Federal Bankruptcy Act.

In a petition filed in U.S. District Court and signed by board chairman Charles A. Bertrand, the Reading said it was "unable to meet its debts as they mature."

The railroad, hard hit in recent weeks by the dock and coal strikes, said obligations due and payable totaled about $11 million.

Teacher Salary Hike Proposed

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The State College Board of Trustees will vote today on proposed faculty salary increases averaging 13 per cent, coupled with a 6 per cent increase in fringe benefits.

A board committee unanimously endorsed the pay hike proposal Monday in the wake of a veto last week by Gov. Ronald Reagan on a proposal for a 7.5 per cent wage increase.

The vote was taken after Vice Chancellor C. Mansel Keene told the Faculty and Staff Affairs Committee that state faculty members earn about $266 less a year than their counterparts at other schools.

Nixon Picks Rent Advisory Chief

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon appointed Thomas B. Curtis, a former congressman from Missouri, to head a 14-member board to make recommendations on rents and other landlord-tenant matters during government economic controls.

The Rent Advisory Board will have no real power but will provide advice to the Price Commission on matters involving rents. The commission has deferred most rent matters pending appointment of the board.

Foreign Aid Bill Stays Alive

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon has signed a temporary measure to keep the foreign aid program alive until Dec. 8 while congress works out new legislation. The continuing resolution also extended government spending for the same period for the office of economic opportunity, the District of Columbia and some Defense Department programs.

The president also signed a bill making it illegal to shoot wildlife from an aircraft and another measure continuing for two years the suspension of tariffs on some categories of silk yarn.

College Board Approves 32-Cent N. Campus Tax

A 32-cent building tax rate to finance the first stages of the Indian Valley colleges was approved last night by the Marin Community College District board.

The building tax rate for 1972-73 will raise $2.24 million for the site development of the Novato campus and for improvement of the College of Marin campus in Kentfield, according to Supt. John A. Grasham.

The board thereby sidestepped a roadblock thrown up Nov. 2 when voters refused to pass a $16.8 million bond issue intended to finance the work.

Grasham said that if the bond issue had passed, the building tax rate for 1972-73, now at 25.6 cents, would have been cut to 4 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

While voter disapproval of the bond failed to stop construction of the Novato campus and improvements in Kentfield, it has slowed them down. Grasham said the district's 10-year building plan might require 20 years to complete on the pay-as-you-go basis adopted by the board last night.

Dale A. Fleming, district planner, had urged the board to act by Dec. 1 so he could prepare the necessary applications for state buildings funds.

The district cannot levy the tax unless the projects it would finance are approved by the Board of Governors of the California Community College District and the state Department of Finance, and then included in the state's 1972-73 budget, Grasham said.

The state would pay 40 per cent of any construction cost if the conditions are met, Grasham said. He said the 32-cent rate is a ceiling that will be reached only if all projects are approved.

The work planned for 1972-73 will include preparation of the Novato site for building, architects' drawings, flood control at the Kentfield campus, renovation of the old art building and installation of library equipment at the College of Marin, Grasham said.

The board also asked its staff to prepare a statement on what facilities can be provided, the time schedule, and the number of students that can be handled if the district continues on a pay-as-you-go program, Grasham said.

Illegal Ruling Over Skyscraper

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The sale of part of a city street, which is being used for the construction of an 835-foot skyscraper, was illegal, a judge ruled Monday.

Judge Jay Pfotenhauer, calling for further proceedings, did not decide whether Transamerica Corp. will have to halt construction.

Acting on a suit brought by two taxpayers, the judge ruled that the city underpriced the part of Merchant Street, between Sansome and Montgomery streets, which it sold. The judge noted the city charter prohibits sales at less than 90 per cent of the preliminary appraisal. He found that the city sold the alley-land at $62.50 a square foot and that ithad been appraised originally at $125 a square foot.

Senate Demos Push Big Cut In Taxes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With a majority of the Republicans voting no, the Senate Monday passed a bill cutting business and individual taxes by more than $27 billion over the next three years —far more than President Nixon sought for revival of the economy.

Democrats made good their vow to change the bill to put most of the tax savings in the hands of individuals, ot corporations.

When the bill passed at the end of a marathon 14-hour session by a 64-30 vote, only 16 Republicans voted for it and 26 voted against it.

Their complaint was about the rider attached by the Democrats to provide public financing of presidential election campaigns, a provision expected to give the Democrats $20.4 million for their White House race next year. The Republicans said they would spurn the money.

"A raid on the treasury by every special interest group starting with the Democratic Party," Sen. Gordon Allott, RColo., called the bill. "The economic program of the President has been warped out of recognition. There has been no real effort to curb the insatiable appetite of some senators to grab everything for political gain."

The expectation was that the tax cuts will be whittled down to close to the $15.4 billion over three years provided in tax relief by the House.

The chopping will be done by a House-Senate conference committee which must write a final compromise version.

The bill seeks to enhance the economy by increasing consumer spending through tax cuts; to encourage firms to modernize by allowing them to subtract from taxes the cost of new equipment, and to induce exports through tax savings for firms which sell their products abroad.

It also seeks to create 250,000 new jobs in the auto industry — which directly or indirectly employs one out of six working people —by repealing the 7 per cent auto excise tax and the 10 per cent tax on light trucks retroactive to Aug. 15.

For individuals, the big tax cut comes from raising the $650 lersonal exemption to $675 for income earned in 1971. The House bill provides a $750 exemption for income earned in future years. The Senate figure is $800.

This would cut taxes for a family of four with 10 per cent deductions and $7,500 in taxable income by $72 on this year's earnings, $111 on 1972 earnings and $64 on income earned in 1973 and subsequently. The figures in the House bill for the same family are $29, $77 and $30.

But since Social Security taxes will rise next year for persons earning over $7,800, the increase in take home pay will be nearly nil. The tax increase is $62.40 for those earning $9,000 or more a year. It is achieved by raising the amount of income subject to the 5.2 per cent payroll tax.

Senate Demos Attach Campaign Fund Rider To Tax Cut Proposal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — the Senate Monday handed President Nixon a political dilemma —whether to veto his tax cut bill and undermine his economic recovery program, or sign it and give the Democrats $20.4 million to mount an election campaign against him.

The Democrats take it for granted that the rider they attached to the bill — over bitter Republican hostility—to provide for taxpayer financing of presidential election campaigns will be in the bill when it reaches Nixon's desk.

From the Senate, the bill went Monday night to a House-Senate conference committee, which will meet after Thanksgiving to reconcile difference between the House and Senate versions of the bill. Its compromise version must clear both houses before enactment.

The bill was approved on a 52 to 47 vote with California's two Democratic senators — Alan Cranston and John Tunney — supporting it.

The House version did not carry the campaign finance procedure. But Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., who will head the House delegation to the committee, long has favored such an idea —and is himself a presidential hopeful for 1972 who might benefit from it.

As revised in debate, the measure would allow taxpayers to check a box on their tax returns diverting $1 of their taxes ($2 for a joint return) to the presidential candidate of the party of their choice or to a nonpartisan found.

If enough taxpayers cooperate, the device would permit each major party to receive $20.4 million, based on a formula allotting 15 cents to every person over age 18. George C. Wallace, if he runs, would get $6.3 million.

The Republicans, planning a television-heavy campaign that Democrats say will cost $40 million, will spurn the public money; Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, the national Republican chairman, said they would have "no part of it."

But the Democrats, still $9 million in debt from their 1968 campaign, certainly will take it.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Xerox Developer Wilson Dies

NEW YORK (UPI) — Joseph C. Wilson, chairman of Xerox Corp. and a man responsible for revolutionizing office work around the world, died yesterday of a heart attack suffered while attending a lunch with Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Wilson

Shortly after World War II, Wilson took a gamble on a new copying process that at the time of his death had brought a new dimension to the business world and made the name of his company a common verb in the popular vernacular.

Wilson, 61, attended a Xerox management meeting yesterday at the company's New York office and accepted a luncheon date with Rockefeller, with whom he had worked on two state committees.

Spokesmen for Rockefeller said the governor was "extremely shaken" by the death at his Fifth Avenue apartment.

Wilson was born in Rochester, N.Y., was graduated from the University of Rochester and Harvard Business School and joined Haloid, manufacturer of photographic supplies.

With Haloid, the predecessor of Xerox, Wilson rose to president at the age of 36. Later he developed a new copying process called xerography invented by Chester F. Carlson. The process later took the business world by storm.

'Recycled' Humphrey Backed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assembly majority floor leader Walter Karabian has announced his support of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination, describing him as a "recycled politician."

Karabian

Karabian told a news conference yesterday that Humphrey, who lost the 1968 presidential election to Richard Nixon, is "out of the shadow" of former President Johnson.

"He's a recycled politician," the Monterey Park Democrat said.

"The Hubert Humphrey of today is a man whose judgment has been tempered by long experience and whose character has been strengthened by adversity," he added.

Humphrey has not yet announced his plan regarding the 1972 presidential election.

Mariner Distraction

Scientists also confessed disappointment that the dust storm that has temporarily spoiled their picture-taking is subsiding so slowly that no improvement was noticed in Monday night's photos.

The Mariner sensing mechanism somehow picked up the light from an object "about 100 times brighter than Canopus" Sunday and swung around to fix on that, a spokesman at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory said.

The scientists radioed commands to Mariner that brought it back where it belonged 48 minutes later, but were left to puzzle over the source of the distraction.

Belfast Roundup

BELFAST (UPI) — British troops fired at a gunman carrying a rifle, dispersed a gang of youths with rubber bullets and rounded up security suspects and weapons today in a sweep through Belfast's Roman Catholic districts.

An army spokesman said troops were unable to report whether they hit the gunman during their four-hour search operations in the Ballymurphy and Westrock Road areas of the city.

Election Killings

MANILA (UPI) — Government troops killed 44 Filipino Moslems Monday in two separate incidents which marred special elections in the southern Philippines, a military spokesman said today.

The incidents could touch off international repercussions. A number of Moslem countries, including Malaysia and Libya, have already protested alleged persecution and genocide of the Moslem minority. The government has denied the charge.

A spokesman at constabulary national police headquarters said 27 Moselms were killed and 54 others wounded in an encounter Monday night with army troops in a checkpoint near Magsaysay town in Lanao del Norte province 450 miles south of Manila. Reports said 10 of the wounded Moslems died later. The army suffered two wounded.

Formal SALT Talk

VIENNA (UPI) — Soviet and American delegates to the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT), met for two hours today in another of the unusually intensive meetings which have marked the Vienna discussions.

A conference source said the entire two hours were taken up with formal presentations by the chief delegates, Gerard C. Smith and Vladimir Semenov. Normally, SALT meetings are part formal and part informal conversation, but the last two sessions have both been given over entirely to formal statements.

The source called the meeting "businesslike and serious" and said both sides were "seriously at work." But he refused to speculate on the possibility of an agreement before the end of the year.

Hopes For Morphine

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Drug researchers testing a pain-killing drug discovered accidentally that monkeys will refuse morphine. The finding has raised hopes the drug will work the same way with drug addicts.

The drug is not ready for testing on humans, but experts believe it could suggest a new approach to the problem of narcotic addiction.

Reporters were told of the discovery Monday by Dr. John Adams of the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Special Task Force on Drug Abuse which is helping coordinate industry research in drug abuse — particularly heroin addiction.

Adams emphasized the results were a chance observation and that new tests were being conducted to find out if the compound could have significant application.

Saigon Launches Cambodian Drive

SAIGON (UPI)—Three columns of South Vietnamese troops supported by U.S. jets and helicopters pushed into Cambodia today in a new drive to blunt a guerrilla threat to Phnom Penh and a long-range threat to Saigon.

Army of the Republic of Vietnam (ARVN) troops along a curving 100-mile front moved in landing ships up the Mekong and Bassac Rivers toward the Cambodian capital, in vehicles into the Parrot's Beak area and by helicopter into the Krek rubber plantation area 50 miles north of the Parrot's Beak.

UPI Correspondent Stewart Kellerman, reporting from headquarters for the Krek operation, said 25 guerrillas had been killed Monday and today at a cost of 20 ARVN paratroopers wounded.

He said three paratroop battalions were lifted by U.S. and ARVN helicopters to landing zones respectively one, two and nine miles northwest of Krek.

UPI-independent television news cameraman Tran Dai Minh flew over the first two areas by helicopter and reported paratroops fanning out through the jungles in search of the guerrillas.

The only contact, however, was reported by patrols sent to the area around Chup, 25 miles northwest of Krek.

Kellerman reported 35 ARVN and 30 Army helicopters lifting troops and flying gunship missions in support of the Krek column.

The three columns were reinforcing ARVN troops already in place for a new push against the guerrillas. ARVN soldiers have been operating continuously in Cambodia since the U.S.-AARVN invasion there in May, 1970.

UPI Correspondent Kenneth J. Braddick reported from Can Tho headquarters in the Mekong Delta that the mission of the troops brought upriver in tank landing ships (LST's) was to clear the banks of both the Mekong and Bassac Rivers.

His Ninth Rescue

BILBAO, Spain (UPI)—Jose Maria Peree, 29, dived off the stern of his ship Monday and pulled a drowning man from Bilbao Harbor. It was the ninth person the Spanish sailor has rescued, the news agency Cifra said.

200 Remember JFK In Dallas

DALLAS (UPI)—A small girl, her pigtails dampened by rain, edged her way through the crowd of about 200 persons and placed a card among the yellow chrysanthemums.

"We'll never forget. Love, Barbara," it read.

The rain and raw winds were a sharp contrast to that day eight years ago, the kind of November day that comes occassionally in Texas with summerlike temperatures and clear blue skies.

On that day—Nov. 22, 1963—President John F. Kennedy was shot to death with a high powered rifle by an assassin perched in the Texas School Book Depository.

The depository is boarded up now, with "No trespassing" signs posted on it. Two blocks away, the small group gathered in the rain and chill Monday to pay their respects on the eighth anniversary of the late President's death.

"Let us declare today that we will renew ourselves in the spirit of John F. Kennedy and for the ideals he stood for," Mayor Wes Wise said in the brief ceremony.

The ceremony was conducted at the John F. Kennedy Memorial, a 50-foot square structure two blocks from the assassination site. A wreath of multicolored flowers was laid on the center slab bearing the simple gold inscription "John F. Kennedy."

Then there was a moment of silence.

The memorial has no roof and rain fell on the residents and tourists who attended.

World Cities Feel Brunt Of Booming Population

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—More and more of the world's people are moving to the cities, which are getting bigger and more numerous, the United Nations' latest statistical survey shows.

The steady increase in the population to a total of 3.632 billion as of the middle of 1970 and the increase in urban areas were the principal trends emphasized in the U.N. Demographic Yearbook, issued Monday.

Between 1965 and 1970 mankind's birth rate was nearly 2 ½ times greater than his death rate, the study said. The population increased by more than one billion persons in the past 20 years and at the same rate of growth will reach 6.5 billion in 30 years.

The yearbook said there now are seven nations with more than 100 million persons each—the Republic of China, the Soviet Union, the United States, India, Pakistan, Indonesia and Japan.

Not only nations but cities are getting bigger. Only a little more than 10 years ago, the world had 29 cities with a million residents. Now there are 133 such cities.

Innocent Plea To Burglary Charge

I-J Special Report

REDWOOD CITY — Joseph Edwin Tucker, 31, of Novato, has pleaded innocent in San Mateo County Superior Court to a charge of burglarizing a motel room near San Francisco Airport.

A jury trial has been set for Feb. 7, with a pretrail conference to be held Jan. 21.

Tucker was arrested in August after he allegedly tripped a burglar alarm at the Holiday Inn. He was stopped by two bellboys and police.

PUC Thaws Rate Hikes In State

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The California Public Utilities Commission Monday thawed rate increases frozen during the first phase of President Nixon's economic program.

The commission approved 43 rate increases in all. They ranged from natural gas charges to Southern Pacific and Greyhound commuter fares.

Pacific Gas and Electric Co. was granted a $17 million rate increase to be paid by natural gas customers. Commission economists estimated the hike will cost consumers 22 cents on a $10 monthly gas bill.

A 6.5 per cent statewide increase was granted Greyhound bus passenger and freight services.

Representative fare increases granted Greyhound included: San Francisco-Los Angeles, one-way, up from $12.78 to $13.56; San Francisco-San Mateo, one-way, 90 cents to $1.

An average 10 per cent increase in Southern Pacific suburban commute rates between San Francisco and San Jose was approved.

The PUC estimated Greyhound would gain an additional $3.2 million and SP $400,000.

Increases were also granted several independent telephone companies. However, a commission spokesman said these rate hikes will not become effective until the companies apply for them.

The commission said the ruling allows the independent firms to pass on to the customer certain increases generated by the recent $143 million rate increase granted to Pacific Telephone Co.

Increases ranging from 4 to 50 per cent were granted in 28 rate applications filed by a host of transportation companies. The firms ranged from Southern Pacific and Santa Fe to local hauling and warehousing companies.

More Testimony On Payments To Alioto

VANCOUVER, Wash. (UPI) —John M. Nelson, superintendent of Seattle City Light, said Monday he did not tell anyone until 1969 that payments to Mayor Joseph Alioto of San Francisco had gone over $1 million in 1965.

Nelson returns to the witness stand for a third day today in trial of a $2.3 million civil lawsuit against Alioto and two former Washington State officials.

The state and 12 publicly owned utilities are seeking refund of $2.3 million they paid Alioto for serving as their attorney in antitrust suits in the 1960s before he became mayor. Seattle is among the utilities involved in both the current suit and the antitrust suits.

The state and utilities claim they were not told about removal of a $1 million ceiling from Alioto's fee or that he would share the fee with John J. O'Connell, then attorney general of Washington State, and George K. Faler, an assistant to O'Connell. The two men received $802,000.

Nelson had testified earlier that Seattle received a refund of $116,900 on its share of the fee in 1967 after Nelson and others told O'Connell they had learned late in 1966 that the fee ceiling had been removed the previous year.

Nelson said Monday he did not discuss the refund with anyone. "I did not tell anyone the fee had gone over $1 million until some years later—in 1969," Nelson said. Kenneth A. MacDonald, attorney for Faler, asked if that was after the matter had received publicity. "Yes," Nelson replied.

Under cross examination by MacDonald, Nelson said he attended meetings of half a dozen groups from time to time in the 1960s at which representatives of other utilities involved in the antitrust suits were present.

"Conversations about that (the suits) were surprisingly few," he said. "The matter was in good hands, was being pressed and there was not much to talk about."

He said he served as vice chairman of the steering committee of Washington utilities antitrust group, the organization formed by the utilities to press their antitrust claims.

Asked by MacDonald how he was named the steering committee, Nelson replied, "I'm really not quite sure."

Asked how he got off, he answered, "It quit meeting." He said the committee met for less than a year.

MacDonald also asked if Nelson ever had difficulty obtaining information from Faler, who served as coordinator for the group. Nelson said, "No—with the possible exception of a final audit, which was difficult to come by."

MacDonald tried, but failed, to find out from Nelson how much the city of Seattle seeks in the current suit. William Helsell, attorney for the plaintiffs, interrupted the questioning to state that a proposed agreement on a complicated formula setting the amounts to be allocated to individual utilities was being circulated among the plaintiffs for their approval.

MacDonald said, "This is the secret we have never been able to solve."

Sanitary District Hikes Pay

With the wage freeze lifted, the Novato Sanitary District board last night granted an across-the-board pay hike of 5.5 per cent, the maximum allowed.

Dist. Mgr. Charles A. Joseph said the pay increase would cost $9,600 annually, including fringe benefits.

The pay hike was the first since August, 1970, he said. Salary raises usually are considered in August but were held up this year because of the freeze, he reported.

The Novato Sanitary District board also:

Mock Fire Drill For South Marin

Thirteen pieces of firefighting equipment and 26 firemen converged on Strawberry Town and Country Village shopping center yesterday in the first of a series of mutual aid drills involving seven Southern Marin fire departments.

Within 22 minutes of the first alarm, men and equipment from Sausalito, Belvedere, Tiburon, Mill Valley, Alto, Tamalpais Valley and the County of Marin had arrived on the scene of a mock fire at the Ancient Mariner restaurant.

Sausalito Fire Chief Charles E. Master said the drills are being conducted because California Insurance Services, a rating bureau for fire departments, has penalized Southern Marin fire agencies for not getting enough men and equipment to the scene of fires.

Although the departments have had mutual aid agreements for some time, he said, this is the first time interdepartment drills have been conducted in Southern Marin.

The purpose of the drills is to test response time and to familiarize Southern Marin firemen with equipment of other departments, Master said.

$6,250 In Items Taken In Burglary

Thieves broke into the San Geronimo National Golf Clubhouse yesterday morning or the night before and carted away $6,250 worth of clothing and golf equipment.

William Henderson of Novato, the golf professional, told a sheriff's deputy he arrived for work yesterday morning and found that the inside alarm had been turned off.

Missing were 260 sets of golf slacks, 19 putters, four sets of golf clubs and countless sweaters and shirts. About $50 in cash was also missing from the cash register.

Louis Mancini, manager of the clubhouse at 5500 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, told officers that the cook's ring of keys had been taken about a month and a half ago. These may have been used to gain entry.

Two large laundry bags were taken from the clubhouse dressing room, perhaps, according to investigators, to carry some of the loot.

undertake vitally important new initiatives for peace in two great capitals of the world. If these initiatives are to gain positive results in the months and years ahead, I must be able to rely on the firm support and the substantial and creative contribution of a bipartisan Congress."

Nixon said the Appropriations Committee action approving Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield's proposal to trim U.S. forces in Europe to 250,000 was "ill timed." Passage, he said, "would, with one stroke, diminish western military capability in Europe and signal to friend and adversary alike a disarray and weakness of purpose in the American government."

Nixon said implications of approval of the troop cut were much broader than Europe and could seriously affect the delicate military balance in the Mideast as well.

The President's press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, amplified on Nixon's remarks with respect to the Mideast, saying a mandatory, unilateral drawback would "seriously affect the delicate military balance in the eastern Mediterranean area by thinning of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces in that area."

Five Injured In Cotati Wreck

Five persons were injured in an automobile accident at 5:40 p.m. yesterday at 8025 Gravenstein Highway, Cotati.

Treated and released were his mother, Janice Brummer, 31, with a head cut; his sister, Margaret Brummer, 11, leg cuts; and Cynthia Morrison, 18, of the same address, arm cuts. The California Highway Patrol had no details of the accident.

Art Center Given Old Bayside Lease

The Sausalito School District board last night made it official and signed a one-year lease to allow the Sausalito Art Center to occupy the old Bayside School property on Nevada Street, Trustee Warren K. Hansen reported.

The board had approved the new rental agreement at a special meeting Nov. 11 and given the arts center until yesterday to sign the document or face eviction.

Diana Brewer, president of the Sausalito Arts Association, signed the lease yesterday. The new rental contract raises the center's rent from $80 to $150 a month and also changes the time the lease will run from five years to one year.

It contains a clause which permits either the district or center to terminate the contract with 90 days notice.

The squabble over the center lease began in July when the school board voted to evict the center within 30 days because a rental contract signed in 1969 had never been ratified by the federal government which owns the Bayside land.

The board later changed its mind about ousting the center and entered negotiations to arrive at a contract acceptable to the district, the center and the federal government.

The government approved the lease last week.

nix, toward lowering barriers to voting and public accommodation by Negroes.

Some Negro leaders, including members of the Black Caucus in the House, had also called for rejection of Powell but Bayh and other leading foes of Rehnquist made clear early in the hearings they would not oppose Powell.

The committee's decision on both men followed a month of public and private hearings and investigations of the nominees.

With today's committee approval assured, the chief remaining question was how much time opponents of Rehnquist would be allowed to write a minority report detailing their opposition.

It was understood the majority report, favoring confirmation of both nominees, already was written.

Normally the committee allows at least a week for preparation of minority views.

Rehnquist's opponents, however, want longer this time, because the Thanksgiving Day holiday will cut out two work days from this week.

Jets Make Din Over Novato

Scores of jet fighter aircraft set up a din over Novato last night on a series of flights in an unannounced training exercise.

The noise of the flights penetrated a meeting of the city planning commission at Novato Community House and were heard by residents from 10 p.m. past midnight.

Capt. Joseph W. Corfield Jr., public information officer at Hamilton Air Force Base, said the flights were by the 84th Fighter Interceptor Squadron "on an operational exercise."

One resident on the south side said it sounded as though the planes were coming through the window of her home.

Firemen Will Hold Party For Children

Fire Chief Jack Kidder said Santa Claus will be on hand to greet children.

The volunteers also have scheduled nomination of officers for Dec. 13 and election on Dec. 27.

Special Session On Accepting Of Grant

The Rohnert Park City Council will meet in special session at 7:30 p.m. today to accept a $421,000 federal grant to finance half the cost of an overpass at Highway 101 to improve access to Sonoma State College and to link the community's industrial and commercial areas.

The state Highway Commission is expected to approve the remaining $421,000 that will be needed for the work.

SCHOOLS

Collins also recommended formation of several committees, including one to review district discipline policies; one to examine staff inservice (continuous training) needs, and one to sponsor local school meetings to delve into problems mentioned in the petition.

The board also reaffirmed a longstanding policy that it favors providing alternatives and options, a move that drew fire from a trustee and an audience member.

"I don't see how anyone could be against that (the policy)," said Trustee John H. Cutler. "But if I were petitioning I would find scant comfort in it. I think this is one area where the board's actions will have to speak louder than its words."

Thomas D. Spencer, of 429 Live Oak Drive, agreed, calling the reaffirmation "just rhetoric." He charged the meeting with being "extremely general, with serious issues dealt with in a light manner."

He argued that transfers in the middle of the school year would be harmful to children, and complained many of the points raised by petitioners hadn't been dealt with in Collins's report.

Morgan Yamanaka, of 76 South Knoll Road, said he was "disappointed with the meeting." He said trustees should have expressed their views before Collins made his recommendations.

Collins was defended, however, by Trustee John G. Eliot Jr., who said it was appropriate for the superintendent to make some preliminary recommendations before the board acted.

Board member Joseph E. Bodovitz cautioned the petitioners that the board has an obligation to hear their complaints but also to keep in mind those persons who have said they oppose the petition.

"What we're being told," he said, "is that we should react to what was stated in the petition but we shouldn't overreact."

Philadelphia Dope Trial Plea Change

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Thomas B. Vallejo, 28, Langhorne, Pa., one of five persons on trial in federal court in connection with the alleged smuggling of a ton of marijuana, changed his plea from innocent to guilty to two counts of a five-count indictment today.

The trial, now in its second week in U. S. District Court, was interrupted to permit Vallejo to change his plea.

Among the four still on trial is David Miller, 34, of Corte Madera. Another Marinite, Leonard M. Glassberg, 35, of Novato, has pleaded guilty in the case.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Jeffrey Miller told Judge Charles Weiner that Vallejo was pleading guilty to one count involving conspiracy and one involving the pickup of the marijuana at North Philadelphia Airport.

Miller indicated Vallejo would testify as a witness for the prosecution against the four still on trial.

A friend of Edson Whipple, another of the defendants, told the jury Monday that Whipple once told him of a plan to set up a 6,000 acre "pot farming" operation in British Honduras.

Spleen Removal After Accident

Two persons were injured in a collision on Highway 101 at Atherton Avenue in Novato yesterday, according to the California Highway Patrol.

One of the victims, Hannelure Singley, 33, of 550 Sunset Parkway, Novato, was reported in satisfactory condition today at Hamilton Air Force Base Hospital where her spleen was removed following the accident.

Officers said her car, westbound on Atherton Avenue, and a car driven north on Highway 101 by Stanley P. Bazycki, collided at 3:55 p.m.

Bazycki, 29, of 1505 Joan Drive, Petaluma, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a slight concussion and for scrapes and bruises of the scalp.

Two Incumbents Are Sworn In

Returning directors Joseph F. Silviera and Henry V. Alvernaz took the oath of office last night after the Novato Fire District board canvassed the Nov. 2 vote.

New director Richard W. Price will take his oath Wednesday and the new board will officially be formed Friday, according to Jack Kidder, fire chief.

Director Fernando Clementino who was defeated will attend his last meeting as a director at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the main fire station.

By canvass, the vote was Silveira, 3,974, up 12 from the unofficial count reported Nov. 3; Alvernaz, 3,944, up 10; Price, 3,502, up six; and Clementino, 2,629, up 12.

Treated For Crash

Rodney Harrison, 22, of Ukiah, was treated at Marin General Hospital at 8:30 a.m. yesterday for back strain suffered in an auto accident. No further details of the accident were available.

Woman Injures Head In Crash

Shela Ann Cody, of 1313 Beachwood Drive, was treated at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Rafael.

The California Highway Patrol said the accident occurred at 7:45 a.m. when a car driven by John T. Williams, 57, of 408 San Paulo Way, Novato, stopped in heavy traffic and was struck from behind by a vehicle driven by Thomas A. Cody, 34, also of the Petaluma address.

Design Of Office Wins Approval

The Corte Madera Board of Design Review last night approved the design of a real estate office planned for 626 Tamalpais Drive.

The single-story structure designed by town councilman Harold B. Wagstaff would replace an existing home, according to Elizabeth Long, board secretary.

She said final approval of the office for Earl Solvason must come from the town Planning Commission.

The board also approved the design of a new storage yard at Big 4 Rents, 5718 Paradise Drive, after requiring more landscaping, Mrs. Long said.

Window Smashed

A window was smashed between 4:45 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. yesterday at Granada School, according to Corte Madera police.

UP, UP OR AWAY

Charles Eckles of the Fairfax Design Review board studies the signs of Herb and Joe's Restaurant for possible violations of the city's sign ordinance. The board was touring the city Sunday looking for nonconforming signs and this was one that caught their eye. The larger identification sign will have to be either raised 10 feet above the sidewalk or removed to conform to the ordinance, board members said. When the round of inspection tours is complete — probably in January — all violators will be notified, according to Ernestine Healy, board secretary.

Interim Water Plan Presented

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — A $9.5 million interim water supply plan for Southern Sonoma and North Marin was recommended yesterday to the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors.

The supervisors, sitting as water agency directors, had been awaiting details of the plan as an alternative to the Sonoma-Marin Aqueduct which was overwhelmingly defeated by Marin voters on Nov. 2.

Miller said the plan would be presented in detail to all contractual users including Petaluma. City Engineer David A. Young has warned the city council that all development must halt after next summer unless additional water can be supplied.

Young and the Petaluma City Council have urged that county plans for additional water be carried out quickly so the economic effects of a halt in construction can be reduced as much as possible. Young estimated that Petaluma will be using the maximum amount of water available next summer and that water rationing would be inevitable if more homes were to be built.

Gordon Miller, chief engineer of the Sonoma County Water Agency, yesterday recommended a two-phase plan be started soon to supply an additional 15 million gallons of water per day by 1975.

Miller estimated construction costs at $8,642,000 at current prices, but recommended the board authorize the sale of $9,506,000 in revenue bonds to allow for inflation during the three-year construction period.

The initial plan would include construction of a new 20-inch water line from the Wohler pumping station to new wells on the Russian River and construction of a new booster pump station between Santa Rosa and Cotati.

The second phase would involve installation of a new 30-inch water line from the Russian River to Cotati where it would connect with the present north-south line for Petaluma and North Marin. Miller also proposed construction of a six-million gallon storage tank in the Cotati area for the new water supply.

Miller said the system could be completed in 1975 if construction were to begin in the near future. He said it would increase the water supply from the present capacity of 40 million gallons per day to 55 million.

The supervisors instructed Miller to meet with representatives of cities and districts which buy water on a contract basis to get their reactions to the plan and to report back to the board on Dec. 13.

Policy On Pool Rental Established

The Rohnert Park Recreation Commission last night established a pool rental policy and rate structure.

Recreation Director James Pekkain said the commission agreed that private groups and those from outside the city would be charged $15 per hour for pool use. The rate of city groups, school, service clubs and youth groups was set at $2.50 per hour for each life guard required.

Pekkain said the commission agreed that city-sponsored groups and activities would continue to use the pools free.

In other business, Pekkain reported that a basketball league for girls between fourth and ninth grades would begin Dec. 4 and that an astrology class is tentatively set to start Jan. 14.

He told the commission that the community center is now open for use by college students on Sundays from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

Mailliard Campaign Reform Bill

By BENJAMIN SHORE
I-J Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, has joined 16 other House Republicans in urging passage of the Senate's campaign-spending reform legislation.

The House will resume its consideration of this and several other reform bills after the Thanksgiving recess.

Mailliard, in an interview, said he has "mixed feelings" about laws that would place limits on campaign spending.

"It's a tough question because the costs of campaigning vary from district to district," he said. "I think $50,000 (which is the limit proposed in one House bill) would be too low for a challenger in my district."

Mailliard said he normally spends between $25,000 and $30,000 for his primary and general election campaigns.

The Senate proposal supported by Mailliard would allow flexible spending limits, strong requirements for public disclosure of campaign contributions and an enforcement procedure independent of Congressional control.

But he said he would not oppose any other bill that comes before the House because he is confident it could be toughened in a conference with the Senate.

Mailliard said he never has contributed to his own campaigns, with the exception of his first unsuccessful one in 1948 and then his winning campaign in 1952.

For many years, he instructed his campaign committee to limit individual contributions to $500, but decided recently to raise the limit to $1,000 because of rapidly rising campaign costs.

"Now I'm seriously thinking of raising it to $1,500," he said.

'Adult' Book Dealer Reports Big Theft

A San Rafael book distributor, awaiting trial on a charge of having a warehouse full of obscene magazines, yesterday complained to police that someone had broken into the warehouse and driven away two trucks full of magazines.

Missing were two Dodge vans, valued at $2,700 and $3,000 each, and more than $2,000 worth of "adult magazines," according to Donald Calvin Warnecke, manager of Sand Oak Distributors at 62 Belvedere Street, San Rafael.

Police said the theft apparently occurred about 5:40 a.m. yesterday when a passing bus driver noticed two men driving vans without their headlights on out of the warehouse.

The thieves had apparently climbed on the roof of the building and then drilled their way into the warehouse.

Warnecke along with a partner, Eddie Louis Burleson, are due to go on trial Jan. 10 in Marin Municipal Court on 40 misdemeanor counts of possessing obscene literature with intent to distribute it.

They were arrested almost two years ago in a Christmas Eve raid on the warehouse where hundreds of magazines with titles like "Pussy Willow," "Pleasure Partners" and "Raunchy" were seized.

Youths Jailed In Grand Theft

Two 18-year-old San Rafael youths were booked into Marin County Jail yesterday by Larkspur police on suspicion of grand theft and vehicle tampering.

Police said Donald K. Clark of 281 Woodland Avenue and Kirk E. Shivell of 208 Riviera Drive were arrested at 11:40 p.m. Sunday while taking tires from a car.

Police said they had staked out the car of Jacqueline H. Suttle at 290 Via Casita after a report of suspicous persons near the car.

Each was held on $500 bail to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Tape Deck Stolen

A Clout On Head From An Intruder

A bold burglar crept through a Terra Linda home last night while its occupant slept, then hit him over the head with a barbecue spit before taking off.

Bertram McKee, 64, of 400 Hickory Lane told a deputy sheriff he retired about 9 o'clock last night.

About an hour later, he awakened at a noise in his bedroom and spotted a man's figure standing near the bed. Without warning, the intruder began hitting him with what later turned out to be a barbecue spit taken from his patio.

McKee said he fought back, grabbed the spit, and began swinging at the burglar, who then fled out the front door. The attacker appeared to be 5 feet 8 or 10 inches tall and wore either a sport coat or a suit coat, said McKee.

The officer took McKee to Marin General Hospital where six stitches were used to close the wound on his forehead.

Settlement Is Seen For Teacher Strike

A federal mediator said yesterday there was a possibility of a settlement in the nine-day-old strike by lay teachers at seven Bay Area Roman Catholic high schools, including Marin Catholic in Kentfield.

Gene Barry of the U. S. Mediation and Conciliation Service said after two days of negotiating that the last major stumbling block is whether the teachers will get a raise for the 1971-72 school year.

Barry said the pay increase might be difficult since it would require a tuition increase. Gerald Killian, president of the striking Secondary Teachers Association Local 2240, said it would cost each Catholic in the Archdiocese 1.3 cents per week to grant the strikers demands.

Negotiations were to resume in San Francisco today.

Marin Catholic reported virtually normal operating conditions today. About five pickets paraded outside the school.

A similar strike in New York entered its second day. Two schools were closed and no bargaining session has been scheduled. A spokesman for the Federation of Catholic Teachers said more than 1,000 of the system's 2,800 lay teachers struck, although the Archdiocese of New York disputed the figure.

Innocent Plea Entered In Trident Robbery

Edward Walter Devaney, 32, accused of the scuba gear robbery of Trident restaurant in Sausalito on Oct. 25, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court.

Judge Robert A. Smallman set preliminary hearing for Dec. 7.

Devaney and his alleged accomplice, William Ettleman of El Cajon, are accused of armed robbery and using an acetylene torch to force open a safe and get away with about $30,000.

Devaney is being held in Marin County Jail in lieu of $150,000 bail, which his attorney tried to lower without success last week.

New Blast At Welfare Operation

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The State Department of Social Welfare has been accused by a Democratic Assemblyman of abandoning "any semblance of lawful behavior" in implementing the state's new Welfare Reform Law.

Assemblyman John J. Miller, D-Berkeley, delivered a sharp verbal blast against State Social Welfare Director Robert B. Carleson at a legislative hearing called to discuss the Welfare Revision Program.

"Mr. Carleson has resorted to blatantly illegal tactics in a last-ditch effort to save his own hide," Miller said Monday regarding certain welfare regulations proposed by Carleson's agency.

The Berkeley lawmaker was the sole witness at the hearing —the third held so far—by a special welfare committee headed by Sen. Anthony C. Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills.

"We legislators know that the governor's welfare reform shuck was built around an incredibly evil and cynical attempt to protect the rich and con the middle-class at the expense of the poor," Miller added.

His charges brought a sharp rejoinder from his Republican colleague, Assemblyman Dixon Arnett of Redwood City, who admonished him to refrain from making "political speeches."

Earlier, Assemblyman John L. Burton, D-San Francisco, and Carleson also engaged in a heated exchange over whether the state welfare agency was properly carrying out the intent of the legislature's welfare reform measure.

Both Burton and Beilenson contended many adult children of parents who are on the state's Aid to the Aged program are contributing more than the basic grant. They said this is contrary to the lawmakers' intent.

Carleson responded that counties were responsible for determining whether full grants should be paid based on the outside income of a recipient.

Novato Board Endorses Marin Plan. . .With An 'If'

The preliminary countywide master plan for Marin was endorsed last night by the Novato Planning Commission which cautioned, however, that any final master plan must incorporate city recommendations for Novato and the surrounding area.

The commission's recommendation that the city council approve the preliminary plan was coupled with notice to the county that suggestions of five specially created citizens committees must show up in the final plan approved by the city.

Commission approval came on a 5-to-0 vote, with commissioners John Schoonover and Richard O'Connell absent.

More than 100 of 112 persons who signed up to serve on the neighborhood committees attended the meeting in Novato Community House, where Werner Von Gundell, Marin County planning director, described the preliminary plan. The committees will study and recommend revisions of the Novato master plan — with which the county plan must not conflict, according to the planning commission.

Some members of the committee expressed concern over approving the preliminary plan before they had a chance to make their study.

Von Gundell assured them that their recommendations would be incorporated into the county plan when it is completed next year. Brian Mattson, Novato planning director, said that in the updating of the Novato master plan, the commission would use the findings of the committees.

The North Marin area has been divided into five community areas, including areas outside the Novato city limits.

Area one encompasses San Marin and the downtown area. Area Two holds everything east of Highway 101; Area Three, everything in west Novato south of Novato Boulevard to Indian Valley Road; Area Four, west of Highway 101 north of Ignacio Boulevard to Diablo Avenue, and Area Five, Marin Country Club Estates, Loma Verde and Hamilton Air Force Base.

Mattson set 8 p.m. next Monday for organizational meetings of the five committees. All committee meetings will be open to the public. Area One will meet in San Ramon School; Area Two in the council chamber in Novato Community House, Area Three in Sinaloa Junior High School, Area Four at Rancho School and Area Five in Loma Verde School.

Commission members and planning staff members will meet with each committee but only on an advisory basis. Each committee will organize as it sees fit, Mattson said.

He said that each committee should study not only its own area, but the entire North Marin area. If there is a disagreement, each committee should present a majority and minority report to the planning commission, he said.

Some of the major topics suggested for coverage by the community committees are: Novato in relation to all of Marin County; environmental quality of development; land use categories in the area and how they relate to specific areas such as Hamilton Air Force Base, Gnoss Field, Novato Bay flats, creeks, Petaluma River and Indian Valley Colleges.

Following the organizational meetings next Monday, each committee will select its time and place of meeting.

Their reports are due in February.

37th Stanford Heart Switch

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI)— Stanford University Medical Center has performed its 37th heart transplant operation. The recipient is a 49-year-old California man. The medical center reported Monday the man was in satisfactory condition following the operation Saturday night.

The patient was not identified, according to a new medical center policy. Sixteen of Stanford's heart transplant patients still are alive.

Son's Location Being Sought

McCready said his son was last seen at Seadrift in Stinson Beach where he lives with his mother. He was dressed at that time in a tan shirt and blue jeans, McCready said.

He said his son is 5-9, weighs 145 pounds and has brown hair, a mustache and a chipped front tooth.

The elder McCready said any information should be forwarded to him at 47 Coronet Avenue or to Adelaide McCready at 13 Seadrift Road.

Suspected Killer Of 5 Is Indicted

NEVADA CITY (UPI)—The Nevada County Grand Jury Monday night and indicted Alexander (John) Vichi on five counts of murder in the gun slaying of his wife and her four children Nov. 7.

Vichi, 41, also was indicted on two counts of assault with a deadly weapon in the wounding of Russell and Charlotte Faylor, the dead woman's parents and grandparents of the children.

No date for an arraignment has been set.

Mrs. Faylor, her right arm and left hand bandaged, testified before the grand jury, which returned the indictments immediately after the half-hour hearing.

Vichi was arrested in Sonoma County nine hours after his estranged wife, Charlene, 31, and the children were found shot to death in their pajamas at the Faylors' Grass Valley home. Vichi was the father of two of the children. The other two were his wife's by a previous marriage.

Tanker Spills Oil Into Ocean

MORRO BAY (UPI)—Crude oil was spilled from a tanker into the Pacific Ocean late Monday and was blown onto a nine-block stretch of sandy beach by brisk wind.

The state Fish and Game Department said the accident occurred as the tanker Lyon's Head, under contract to the Standard Oil Co. of California, was taking on oil from a pipeline which carries it from the San Joaquin Valley.

EXPLORER CAMP OUTS

The Coeducational Scouting Approach

By MARY BURNS

Periodically, Fort Cronkhite and Fort Barry, in the Marin Headlands, host Bay Area Boy Scout troops, and a campout at Rodeo Lagoon or a tour group is not an unusual sight.

But this past weekend, one group of scouts stood out from the rest because its composition reflected scouting's new look — coeducational troops.

The group, Novato Explorer Post 383, has five girls among its nine members. And two of the girls, Carla E. Lewis, 16, and Sharon A. Vandegrift, 17, participated in a weekend camp-out along with six male explorers and 10 members of Boy Scout Troop 83. Both groups are sponsored by Grace Lutheran Church of Novato.

The girls were drawn into the Explorer post because of their love of camping. "When you're in the Girl Scouts, if you get to go camping once a year it's a big thing," Miss Lewis, an ex-Girl Scout, said. She was hooked when she learned that, rain notwithstanding, the scouts camp out at least once a month.

A coed program for Explorers — youths between ages 14 and 18 — is among recent changes in Scouting. Post 383 claims to be the only troop in the Marin County scouting district with female members. It has actively recruited them.

"The girls carry their own weight," Scoutmaster Ricardo G. Kepperd said. They must pitch their own tents and carry their own back packs. So far the presence of girls has presented only one special problem.

Post leaders said they had to assure worried parents their daughters would be safe. They hope to offset further anxiety by adding a married, female committeeman to their staff who will be present on future campouts.

Although "no special treatment" is the official position, the girls say their fellow Explorers are eager to lend a hand. At the Headlands, "they wanted to help us carry our back packs," Miss Vandegrift said smiling. And the male Explorers pitched the girls tent — which fell down 30 minutes later.

Explorer girls enter posts at first class rank. Explorer scouting differs from Boy Scouts in that Explorers work only toward merit badges, rather than rank. The post elects its own officers and supervises its meetings and activities with the assistance of an adult adviser.

Each post specializes in some activity and Post 383 plans to specialize in emergency service. They soon will begin training with their post advisor, Eldon Bilbrey, and ultimately will be qualified to assist police and fire departments in rescue operations.

Bilbrey explained the object of the coed program is to introduce teen-age boys and girls to working together in practical situations with ease. "Teamwork" is the scout leader's recurring theme.

Muir Woods Group Elects

Other officers are Rae S. Taub, vice president; Jayne Jones Calkins, secretary, and Elsie Heimann, reelected as treasurer.

Four Dope Suspects Enter Pleas

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Four men arrested in connection with the confiscation of a truckload of marijuana in Marin on Oct. 17 have pleaded innocent in U.S. District Court to charges of conspiracy and possessing marijuana with intent to distribute it.

Charged are Allan G. Palmer, 30, of Novato; Harry J. Kreamer, 32, of Bolinas; Paul R. Pattengale, 32, of San Francisco, and Allister M. McKenzie, 29, of Boyes Hot Springs.

They are to return to court Dec. 17 for a hearing on pretrail motions.

Kreamer, an attorney, is also due to go on trial Nov. 29 in the federal court on another marijuana charge stemming from an indictment in August. He was arrested at Palmer's Novato home when agents said they found 20 pounds of pot in his car, parked outside the residence at 1709 Indian Valley Road.

Palmer was arrested at the same time on suspicion of harboring a fugitive named Leonard Glasberg, also known as Lenny the Lizard.

Glasberg, a fugitive from federal authorities, was picked up at the Palmer house. He was wanted in Florida on a charge of smuggling about two tons of pot.

The subsequent arrest of the four men came when agents traced a truck containing 800 pounds of marijuana to Northgate Industrial Park.

Pair Buried In A Bin Of Soybeans

VICKSBURG, Miss. (UPI)— Two men working in a bin about the size of a football field at the Paymaster Sxbean Mill were buried under two-million bushels of soybeans Monday.

The bodies of Everett M. Richardson, 20, and Lell Anderson Jr., 24, both of Vicksburg, were recovered several hours later.

'Watchdog' Measure Killed

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Professors at state colleges no longer have to sign for their pay by stating they really did the teaching work they were assigned.

A watchdog measure, it was approved last May, three months after a state college professor was fired for "moonlighting" at one college while a grad student taught one of his daily classes.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

We'll Pay Some More For Civic Center

Marin County has by no means heard the last of the cost of its Civic Center. That is obvious from the lawsuits and counter-suits over the Veterans Memorial Building and the Hall of Justice.

Paul V. Wright Inc. and Ben Oretksy Inc., contractors on the Veterans Memorial Building, are suing the county and the architects — Taliesen Associates, Frank Lloyd Wright Foundation, Aaron G. Green and William Wesley Peters — for $374,795. The contractors claim numerous errors and omissions in the plans were found during construction, causing delays and extra expense. This constitutes breach of contract, they allege.

County and architects have filed countersuits against the contractors, blaming them for a nine-month delay in opening of the building.

A SIMILAR SUIT against the county and the same architects has been filed by Robert E. McKee, Inc., contractor on the Hall of Justice, containing the same kind of allegations.

It claims county and architects "extensively redesigned the building beginning shortly after work had commenced and continuing throughout a major portion of the life of the contract."

And, as with the Veterans Memorial Building, county and architects have filed cross-complaints against McKee.

Who is at fault is something the courts will have to decide — whether the architects, or someone in county government, changed the rules in mid-game, whether the contractors failed to live up to their contracts, etc.

BUT WE KNOW who pays the bill. We do — all of us Marin County taxpayers.

We have paid once already, in increased costs for both buildings beyond the estimates on which the contracts were based. We will pay again, in costs for the court actions. We may pay a third time, if the county is found liable.

The Civic Center construction has seen a series of changes and a series of delays. None of the buildings has opened when scheduled. None has been completed quite as originally planned. And every one has cost more than estimated.

THERE IS NOT MUCH use in crying over this spilled milk — even if it does seem to have gold dust in it. But the county, and jurisdictions within it, might ponder the affaire Civic Center and try to draw some lessons from it.

One lesson might be that the Big Name — whether of architect, builder, administrator, planner, or whatever — is no assurance of satisfaction. The local man who is established here and must live with the results of his work may be a better bet.

Fame pays no tax bills.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Capture Of Dog Disturbs Witness

Today my husband came home very upset. In the vicinity of the Red Cart Grocery, Mill Valley, he saw an animal truck. The dog catcher tried to get on his leash three dogs but they escaped.

Then the man whistled friendly and coaxed to himself a beautiful and expensive hunting dog, white with brown spots (a pet, with a collar on and having a license). The dog ran to him trustfully. He grabbed it and pushed it into the animal truck before the poor thing had even comprehended what happened to it.

Today in a Mill Valley home a pet will be missed. There will be sorrow and tears for the whole family. I only hope this letter will indicate to them where to start looking for their dog.

But there is more to it: I understand that the pound and the Humane Society were created to take care of wounded, sick and starving animals, not catching peoples' pets in the vicinity of their homes, pets having a collar and a license on them.

It will be greatly appreciated if the Marin Humane Society and the Marin County Pound would investigate who was sent out to Mill Valley at the vicinity indicated on Nov. 17 and why this particular dog has been caught. . .

Pond In Corte Madera Park Neglected

Since becoming voting tax payers in this county in August, 1966, your paper has been a source of information and awareness concerning the county, and since March, of Corte Madera. We were wondering if you have any idea what is proposed for the pond in Corte Madera Park?

The people we have talked with in City Hall and neighborhood don't know or have conflicting ideas. It was not mentioned in your article of Nov. 7.

There is at least one year-round resident of the pond: a female mallard, injured by a dog and unable to fly. She is called "Lonesome Lena" or "Loudmouth," for she cries to every passing shadow. Thirteen baby ducklings were hatched this spring and we have seen a muskrat several mudhens, herons, and white cranes.

Due to general neglect we have seen many rats also. The pond smells of stagnant water at times. Recently a neighbor saw grass clippings being thrown in and now the fire department is using it for drill. They start a gas fire (kerosene?) on the side of the pond and spray with foam extinguishers. We could see oil film on the water and where foam had entered the water. We protested both last week and again this Tuesday to no apparent avail.

This pond could be a wonderful wildlife sanctuary; a source of enjoyment for all and education to the neighboring school children. If the human species hopes to preserve its dwindling natural resources we must educate the young. Natural science of any kind was omitted as being offered at the Civic Center in Mayor Norville's article.

Only one of the ducklings mentioned earlier survived; some fell prey to dogs and others to rocks thrown by children. When children are asked why they throw rocks the standard answer is "I don't know"; yet when encouraged to feed the ducks and observe the inhabitants of the pond they are fascinated. We have asked adults not to "sic" their dogs on the ducks and had them act like we were spoiling their fun.

This is a small pond but love and appreciation for our natural heritage could be encouraged here. It is needed as an educational tool for the young so that fun isn't watching your dog mangle a duck. We hope you can help us as our "Charlie Brown" stomachs can't take much more.

U.C. Auditors Found Plenty, But One Proposal Hit Fan

SACRAMENTO — Do you know what those nasty old auditors from the state Department of Finance did?

Why, they went down to the University of California campuses and dug up all sorts of ways to save money. Can you believe it?

The auditors studied 20 separate areas of university operations, and came up with hundreds of suggestions for economies: things such as the use and mis-use of university vehicles. Like, what was that car I saw you with last year in Delano, during the grape strike? Or, how come those brothers had that university go-cart out on the town, that time they went to the Black Panther confab?

And, what abour purchasing policies? How come the university doesn't join with other state agencies which use centralized purchasing? Something special about your paper clips?

AND SPEAKING of purchasing, guess what those needle-nosed auditors found out about buying library books. They found out that the university pays more for its books than the corner book store! Pays about 5 per cent over publisher's retail.

The 5 per cent extra is a service charge for speedy service. Which makes sense, I guess. When a scholar needs a book, man, he really needs it.

But, there's a hitch to it. The library orders a new reference volume — and gets it, speedy-quick. Then it sits on a back shelf for about six months until the Library of Congress catalogs it — sits there waiting for a file number and a reference card. When that arrives the book can be put into circulation.

So much for the 5 per cent service charge.

IT WAS THE AUDIT of university library practices which really threw the whole audit into a tizzy.

One of the auditors said, "Hey, you guys can always sell your rare books and special collections. Uh, just a thought." Well, it really hit the fan. Red herrings all over the stacks.

Now, you know there ain't nobody going to auction off those rare books. Not Governor Reagan. Why, he's a "friend of (Cal's) Bancroft Library." And certainly not Finance Director Verne Orr. He has made that clear. In fact, said Orr, he didn't know a thing about the rare book suggestion until the auditors' confidential work sheets were mysteriously leaked to the press.

So why all the noise about the rare books? Why all the clicks from the clacques? It's the same old stuff. Standard operating procedure for pettifoggers.

SOMEBODY AUDITING your operation? Go through their list of suggestions. Forget the practical ideas. Find a clinker. Make it a red herring and throw it — no, leak it — to the boys in the press room. Then sit back and relax. Another economy move is down the tubes and the empire prevails!

UC's president Charlie Hitch called Verne Orr and apologized for the leak. After the herring was already smelling up the rest of the audit. Hitch is always apologizing.

Take this year's budget for U.C. A measly $337 million. The university said it would have to cut and squeeze and maybe even trim a bit. They squeezed one per cent out of the $28 million library fund, and promised it would not cut library services for the students.

Then they turned around and chopped back on the hours the libraries were open. Why? "Because those penny-pinchers up in Sacramento are slamming the library doors, that's why."

But, there was a hitch to that herring, too. It all came out at a regents' meeting. The library hours were cut because there were certain hours when the libraries were virtually empty.

HUAC No Longer — But Only The Name Has Been Changed

(Reprinted from St. Louis Post-Dispatch

Since the House Committee on Un-American Activities became the House Committee on Internal Security, it may now appear to be something of a silly anachronism left over from a forgotten past. Yet it proceeds with making First Amendment rights less and less secure.

This is the knowledgeable conclusion of Robert Drinan, MC, SJ, HCIS, which is to say, member of Congress, Jesuit priest and member of the committee which he wants abolished. In addition, as former dean of the Boston College Law School, Representative Drinan is a competent judge of the legal aspects of HCIS's endeavors.

In a lecture at American University, the Massachusetts congressman observed that in about 12 minutes on Oct. 12 the committee decided to place the names of 73 Americans in its files. The names were filed on the basis of committee statements by three men who thought the 73 to be subversive, militant or something, leaving the 73 without redress.

ALL IN A DAY'S WORK, it was. Father Drinan says that the committee's card file now contains names of more than 754,000 Americans who allegedly have engaged in subversive activity, the evidence being "hearsay piled on hearsay" and customarily aimed at persons who have been dissenters or politically unorthodox.

There is no congressional authorization for this data bank. Father Drinan points out, and it is not harmless. Last year federal agencies made 1,348 visits to check the files. The Justice Department looks them over in considering the status of federal employes and job applicants, and even agencies so unrelated to national security work as the Federal Communications Commission check them in reviewing license applications. Thus jobs and business as well as reputations may be at stake in the collection of hearsay piled on hearsay.

ASIDE FROM COMPILING files, the committee through its history has proved a smoking volcano that never fires up effective legislation. Recently its chairman, Rep. Richard Ichord of Missouri, got the committee to recommend, with three dissents, a vote for keeping emergency detention camps. The Nixon administration itself had wanted to get rid of this reminder of concentration camps and the committee's bill got only 49 House votes.

whelming House support when the time for appropriations arises. Its budget of $525,000 is the third largest among the 21 standing committees of the House, and its free-wheeling staff is the largest. The reason is, of course, that House members face re-election every two years, they fear being accused of being soft on communism, and voting for the HCIS is the cheapest internal security they can buy for themselves.

Kennedy Has The Momentum To Win Nomination In '72

WASHINGTON — Momentum is the word. Whether it is all consciously, deliberately planned or whether it is spontaneous is, for the time being, irrelevant. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy is on his way with the very real possibility that he will end up with the presidential nomination of the Democratic party in 1972.

The Kennedy momentum is evident, above all, in the outpouring of publicity not only from commentators long subscribing to the Kennedy mystique but in national magazines and on television screens. This, in turn, reflects his rapid rise in the polls so that today he runs either close to or ahead of Senators Edmund Muskie and Hubert Humphrey.

From some long-time Kennedy family friends comes word that Teddy would prefer to wait for 1976, since '72 promises to be a doubtful year for Democrats. That is not the way he sees it. You can't sit it out. The illusion of a better year might prove to be just that and the party would never forgive you. Besides, Kennedys don't play the waiting game.

THE PUBLICITY BARRAGE comes from two sources. One is the way the senator constantly speaks out on the issues. By comparison the other candidates sound muted, either from caution or because they fail to put it over. The Kennedys have long shown a mastery of the media, an intimate firsthand knowledge.

The Kennedy apparatus on Senate committees dealing with vital headline-making issues is the second source. The first and most important is the subcommittee on medical care, with the senator holding televised hearings around the country on his measure for complete coverage, national health insurance, federally financed. This is opposed to the administration bill that relies on private health insurance in a national pay-as-you-go system.

The senator talks with buoyant self-confidence of the measure recently passed by both houses of Congress that triples the authorization of money to be spent on medical education. He sees this as beginning to make up for one of the biggest deficiencies in medical care — the shortage of doctors, nurses, nursing homes and hospitals. Chairman Wilbur Mills is putting his House Ways and Means Committee through the paces of a mea-ure to finance a new health-care system. Kennedy is confident that when this comes to the Senate it will be possible to work out a compromise advancing medical care, not the whole way to national insurance but a big step forward (and why not a Kennedy-Mills ticket in 1972?).

The Kennedy subcommittee on refugees is another source of headlines. The senator spent most of the August recess inspecting the camps in India where more than 9,500,000 refugees from East Pakistan live on bare subsistence with no future in sight.

THE KENNEDY KNACK for headlines occasionally gets him in trouble. When he compared Britain's role in Ulster to that of the United States in Vietnam and called for British withdrawal, he stirred up a hornets' nest. The angry roar of the British lion echoed around the world.

Here is a probable scenario as faithful Kennedy workers see it. Mayor John V. Lindsay will concentrate his efforts in the last and crucial primary in California. That is a state made to order for the Lindsay telegenic appeal. If he doesn't win, he will come so close as to leave the other contenders looking battered and forlorn.

With no chance to get the nomination himself, Lindsay will nevertheless have damaged the front runners. Out of the alternative? No one else but you know who.

What about Chappaquiddick? The Senator's answer is that a political campaign cannot be based on the constant repetition of one tragic accident. And the threat of assassination of the third and last of the Kennedys? That is a peril to be lived with. Having gone through the ordeal of the murder of his two brothers, nothing can daunt him.

Does he want the nomination? Has a Kennedy ever not wanted public office and personal power? It was conditioned into them by the fierce drive of the founding father, Joseph P. Kennedy.

He will enter no primaries. He will go to the convention in Miami Beach offering the conviction that he, and he alone, can defeat Richard Nixon.

Law And Order Issue Finds Proper Place On Political Scene

By ARNOLD B. SAWISLAK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There is evidence from the big city elections that the wandering law-and-order issue finally has returned to its logical place in the political scheme of things.

It seems unlikely that anyone —politician or voter —believed that a candidate for President or the U.S. Senate could really do much to stop crime in the streets.

But in the late 1960s, when citizens were becoming alarmed about rising crime rates, candidates seeking election to the highest offices of national and state government were busy offering solutions that often stopped just short of promising to strap on pistols and go after the muggers, burglars and rapists themselves.

The fact is that big time politicians were scared to death of the issue and many felt they had to "pin on the sheriff's badge" to be on the right side.

LAW ENFORCEMENT certainly does need federal and state government support, especially to provide funds to improve and expand local police forces, and in the longer run to strike at the root causes of crime — poverty, ignorance, discrimination and the other iniquities of society.

But the key to controlling the kind of person-to-person crime that has alarmed so many Americans is and always was law enforcement at the local level. Neither rhetoric nor cash from Washington and the state capitals will stop hoodlums and junkies from robbing people in their homes or on the streets. Mayors and police chiefs, judges and jailers are the people to see about this kind of problem.

A few years ago, voters of Minneapolis elected a policeman to be mayor, causing some observers to announce the arrival of a straw in the wind. And when Philadelphia, the fourth largest city in the country, elected its former police commissioner, Frank Rizzo, to be mayor, the same observers declared the time had arrived for local officials to get hard nosed about crime or face political oblivion.

But such analyses of the outcome in Philadelphia, where Rizzo's "tough cop" image was the prime issue, and Cleveland, where another law and order candidate beat the candidate of retiring Mayor Carl Stokes, ignore some counter currents in what is now claimed to be the political mainstream for municipal officials.

BOSTON IS AN example. Mayor Kevin White beat Rep. Louise Day Hicks by a sizable margin. Law and order was one of the issues in Boston and Mrs. Hicks should have profited from it if the voters simply wanted a candidate with a get tough line. Boston has a crime problem (54 per cent of citizens interviewed for a recent National League of Cities poll felt unsafe on their neighborhood streets at night) and Mrs. Hicks has a non-nonsense reputation stemming from her days on the Boston school board.

Mrs. Hicks did try to use the law and order issue, but she could not corner White. Instead of accusing her of crying wolf, the mayor emphasized what he was doing to fight crime —such as adding 400 men to the police force —and effectively neutralized the issue.

In San Francisco, something completely in conflict with the get tough theory occurred. Richard D. Hongisto, 34, was elected sheriff, beating the incumbent of 15 years and a couple of other law officers for the post.

Hongisto is a policeman himself —and is about to get a Ph.D. in criminology to boot — but he campaigned for lower penalities for marijuana possession, stricter rules for police use of firearms, and a whole list of other issues generally regarded as liberal. Hongisto will have little law enforcement power himself, but he will run the city's jails and he is pledged to improve the food, medical care and living conditions of the inmates.

Philadelphia and Cleveland are very different cities from Boston and San Francisco. But people anywhere are not all that different and if there is a common lesson to be taken from the four cities it may be that while law and order is very definitely a political issue, voters

Year-Around School Plans Give Rise To Many Questions

The pros and cons of year-around schools appear to be endless. Virtually everyone in Southern Sonoma would be affected by the change and nearly everyone already has an opinion about it.

The methods of extending the school year are many and each seems to be getting at least some attention from the steering committee working on a recommendation to go to the Petaluma Board of Education.

Receiving the most study is the 45-15 plan in which students would be divided into four groups, each in class for 45 days followed by 15 days vacation. This would have one-fourth on vacation at any given time. Also being given close scrutiny is a plan to divide the school year into four quarters with a student in class for three consecutive quarters, but with the vacation periods staggered instead of all being June-September.

IN EITHER CASE, parents must face the prospects of having children on vacation during winter. Families that enjoy winter sports or traveling at off-season rates would be pleased by the change, but the initial reaction is that the majority would not.

Working mothers, especially, are wary of the idea and wonder if they could make child care arrangements for students who get three-week vacations every three months.

City recreation departments in Southern Sonoma, which gear programs for summer vacation months, would be faced with providing programs for 25 per cent of the student population on a year-round basis. Police departments are giving serious thought to possible increased vandalism, littering and shoplifting. Businesses that normally hire student workers in the summer would also be affected.

THE MAIN CONCERN, however, is the effect of the plan on students. Preliminary studies have shown that many students retain more information on the quarter system and 45-15 plan. They would no longer return from a three-month vacation and spend the first six weeks doing refresher work.

While it has not been shown that year-round schooling would definitely reduce or increase operating costs, by making better use of existing buildings and facilities, construction of new schools can be delayed.

The Petaluma Elementary District foresees no enrollment increase for the next five years, but a classroom squeeze will probably continue in Old Adobe District on Petaluma's Eastside, at junior and senior high schools throughout Petaluma High School District, and possible in the Cotati School District in the next several years as Rohnert Park grows. Crowded conditions and schools on double sessions could be eliminated by extending the school year and reducing the student population by 25 per cent.

THE STUDY COMMITTEE is scheduled to sift through all the pros and cons of the various plans and come up with a recommendation for the school board by February, a difficult task to say the least.

It is hoped that students, parents, school personnel and others in the community can keep an open mind about extending the school year — at least until a firm plan is offered. Members of the school board have made it plain that they have not made up their minds.

ART BUCHWALD

That FBI Man At Window May Mean Court Appointment

WASHINGTON — The news that the FBI has been investigating CBS correspondent Daniel Schorr caused some trepidation among Washington journalists early last week.

But then the White House explained it all. Mr. Schorr was being investigated, a spokesman said, because he was being considered for a high government job, and the White House wanted to run a check on him before they offered him the position.

Well, all of us relaxed when we heard the explanation, not only because it made sense, but also because it showed that the administration harbored no ill feelings. Mr. Schorr has been a consistent critic of administration policies and if he was being considered for a high government job, that meant any of us could be tapped for public service.

A GROUP OF correspondents were sitting in the White House press room the other day, chuckling over the latest White House press release, when Clyde Mothballer of the Kinzu Telegram Ledger was called to the phone.

He came back whitefaced and said: "That was my mother. The FBI was just at her house and wanted to know what library books I borrowed when I was a kid."

"Congratulations, Mothballer," the AP man said. "That means you're up for an important government job."

"I don't know," Clyde said. "The administration got awfully mad at me about my articles on the Supreme Court appointments. As a matter of fact someone from the White House called my editor and suggested I be sent to Moscow where I understood the government better."

"Don't be silly, Mothballer," the Boston Globe man said, "the administration doesn't hold grudges. I wouldn't be surprised if they made you secretary of the treasury."

"YOU WOULD THINK they would ask me if I wanted a job first," Mothballer said.

"They wanted to surprise you," the Washington Post correspondent assured him. "To think, one of our boys will be in the cabinet!"

"The FBI man didn't say anything to my mother about a cabinet appointment. But he did want to know if I ever played with Daniel Ellsberg as a kid," Mothballer said.

"It's just a smokescreen, Clyde," the Los Angeles Times man said. "They always ask that when they're considering somebody for secretary of defense."

"My mother said they also went around to the neighbors and asked them if I had ever had any strong feelings about Cuba."

"That means you're being put up for head of the CIA," a UPI photographer said. "With Dick Helms being moved upstairs, they're probably looking for a new chief of operations."

"IT'S POSSIBLE," Mothballer said, "but my mother said she caught two of the FBI men going through her trash basket last night."

"That means you're up for an environment job," the NBC man shouted.

"I wish I could be as optimistic as you guys," Mothballer said. "Suppose the FBI was asking questions to intimidate me?"

The Chicago Sun-Times man was shocked. "Bite your tongue, Mothballer," he cried. "The Nixon administration would never stoop to a trick like that, even if they disagreed with every word you wrote."

"He's correct, Clyde," the Newsweek correspondent said. "Attorney General Mitchell would resign before he'd allow the White House to intimidate a newspaperman."

"J. Edgar Hoover wouldn't stand for it," the New York Post man put in.

"I guess you're right," Mothballer nodded. "I'd better call my mother back and reassure her. She just doesn't understand how Nixon's people operate."

Another Quentin Attorney

Beverly Hills attorney Ralph Bencangey, 30, yesterday joined the defense of one of six convicts accused of murder in the Aug. 21 bloodbath at San Quentin Prison.

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court permitted San Rafael attorney Richard Tarrant to withdraw, when defendant Hugo A. Pinell insisted he wanted to hire Bencangey on his own.

Four of the five other attorneys also asked to be relieved of defending their uncooperative clients, who refuse to talk to them and constantly yell for their firing.

Among new attorneys sought by the convicts is Charles R. Garry of San Francisco, who has represented several Black Panther Party members. Inmate John Larry Spain and his present court-appointed attorney, Steven Koolpe, both asked that Garry be substituted.

Other attorneys who want to get out of the case are Deputy Public Defender Frank Cox, representing David Johnson, Richard H.Breiner representing Fleeta Drumgo, and Howard K. Morehouse, representing Willie Tate.

Louis F. Hawkins, who was appointed for Louis N. Talamantez, did not file for withdrawal from the case because he wants first to make sure another attorney is ready to take over Talamantez's defense.

The six men are accused of murdering three correctional officers and two fellow inmates, conspiracy to escape and felony assaults.

During yesterday's arraignment, they shouted obscenities and were ordered out of the courtroom to listen from an adjoining holding cell. In the afternoon, however, most of them listened quietly to arguments on proposed changes of attorneys.

Judge McGuire said he hopes to have a ruling in about a week on the requests for changes of attorneys.

He set the following schedule for future court actions:

Next Monday at 9 a.m. he will hear arguments on whether Willie Tate is competent to represent himself, as he wants to do.

On Dec. 13 at 9 a.m., he will hear all demurrers (legal objections to the grand jury indictment) from the defense.

On Dec. 13 at 2 p.m., he wants the defendants to enter their pleas.

Bencangey, the Beverly Hills attorney assigned to Pinell, said the family and a friend of Pinell's contacted him and asked him to take the case. He has been practicing law for three years.

DIRECTOR — Virgil S. Hollis, Marin County superintendent of schools, has been appointed March of Dimes campaign director for Marin, Napa, Sonoma and Solano counties. The campaign will be held in January.

Police Dept. Gets Home In Tiburon

The Tiburon City Council last night decided to use space in the city hall now set aside for council meetings for headquarters for the city's own police department, which will come into existence in June.

The council turned down a suggestion to rent property next door to the city hall at $825 a month and accepted an invitation from the Reed School District to hold council meetings in the music room at Del Mar School.

The county sheriff's department currently provides police services for Tiburon on a contract basis, but the city has voted to establish its own department.

In a related matter, the council heard from City Mgr. Bert Balmer that about a dozen qualified men have applied for the new chief of police post. These applicants will be screened by an oral board, it was decided, with the council to choose one of the three top applications.

The Tiburon City Council also:

APARTMENTS — Heard the second reading of an ordinance granting a planned development master plan for 36 apartment units on six lots on Marinero Circle.

TAX — Postponed the second reading of a bedroom tax ordinance until further legal clarification could be obtained.

OFFICES — Set a public hearing for Dec. 13 for a zoning ordinance amendment which would prohibit professional offices in duplex and apartment zones except for so-called home occupations.

HEARING — Also set Dec. 13 for a public hearing on a proposed ordinance amendment which would set a 30-foot limit on buildings in Tiburon.

EMERGENCY — Approved the first reading of an ordinance updating the city's emergency plans as required by the state Legislature.

COMMISSION — After a brief closed session, appointed Albert Aramburu and Donald Pickett to vacancies on the park and recreation commission to fill seats formerly held by George Ellman and David Teather.

Creek Union Withdrawal Due Study

The San Anselmo City Council will consider withdrawing from the Ross Valley Flood Control District when the council meets at 8 p.m. today at city hall.

The move was suggested Nov. 9 by Councilman James F. Reed, who said he feared the flood control district could use its taxing power to force San Anselmo to allow a "concrete channel" through the city.

City Administrator Alfred C. Kaeppel said San Anselmo residents are taxed five cents per $100 assessed valuation tax for maintenance of the flood control project, but San Anselmo has been taking care of its creek maintenance on its own.

The council tonight will also respond to an Army Corps of Engineers request for comments on a corps environmental statement for the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control Project.

The council has been critical of the project in the past and has called the corps work through Ross, Kentfield and Larkspur a "concrete bathtub."

Two Veterinarians Elected To Board

Two Marin veterinarians, Robert M. Bramman and Wilhelm F. Braunschweig, have been elected to the board of directors of the Marin County Humane Society — the first veterinarians to be named to the board.

Bramman, of Tiburon, practices at San Rafael Animal Hospital. Braunschweig, a Sleepy Hollow resident is associated with Marin Pet Hospital.

Drug Suspect Pleads Innocent

Linda Jean Mitchell, 26, of San Anselmo, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to a charge she brought unauthorized drugs into San Quentin Prison.

Judge David R. Baty of West Marin Justice Court, sitting in Marin Municipal Court, set a preliminary hearing for Nov. 23.

Mrs. Mitchell was arrested Nov. 15 at the entrance to San Quentin when officers found pills and some balloons filled with white substance in her pockets.

Justice White Hurts Ankle, Misses Session

An aide said the injury was a minor one but declined to say how the justice incurred it. It kept White off the bench at Monday's court session, although he was in his office working.

Hospitality House Near Prison Backed

Deputy Zoning Administrator Ralph D. Cairns yesterday approved a proposal to convert an old home near the entrance to San Quentin Prison into a "hospitality house."

The proposal, submitted by the Catholic Social Service of Marin, envisions a resting place and information center for families of San Quentin inmates.

It is located at 2 Main Street about 100 feet from the prison's east gate.

A similar proposal last year by the Quakers brought protest from nearby residents who voiced no opposition yesterday to the new proposal.

The Quakers had proposed using the home as a meeting hall also. Their request was approved over the objections of the residents, but was never carried through.

According to James D. Kilty who represented the Catholic agency yesterday, the "hospitality house" is scheduled to open Dec. 4.

He said plans for the future include operating a child care center for children of visiting mothers. That service will need separate approval, however, under Cairn's ruling yesterday.

In other action, the zoning administrator approved construction of a First Southern Baptist Church at 62 Shell Road, Alto, over the objections of a small band of residents.

Residents complained that the church and added traffic it would bring would destroy the rural atmosphere of their neighborhood.

Ceramic Objects Taken At Nursery

Burglars broke into the San Rafael Nursery, 1580 Lincoln Avenue, Thursday and stole $100 worth of ceramic objects, San Rafael police reported.

Police said the burglars gained entry by prying a door open on the north side of the building. Also missing were a gold leaf planter and bamboo wind chimes.

The fair will be held from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day. It will be at three locations; Sandcastle Gallery, Mesa Road, and the Home, Third and Main streets, both Point Reyes Station, and Olema Natural Food Store in Olema, said Charles R. Russell, publicity chairman.

Baked goods, jewelry, paintings, leather work, pottery and children's art will be sold. There will be live music and refreshments.

Curriculum Session Slated By Dixie

The Dixie School District board will continue a discussion on school organization and curriculum at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the board room of the administration office.

It will be the third consecutive meeting in which administrators, teachers and parents have discussed these topics.

Slain Guards' Families File $2 Million Claims

Survivors of two guards killed during the macabre Aug. 21 escape attempt at San Quentin Prison have filed claims totaling $2 million against the state and three counties including Marin.

The two claims — asking $1 million in damages each — were filed Friday by the families of Jere P. Graham and Paul W. Krasenes.

Named in the claims besides Marin and the state were San Francisco and Monterey counties.

The claims, identical except for names and addresses, state that "there appears to have been negligence, dangerous conditions, violations of statutes, including, but not limited to, the situations that prevailed at Soledad and San Quentin prisons."

The guards, along with fellow guard Frank P. DeLeon and three inmates, died during the escape attempt by Soledad Brother George Jackson. Jackson was one of the three inmates slain.

(Six inmates are now awaiting trial in connection with the murders of the three guards and two inmates. Jackson was killed by a correctional officer as he dashed for freedom.)

The claims maintain that the families have suffered personal injuries and mental suffering as a result of the killings.

Youth Cited In Auto Case

A 14-year-old boy was cited to juvenile authorities after he was found with a stolen car Saturday night, San Rafael police reported yesterday.

Police said they stopped to help J. Leigh Gregg of 716 Monticello Road, San Rafael, when he appeared to be having car trouble at Del Ganado Road and Las Ovejas Avenue at about 11:15 p.m. Saturday.

A check revealed the car had been stolen earlier from in front of the residence of its owner, Martin H. O'Brien Jr. of 575 Thyme Place, San Rafael, officers said.

Pair Booked In Pot Probe

A Woodacre couple was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday after San Anselmo police found them in a car said to be stolen and containing a suitcase containing suspected marijuana.

Gerald John Backearis, 27, and Judi Pearl Backearis, 26, both of 348 Redwood Drive, were booked on suspicion of car theft and possession of marijuana. Bail was set at $2,000 each for the couple to appear in Marin Municipal Court tomorrow.

Officers said they stopped the car on Greenfield Avenue about 10:50 a.m. A check revealed it was reported stolen in San Francisco last Friday. The suitcase was found in the trunk and two suspected marijuana cigarettes were found in Backearis's possession, police said.

A 'T' Dropped By Nevada Town

After 106 years of controversy over the spelling, the Nevada Highway Department says it has found official reports of Major Charles McDermit, for whom the Army outpost was named. The major was killed in an Indian skirmish in 1865.

Over the years, McDermit became McDermitt. Now a number of highway signs, state maps and official documents and records must be changed to the correct spelling.

NOT NEW TO COMMUNITY

A New Vocation—Family Counseling

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Mill Valley has a new marriage and family counselor — Gordon L. Foster — but he is far from new to the community. Rev. Foster was pastor of the Mill Valley Community Church from 1947 to 1970.

He still lives in the old Victorian home in Mill Valley, where he and his wife, Marjorie, reared their four children.

"Mill Valley is the only home town our children have known," the Rev. Foster said. All but the youngest son of the family of three boys and one girl are now married and have their own homes.

Free from family responsibilities, the Fosters left for Switzerland in September 1970. There Rev. Foster spent a year studying at the Carl Jung Institute for Analytical Psychology in Zurich ... under a study grant from a foundation for Jungian education.

Now a counselor

IN HIS SUNNY office in Mill Valley's El Paseo, opened last month, the former Mill Valley Community Church minister spoke of his change in vocations and the approach he will take in his counseling.

"I'm not really starting a new career," he emphasized. "What I'm doing is not all that different. I have taken one part of a pastor's job, counseling, and will be stressing that. I still see myself as a Christian minister, working individually and in small groups with people."

Two aspects of Rev. Foster's background were of special value in counseling, apart from his qualification as a minister with the B. D. degree from the Pacific School of Religion. One was his year's work toward a doctorate in psychology and philosophy at Columbia University and the Union Theological Seminary in New York City. The other was ecumenical experience, which confirmed his broad view of religion.

DURING WORLD War II he had served simultaneously as pastor of the First Congregational Church and the First Presbyterian Church in Santa Rosa, when the pastor of the latter, a close friend, became chaplain in the U.S. Army.

Rev. Foster explained why his approach to counseling is based on Jung's analytical psychology rather than the Freudian, but he emphasized, "I don't claim to be a Jungian analyst — only a minister with partial training in the Jungian approach.

The essential difference between Freud and Jung, he pointed out, is that Freud bases everything on the sex drive, whereas Jung says sex is not the only source of energy.

"Jungian psychology also accepts the reality of the unconscious as well as the conscious psyche," he explained, adding that this psychology is congenial to the religious aspect of life.

Rev. Foster believes that the importance of the unconscious part of the mind is what people must understand before they can understand themselves and others.

"MY APPROACH is that we have to know ourselves before we can risk letting ourselves be known by others," he said. "Everybody wants intimacy instead of mask-to-mask relationships. A lot of people know only the roles they have been playing. They don't understand their negative feelings, and a counselor should try to uncover the unconscious sources so that they can be understood and not cause destructive results for themselves and others."

There are various means of uncovering the unconscious material, he noted, but said that Jung emphasizes dream analysis.

"Dreams are the language of the unconscious psyche," he explained. "If your conscious mind is way off base, your unconscious will try to show you where. The process of becoming a whole person is getting in touch with this unconscious material and incorporating it so that it does not control you and so that you can use its positive values. Jung says dreams are as real as anything in life."

Interpreting this dream material, however, the minister warned, is not a simple matter but one for which special training is needed. "People should beware of the dream book," he cautioned, observing that objects as symbols do not always have the same significance. "A tree may mean one thing in one person's life and something entirely different in another's life," he said.

The minister discussed some of the problems he expects to handle.

OLDER PEOPLE: "My psychology is exceptionally good for people in the second half of life. In the West the young man has to develop his conscious mind to find his place in the world, but the penalty for 40 years of concentration on this can mean neglect of the inner world so that its existence is not admitted.

"The task of the second half of life is to discover the neglected side of one's self. Your old age can be just as exciting as the first half but on a different basis." Retirement can mean loss of meaning, he noted.

Marriage: Counseling in this area, he said, consists largely of working with couples who need someone not involved in their problems to help find solutions.

Divorce: "Two people often manage to get along as long as they are busy working out security, building and maintaining a home and rearing children. Then suddenly they may look at each other and find themselves strangers. They may find they don't know how to talk to each other or even like each other." They have to find out who they are, he said.

YOUTH: "ANY kind of big problem, such as finding your place in life is much harder now that there are so many options and so many life styles. A great many things have affected the feeling side of young people's lives, and they have bizarre ways of dealing with them." The counselor finds very hopeful the fact that so many are seeking less materialistic values today.

Individuals Searching for Meaning: "I am primarily interested in the suffering people go through when they can no longer find meaning in life. We are only able to deal with our lives when we can see meaning."

WHILE Rev. Foster enjoys working with individuals, he feels the group approach is valuable.

"I do hope, as the year goes on, to do some group counseling," he says. "Dealing with some things in a group can be very helpful and much less expensive. A therapy group I could work with would be one which would employ a variety of methods and use all that men and science are learning about relationships."

The former pastor said he is allowing himself a year to see if he can accomplish what he hopes to in the private counseling field. At the end of that time he expects to know a great deal more about which problems are common and which are special in Marin.

A LONG COMMUTE

Isolated Area Gets A Doctor

By RICHARD J. SCHNEIDER

EAGLE, Colo. (UPI)—This mountain community of 800 is still conducting a nationwide campaign to lure a doctor, but in the meantime they've got Dr. Mary Jo Jacobs who doesn't mind commuting 60 miles roundtrip three days a week.

Dr. Jacobs opened her part-time practice in Eagle in October. She says she doesn't mind commuting.

"It's been beautiful, ideal," she said in an interview. "The canyons have been gorgeous. Every day it changes."

Eagle has been without a doctor for the past three years. The town's plea for a full-time physician has received nationwide publicity — but no takers. The townsfolk even strung a long banner across Main Street proclaiming "Eagle Needs a Doctor."

IN THE MEANTIME who is the wife of a doctor and mother of four children, drives to Eagle three days a week —Monday, Wednesday and Friday. She treats patients in the Eagle Medical Clinic, a three-year-old facility built by the town. Much of its equipment is second hand.

"We had to scrounge our equipment," she said. The large equipment came from the Gillman Mine hospital which closed down several years ago and gave its equipment to the Vail Clinic, 30 miles away.

"There were a lot of things that they couldn't use and weren't going to use at Vail, so they were nice enough to let us have some of that, examining tables and so forth," Dr. Jacobs said.

"We are still trying to get an X-ray machine," she added. "There is one up at the Gillman hospital but it has to be checked out to see if it's suitable for moving and if it's safe for usage."

DR. JACOBS medicine. She and her husband, an obstetrician-gynecologist who set up a practice in Glenwood last summer, practiced in rural New Mexico for eight years and Montana for four years.

"I got a lot of winter driving in when we lived in northwestern Montana," she said. "We lived in quite a severe winter region. I don't mind the bad roads."

Dr. Jacobs is not sure just how long she will be practicing in Eagle.

"I came here with the understanding that I would work until they could find a full-time doctor who would live here and assume the practice," she said.

Since the advertising began 18 months ago, about 60 doctors have made inquiries while 20 actually looked the town over, said Mrs. Marillia McCain, a board member for the clinic.

SOME DOCTORS distance from the nearest hospital, 30 miles away at Glenwood Springs, and many wives weren't too enthusiastic about the rural life, Mrs. McCain said.

The distance doesn't bother Dr. Jacobs. With modern technology and communications, "I can take a blood test today and they can call me on it tomorrow from Denver."

The problem, as Dr. Jacobs sees it, is with the person who gets sick and must travel a long distance to get medical care.

Her personal plans call for eventually owning and operating a mobile medical clinic throughout Eagle, Garfield and Pitkin Counties to screen residents and determine who might need hospital care.

"Many areas are growing rapidly and have no doctors," she said.

And in the meantime, Eaglites are getting medical care.

THE COLORADO community of Eagle has been without a doctor for three years, so Dr. Mary Jo Jacobs doesn't mind the 60 mile commute from her home in Glenwood, Colo. Dr. Jacobs drives to Eagle three days a week to treat patients in the Eagle Medical Clinic, a three year old facility built by the town. She hopes eventually to operate a mobile medical clinic through Eagle, Garfield and Pitkin counties.

Parents Urged To Foster Myth Of Santa Claus

NEW YORK (UPI)—A noted child psychiatrist says parents should foster the myth of Santa Claus so their young children can accept Christmas gifts without feeling obligated to parents and relatives.

Dr. Bruno Bettelheim, writing in the current issue of Ladies Home Journal, said Monday belief in Santa "is the only way some children can permit themselves to enjoy Christmas presents.

"Many children feel they don't deserve presents from their parents," he said. "Even more children sense that accepting gifts from parents or relatives creates an obligation. None of this is true while children believe in Santa."

Belief in Santa is not only pleasurable in itself, Bettelheim said, but is "an important step in developing adult concepts."

T-Shirt Sweater Is Big On Scene

A classic of the men's wear field now has gone over to the girls. It's the T-shirt sweater, an outerwear version of a man's undershirt.

Designer Chester Weinberg puts the sweaters over printed silks for daytime, notably in a red silk print with black knit pullon.

New Handbook Out On Dinner Hints

What shall I cook for dinner? This can be a difficult problem for family meal planners not just once in a while, but 365 days a year. Imagine, then, how difficult it can be for people in food service operations like hospitals and institutions who are responsible for planning menus for hundreds of people every day.

A new handbook of ideas, "Volume Feeding Menu Selector," which was written for these people, can also be helpful in planning family meals. Published by Cahners Books in Boston, it's based on 15 years of menu suggestion columns by Alta B. Atkinson, administrative dietitian at Harvard University Food Services.

About 14,000 suggestions for menu items from appetizers to desserts are arranged in menu selector charts, 10 to a month, with seasonal foods and holiday meals in the appropriate months.

FIRST, PICK an entree such as Maryland fried chicken with boiled potatoes from the poultry column. From the same column, add the complementary dishes which will go with the main dish.

For example, you may choose spiced fruit cocktail, if you'd like an appetizer. For a vegetable, chive buttered carrots. A Waldorf salad and coffee ice cream with marshmallow sauce would complete this meal nicely. This adds up to a complete meal, and only uses up one of the 240 possible choices for the month.

Each month's menu selector puts together 240 different menus, offering 2,880 dinner ideas — enough for seven and a half years of dinners without any duplications. The charts are set up according to foods that go well together, alleviating worry about what-goes-with-what.

Each chart is divided into four columns, one each for a main dish of meat, poultry, seafood and miscellaneous dishes which include foreign foods, main-dish vegetables like stuffed peppers and egg or cheese dishes. These columns are subdivided by appetizer, entree, vegetable, salad and dessert for each meal.

This is the way professional menu-makers use the Menu Selector, but whenever you need a fresh idea, you can open the book at random and put your finger on one.

STILL MORE alternatives are listed in the sections called "Added Attractions" which follow each month's menu selectors. These give you ideas for special occasions, varieties of ordinary foods, substitutions for worn-out dishes and new methods of preparing food you already use.

Some brunch ideas from one of the sections are French toast and broiled bacon-wrapped prunes, creamy scrambled eggs with butter-browned pastrami, breakfast pepper steak with poached egg, banana nut waffles, pan fried ham and pineapple with curried scrambled eggs, blueberry and link sausage pancakes. For holiday entertaining, there's a selection of buffet ideas.

Leftover poultry items could be used for turkey pancakes, chicken croquettes, chicken-almond appetizer, risotto of chicken livers, broiled chicken salad sandwich au gratin or scalloped turkey and savory stuffing.

PEASANTS, POOH AND PIGLET Little girls who like to dress up for special occasions in long skirts and peasant fashions can go to holiday parties in fashions from the Winnie-the-Pooh Collection. Pooh and Piglet give their approval to the lass in a cotton challis skirt in a purple paisley and floral print with rick rack trim. Her leno-weave blouse is adorned with lace, and both pieces of the nostalgic look are machine washable.

History Of Canning

CHICAGO (UPI) — The idea of canning food originated in France and came about because of a contest.

In 1795, according to Encyclopedia Britannica, the French government was having a revolution at home and a war with several European nations. Consequently, there was an acute need of food supplies for the military.

The government offered a prize of 12,000 francs for the discovery of a practical method of food preservation. The prize was not won until 1809 when Nicholas Appert, a Parisian confectioner, displayed an assortment of food preserved in glass bottles.

Appert's method was to put the bottled food in boiling water for varying lengths of time. The same principle underlies food preservation today, the development of conditions within a food that are unfavorable for the growth of spoilage organisms.

THE GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

DEAR SUE:

I'm always loaning to my friends, sometimes even to my enemies.

I don't mind sheets of paper and the like, but things like glue, erasers, pens, pencils, gym clothes, socks and money get used up or worn out!

I can't say I'm fresh out, because people can see those things in my desk or locker, and I usually have a little extra cash.

I'm going broke because they never pay back.

DEAR L.O.:

I know a man who owns a lot of tools. Relatives and friends borrowed them so much, he forgot which were where; and even what, exactly, he had in the first place.

So he tacked a "hot list" on the bulletin board in his garage. Each time someone borrows something, his or her name goes on the list. When the item comes home, the name disappears. His H.L. has become so well accepted that people add and subtract their own names.

Maybe you could tape a "hot list" to the inside of your desk, "L.O." If the kids didn't catch on, at least you'd know which owe you the most so you can start "borrowing back" from them. — SUE

DEAR HELEN:

I'm in love with this fellow of 24, but my parents say he has no future. Okay, so he's a laborer, but he's saving money so he can go to college again. I recently got him on the night shift at the company where I work. Mom says I'll have to quit because she won't allow us to be in the same building, with overlapping shifts.

I told her that I'd leave home if she didn't stop trying to run my life. After all, I'm 20. She said she could have me picked up — not as a runaway, because I'm over 18 — but as a mental case.

I'm a normal, healthy, girl who holds down a good job. Is it insane to want to marry the man you love? — BRENDA

DEAR BRENDA:

No!

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

I have many hang-ups I could bother you with, but I'm forgetting my troubles to send you a compliment. I think it's really fantastic that you are working together as a mother-daughter team, and you're both doing a great job!

You've helped me solve some of my problems already — and the best part: you've started "talk" between kids and their parents.

You've said in the past, Helen, that you hardly ever print "bouquets," so I'll add a question, then maybe it will make Generation Rap.

Would you please — again — tell us where we can write to overseas servicemen who want mail? — THINKS YOU'RE BOTH FAN-TAS-TIC!

DEAR FAN:

Thanks, good buddy, we love you too!

AS FAR BACK as the 13th Century the handsome geometrics were appreciated as motifs for Oriental rug designs. This updated wool rug by Karastan is equally at home in the 20th Century living room, as is the classic furniture.

INSIDE YOUR HOME

By CAROLYN S. MURRAY

Most of us use the term Oriental rug to describe any elaborate overall design or repetitive design executed in traditional colors and patterns. But within that term Oriental is a whole world of design information.

There are easily 40 different kinds of Oriental rugs. They have one thing in common — they are usually handwoven or hand-knotted of wool or silk fibers. If you look up Oriental rugs in an encyclopedia of design you'll find six subheadings of Chinese, Caucasian, Indian, Persian, Turkoman and Turkish.

IF YOU READ about Persian rugs, you'll find additional categories such as Bijar, Feraghan, Hamadan, Kerman, Sarook. And each of these types has a character of its own, although the motifs found in Persians reflect an interest in birds, gardens, animals, vines and flowers. These themes are arranged around a main central medallion.

Colors are delicate in the Kermans, while Sarooks mix stronger colors with the pastel tones. And there are more types of Persians than mentioned here. So you can see how generic and unspecific the word Oriental is when it comes to describing a rug.

Originally the place names became attached to designs that were made or shipped from an area of the world. Now we merely repeat the design name, although copies of Oriental rug motifs continue to be made hundreds and thousands of miles away from the original source.

One American company, Karastan Mills, has consistently tried to maintain quality design and materials in their contemporary Oriental rugs. Yet they continued to add 20th-Century colorations and wearability factors to the basic design concept. The rug illustrated today is an example. Karastan calls this "Ivory Bokhara," and it's worked in the finest imported worsted wools. The pattern of stylized octagons is framed with a series of geometric-designed borders. Traditionally, the number of borders determined the value of the rug.

THE BOKHARA category appears in your design dictionary under the general group of Turkomans. They were rugs woven by the nomadic tribes of Afghanistan, Baluchistan and Turkestan and have distinctive geometric designs. While most Bokharas revolve around red values, this interpretation by Karastan has a clear ivory background and rich wine-red border — a pleasing balance of color for an eclectic American environment.

A Morale Builder

A good morale builder for a sick little girl is to arrange her hair in a glamorous way perhaps adding a fresh ribbon. She may also feel a lot happier if allowed to wear one of mommy's pretty bed jackets.

First Feast Resembled A Barbecue

NEW YORK (UPI)—Three and a half centuries ago our forefathers sat down to the first Thanksgiving dinner.

The festive meal most Americans will eat this Nov. 25 bears almost no resemblance to the 1621 original in either menu or manner of cooking. For this we can be thankful.

Before all you traditionalists take aim, hear this: research by the Plymouth-Provincetown Celebration Commission indicates that the first such harvest festival probably was more like a community barbecue than a family meal with comfortable indoor seating.

Moreover, what the Pilgrims ate had to be gathered wild from woods, fields and streams, or shot, killed, skinned and dressed for cooking.

RECORDS ARE skimpy of the actual bill of fare shared by the Pilgrims with their Indian guests. Foods mentioned specifically include venison, wild duck, wild goose, clams, other shellfish, eel, wild plums and berries, white bread, corn bread, leeks, watercress and other "sallet herbs" and sweet, strong wine made from wild grapes. No cranberry sauce and no pumpkin or mince pie.

The commission said turkey is widely assumed to have been part of the main course, chiefly because of the many references to "wild turkies" in historical papers of the period.

The commission also said wild cranberries were plentiful in 1621 in bogs near Plimoth (now Plymouth, Mass.) but the Pilgrims are thought not to have found use of them in time for the first Thanksgiving. But 51 years later, John Josselyn wrote in "New England's Rarities Discovered" that "The Indians and English use them juch boyling them with Sugar for Sauce to eat with their meat; and it is a delicate Sauce, especially for roasted Mutton; Some make tarts with them as with Goose Berries."

New Concept In Home Sewing

A new concept for home sewing, the manufacturer calls this roll of tape, 10 yards long, ¾ inch wide and of a supple textile more like cloth than paper. The tape is vertically marked and invisibly perforated along the vertical lines, to serve as an adjustable guide to flawless topstitching. The horizontal markings are for measuring.

On the back the tape is adhesive so it sticks firmly to the garment fabric while doing its several jobs. Then, it can be peeled off with one quick motion.

The new tape helps guide every kind of topstitching, functional or decorative, including parallel rows, curves and zipper stitching. The width of the tape can be narrowed by pulling off one, two, three or four strips at the perforations.

New Length For Evening Clothes

Watch for a "new" length to evening clothes for the spring and summer season. Actually, it's a familiar length that's been in and out of fashion for decades.

It's the nearly-to-ankle length and almost every designer of note on the New York scene uses it in glamor gowns for evening. If you don't want to display ankles, there still are plenty of to-the-floor numbers.

A Safety Tip

Before cleaning the face of an electric clock, disconnect the clock as a safety measure. Move both hands to 12 o'clock to expose maximum surface, then wipe face, hands and any glass door with a sponge wrung out of thick suds.

WINNING BRIDGE

Put Gerber Convention To Use After North's Two-No Opener

Most bridge players know about the Blackwood Convention, which uses a jump to four notrump to ask partner to show how many aces he has. The Gerber Convention, which uses a jump to four clubs for excatly the same purpose, is especially useful if partner's previous bid is one or two notrump. Named after John Gerber, of Houston, for many years one of the great bridge players of the world, the convention is illustrated in today's hand.

GOOD BALANCE

North's opening bid of two notrump promises balanced distribution, strength in all four suits and a count of 22 to 24 points in high cards. South would issue a general invitation to slam if he had 9 or 10 points, by bidding four notrump. This would invite North to go on with 24 points, to pass with 22 points and to use his judgment with 23 points.

With the actual hand, South is interested only in how many aces his partner has. He jumps to four clubs, using the Gerber Convention.

DIAMOND RESPONSE

North is supposed to respond four diamonds with no aces or with all four; four hearts, with one ace; four spades, with two aces; four no-trump with three aces.

North obediently bids four diamonds to show his four aces, and South jumps at once to a grand slam in hearts. North is tempted to bid seven no-trump to score the honors, but he resists temptation.

TRUMP COUP

Declarer wins the first trick with the ace of spades and should immediately ruff a low spade. South then cashes the king and ace of hearts in that order.

West's discard discloses the bad news, and South ruffs another spade to reduce to the same number of trumps as that held by East. Declarer next cashes the queen of clubs and leads a diamond to dummy.

GOOD CLUBS

South continues with dummy's good clubs, discarding diamonds from his hand. If East ruffs, South overruffs and draws the last trump; if East discards, South throws all of his diamonds and then any lead from dummy puts East's trumps in the middle. South would be unable to produce this position if he had not "wasted" two of his trumps.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with two notrump (22 to 24 points), and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - K 8 7 4
♡ - J 7 6 2
◇ - 6
♣ - 10 9 7 5

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid three clubs, the Staymen Convention, asking partner to bid a major suit of four or more cards. If he does, you will raise his suit to game; if he bids three diamonds (denying a major), you will bid three no-trump.

First Challenge In 34 Years To Span's Insurance Brokers

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

A committee of Golden Gate Bridge District directors, frustrated by an accelerating decline in insurance coverage on the span, recommended unanimously yesterday that another broker be given a crack at the job.

It was the first challenge in 34 years to the district's insurance broker, Marsh and McLennan Inc.

At immediate issue was some $200,000 a year in premiums for disaster coverage. Other policies bring the district's total premiums to well over $500,000 a year.

With the replacement cost of the bridge at $200 million, disaster insurance now covers less than 16 per cent of the cost in event of total loss in an earthquake, or $32 million. Only four years ago, coverage was at $55 million.

Marsh and McLennan's senior vice president, J.B. Wright, blamed the falling coverage on a jittery worldwide insurance industry. with more and more companies declining to cover high risks.

A rival broker, however, Bayly, Martin and Fay Inc., convinced the committee that it at least could stem the loss of coverage by overhauling the district's insurancepolicies.

Wright warned that changing brokers could cause some insurers to cancel their coverage of the bridge, but then acknowledged that companies he had in mind probably were going to cancel their coverage anyway.

The district's insurance consultant, Donn P. McVeigh, won committee endorsement of his recommendation that Marsh and McLennan and Bayly, Martin and Fay be the district's joint brokers. This would give the district the strengths of both firms, he said, and protect against the remote chance that Wright was right when he predicted a complete change of brokers would cause cancellation of some coverage.

Director Dean N. Meyer of Mill Valley, however, added a condition to the committee's action that would designate Bayly, Martin and Fay as "team captain" of the joint brokerage.

How this joint effort would work out was unclear in light of Wright's comment before the committee vote that his firm did not "particularly want to dilute our income."

Another indication of rocky relations was evident in comments by Samuel Alcorn, vice president of Bayly, Martin and Fay. He said a joint brokerage "would necessitate a change in personnel at Marsh and McLennan." He also criticized "the rigidity of position of the current broker," a remark apparently aimed at Wright.

McVeigh added that the present insurance plan under Wright was "intolerable. It's not acceptable at all. It's an awful lot of premium going out for nothing."

McVeigh stressed that while there was no way to insurance against total loss of the bridge, federal disaster funds probably would be available in such a case.

He also noted that if the district had accumulated a special self-insurance fund instead of paying premiums for disaster insurance, it would have had by now a fund large enough to handle all but major losses.

Previous challenges to Marsh and McLennan have been summarily rejected by the committee in past years when coverage was higher.

The committee's recommendation will go to the full board on Dec. 10.

Judge Supports CRLA In Halt Of New Hirings

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The state and federal government have been temporarily enjoined from any new hirings under the Emergency Employment Act until plans are developed for bringing migrant farm workers into the program.

The action was taken Monday by Federal Judge Thomas McBride in issuing a temporary restraining order against the U.S. Labor Department and the state in a suit filed by California Rural Legal Assistance (CRLA).

In the suit filed last Tuesday in U.S. District Court, seven Mexican-American farm workers claimed they were excluded from hiring under the $1 billion program because the jobs require education, experience and language abilities they do not have.

The court found the act was intended to grant preference in hiring to certain disadvantaged persons, including migrant farm workers, and ordered the state and federal government to develop the necessary plan.

Crash Debris Washes Ashore

TAIPEI (UPI)—A spokesman for China Airlines (CAL) said today debris from its Caraville jetliner which crashed Saturday night with the loss of 25 lives has washed ashore on a tiny island in the Pescadores.

Airline investigators said they believe the plane blew up in the air, substantiating eyewitness reports earlier from villagers living on the small island of Wang An, 20 miles south of Makung.

The CAL spokesman said the villagers found paper cups bearing the insignia of CAL, several sweaters and many pieces of airline metal which had washed ashore. The plane was bound from Taipei to Hong kong.

Steps Taken For Library Expansion

The San Rafael Library board last night authorized chairman Ella May Minneman to seek a joint meeting with the city council on Dec. 13 to discuss library expansion, with the possibility of placing a bond issue on next June's primary election ballot.

The council also will be presented a proposal by Andrew James Ring III and Tak Enomoto, San Rafael architects, for pre-bond-election design work on expansion of the library at Fifth Avenue and E Street. Ring and Enomoto last night outlined work they would undertake for a fee of $7,000, which would include design and cost estimate.

The work would be predicated on inspection by a structural engineer of the soundness of the old Carnegie Library, which the architects hope to incorporate into a new building more than doubling the available space. A preliminary inspection in 1968 by engineer Robert W. Copple disclosed no major structural defect.

Ring and Eonomoto said they could complete the design and estimate within three months of receiving a go-ahead from the council.

The board was informed that Neil Schwed, self-employed insurance man of 127 Surrey Lane, and R. M. Mertz, Pacific Gas and Electric Co. executive of 283 Mountain View Avenue, have applied for the vacancy on the board left by resignation of Hanlon P. Tharp. No action was taken on an endorsement pending receipt of more applications.

Mrs. Minneman announced that Mrs. Eleanor G. Murray, longtime library board chairman, has agreed to serve as honorary chairman of a Friends of the Library organization. An open house to inaugurate the "Friends" program, which had been planned for Christmas holiday week, was postponed until an indefinite date in January because Mrs. Vivian Smith, head librarian, will be away on vacation during the holiday.

'Winter Musicale' Location Listed

The seventh annual "Winter Musicale" will be at 8 p.m. Dec. 1 in the San Rafael High School Auditorium.

All men grapple with the questions...
Why poverty in a land of plenty? Why loneliness in a world that would join hands? Why war when the impulse of the heart is to love? The aching chasm between the real and the ideal, everywhere provokes the question...

WHY?

In a world looking for answers
maybe God is the place to start.
God is hope. God is now.

Greenbrae Service Plan Clears Hurdle

Formation of a special service area in Greenbrae cleared its first hurdle last night as the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission gave its approval.

The action came before a packed audience at Marin Civic Center. The crowd appeared to be split over imposing a tax rate to maintain landscaped street medians and neighborhood entrances.

According to Robert Peterson, the commission's executive officer, the vote to approve the service area came after lengthy discussion with some residents voicing opposition to another taxing agency.

The matter was to be forwarded to county supervisors who were to consider setting a public hearing date today. If letters of protest are received from at least 50 per cent of the homes in Greenbrae, the proposal automatically fails.

The issue would be forced to a vote if a petition signed by at least 10 per cent of Greenbrae's 2,036 registered voters is submitted at the public hearing.

The area proposed for inclusion in the service area would be north of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and between Manor Road on the west and Via La Cumbre on the east.

The Greenbrae Property Owners Association, which requested the formation, is handling landscaping maintenance, having assumed that responsibility from developer Neils J. Shultz Jr. about a year ago.

The cost of maintenance would be between $14,000 and $20,000 a year, which would mean a tax rate of between 12 and 18 cents per $100 assessed valuation if the service area is formed, Peterson said.

The commission also approved the annexation of the Paul Debes property, at the intersection of Los Ranchitos and Ranch roads, to Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District.

The area is composed of about seven acres.

2 Farm Groups Against Butz

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two farm organizations mounted lobbying campaigns today in an effort to block President Nixon's nomination of Purdue University Dean Earl L. Butz as the new Agriculture secretary.

The Senate Agriculture Committee voted 8-6 Monday to send the nomination to the Senate floor. The full Senate is not expected to vote until next week on the confirmation of Butz, 62, who once was an assistant to controversial Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson.

A National Farmers Organization (NFO) spokesman said NFO President Oren Lee Staley would visit the Capitol today to press his anti-Butz campaign in private interviews with several senators. The National Farmers Union (NFU), the other major farm group which announced opposition to Butz, said its grassroots units would be working on their home state senators.

Lortie was convicted on the kidnaping charge two months ago. He is to stand trial next month on a charge of noncapital murder in the death of LaPorte on Oct. 17, 1970.

In passing sentence, Mr. Justice Jean-Paul Bergeron said he did not impose the maximum sentence of life imprisonment because Lortie "rose above the laws of the jungle long enough to give aid to an injured kidnap victim."

Riles: Reading Tests Useless

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The statewide testing program for elementary and high school students has been described as "completely useless" by state schools chief Wilson Riles.

Riles said the reading tests given to first, second, and third grade students are not used to improve education.

"What use is it to give every child in the first grade and whatever grade, a reading test," Riles said, "and do nothing about the results?"

He told a conference of county school superintendents Monday the money spent on the tests could be better used improving other areas of education.

Sausalito's Railroad Era At End

By PAT ANGLE

Sausalito's colorful 96-year history as a "railroad town" ended abruptly this afternoon when the last Northwestern Pacific train, consisting of an engine and caboose, chugged into the bayside city, then out again.

The 7.2 mile rail line, the last in Southern Marin, will be officially abandoned Thanksgiving Day, according to R.A. Sederholm, public relations representative for Southern Pacific Railroad, of which Northwestern Pacific is a subsidiary.

Today's run was not an official one, according to Sederholm, but simply "some business the railroad has to take care of." The caboose which the engine will tow into Sausalito has been purchased by a Sausalito man,according to Sederholm, who was unable to name the buyer.

The final train was to leave Petaluma at noon, arriving in Sausalito between 1:30 and 2 p.m. to deposit the caboose, then leave again, for the last time.

The run marked the end of an era which began January 7, 1875, when passenger service to Sausalito was inaugurated by the North Pacific Coast Railroad which built the rail system through marin. The first freight — 300 sacks of potatoes — was shipped from Tomales to Sausalito by rail the same year.

In 1873 the Sausalito Land and Ferry Co. donated 30 acres along Richardson Bay as a depot site and by the end of 1874, Chinese laborers had placed North Pacific Coast track across the county.

The early trains connected with a ferry service between Sausalito and San Francisco, originally operated by the Sausalito Land and Ferry Co. and later by North Pacific Coast.

By the 1890s, North Pacific Coast had lines to West Marin, San Rafael, Corte Madera, Mill Valley and Alto, among others. Several Marin cities, including Larkspur, Kentfield, San Anselmo and Fairfax eventually grew up along the railroad right-of-way.

In the 1890s the railroad had 15 locomotives and 400 pieces of rolling stock running along its 81-miles stretch of track. But the line, plagued by a series of bad accidents and lawsuits merged in 1907 with the North Shore and San Francisco railroads to become the Northwestern Pacific Railroad.

Southern Pacific acquired Northwestern Pacific in 1929.

The railroad line to Sausalito, with the connecting ferry service to San Francisco, continued to grow during the next 30 years. But increased use of the automobile and the construction of the Golden Gate Bridge in 1937 lessened the popularity of ferries and trains among the county's commuters.

In 1941, NWP abandoned commuter train and ferry service and Sausalito's position as a major rail center declined rapidly. Since World War II, the line to Sausalito has been only a little-used spur track to deliver goods to the city's business firms.

Today's train will also be the last to pass through the Corte Madera tunnel, a Marin landmark which in earlier days divided Marin in the minds of its residents. In those days an individual either lived north or south of the tunnel, a designation often used to explain the location of a particular home or business.

The Northwestern Pacific line from San Rafael to Eureka will be the only major rail line left in Marin, Sederholm said.

Yesterday an enthusiastic group of Sausalito young people celebrated the city's next-to-last railroad run as an antique rail car, owned by actor Sterling Hayden's daughter Gretchen was towed to the D.B. Morgan Rail Car Co. in Greenbrae for major refurbishing.

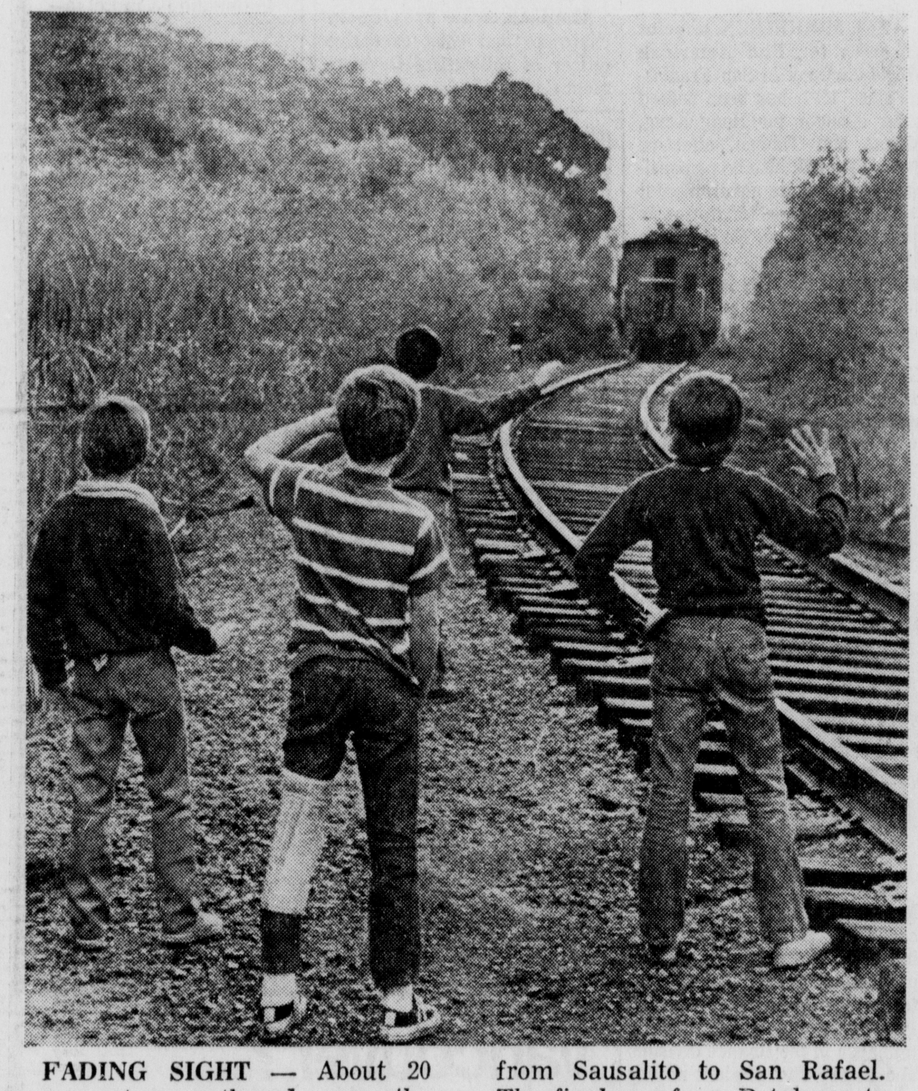
The old executive car, originally built in 1893 by the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad, was purchased by Hayden from the railroad in 1966 and has reposed in Sausalito near the Tiki Junction since that tiem.

It is currently used as an office by a friend of Miss Hayden's, Peter Laufer, a news reporter for KSAN FM Radio in San Francisco. After the car is refurbished, with the brakes repacked and new airhoses installed, Laufer said he hopes to find another location for it, somewhere in Marin.

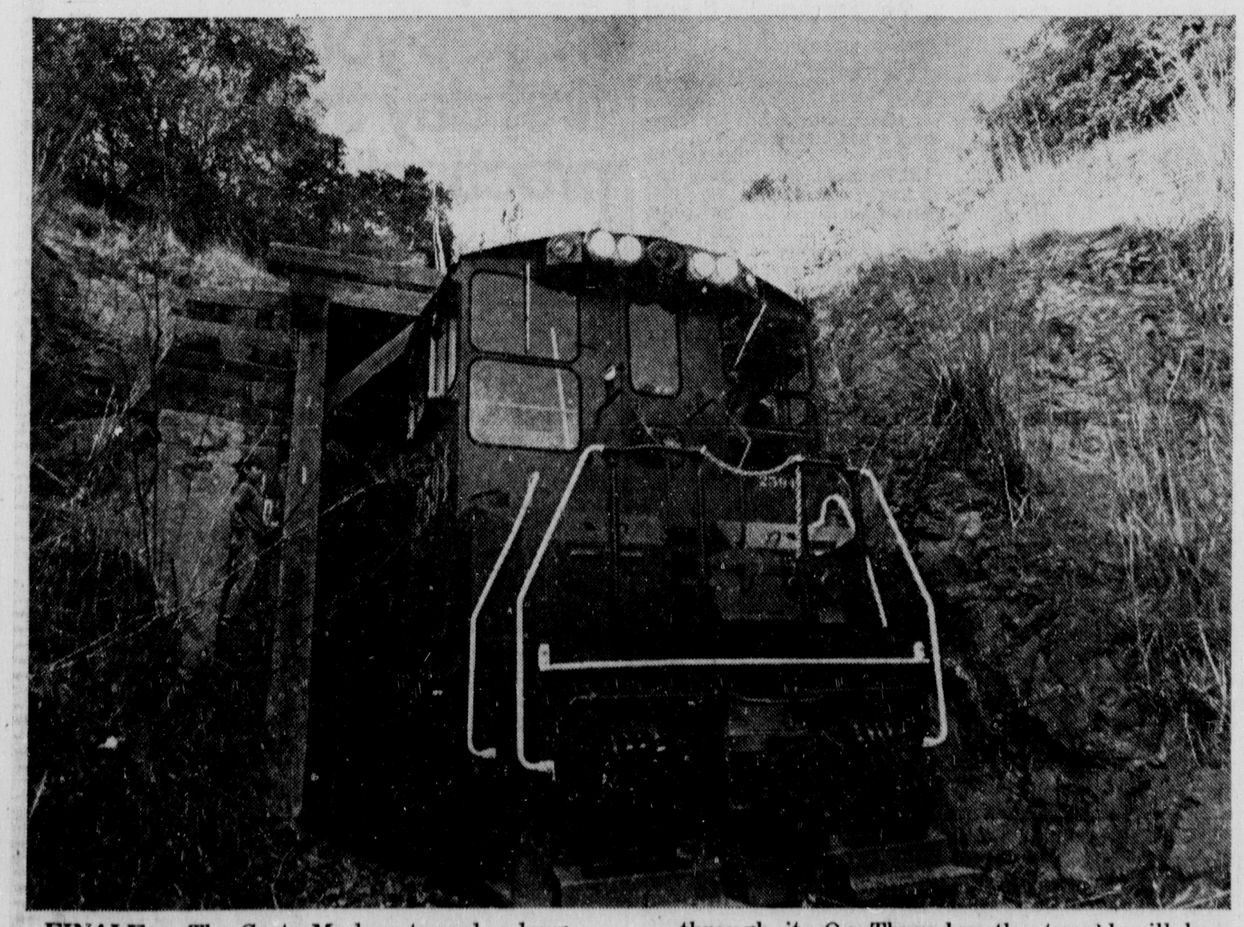
Yesterday, the spirits flowed freely as Laufer, Miss Hayden and about a dozen of their friends gathered aboard the brass and polished wood car to await an engine and caboose from the San Rafael NWP depot.

The engine & caboose arrived about 3:40 p.m., about an hour after they were due, in company of a box car it had picked up in northern Sausalito. It left minutes later for the trip to Greenbrae, spurred on by the shouts and applause of the small group gathered on the track.

Southern Pacific officials refused to allow the young people to make the semifinal trip on the Sausalito line, but Laufer sneaked aboard and made the 40-minute run locked in the car's porter's quarters peering out from behind the curtains and waving surreptitiously at friends who gathered along the track.



FADING SIGHT — About 20 youngsters gathered near the Corte Madera-Mill Valley tunnel yesterday to greet the next-to-last train to travel the tracks from Sausalito to San Rafael. The final run from Petaluma to Sausalito was to have been made this afternoon. (Independent-Journal photo by Alfred Arn)



FINALE — The Corte Madera tunnel, a long-time Marin landmark, gets a final taste of the sights and sounds of a train traveling through it. On Thursday the tunnel will be abandoned by the railroad, along with 7.2 miles of track on its Sausalito line.

2nd Arrest In Grocer Slaying

Inspectors Jack Clear and Frank Falzon said they were in the Haight-Ashbury District when they spotted James Hayes, 18, for whom a warrant had been issued in the Oct. 27 slaying of John Eng, 54.

Ecumenical Rites To Mark Marin's Thanksgiving Eve

The spirit of sharing will be keynoted again this Thanksgiving Eve and Thanksgiving Day in services throughout Marin.

In Terra Linda, 10 churches and synagogues will gather for their 11th annual ecumenical service at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Temple Rodef Sholom on North San Pedro Road.

Joining for the service will be Aldersgate Methodist, Christ Presbyterian, Congregational Kol Shofar, Church of the Nativity (Episcopal), Faith Lutheran, First Congergational, Greek Orthodox Church of Marin, St. Isabella's Catholic Parish, Blessed Sacrament and the host church.

And St. Luke Presbyterian Church on South San Pedro Road will host a third annual ecumenical service at 8 p.m. Participating will be Redeemer Episcopal Church and St. Sylvester's Catholic Church. The St. Luke Chapel Choir and Celebration Ringers will present special music.

Once again TEAM, the ecumenical association of Southern Marin, will have special 8 p.m. service tomorrow at Mr. Carmel Church in Mill Valley. Rev. E. A. Perkins of Marin City will deliver the sermon.

A special Thanksgiving Eve service also will be held at 8 p.m. at Shepherd of the Hills Lutheran Church in Tiburon. The service is open to the public.

A family celebration will be held at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Lucas Valley Community Church. A highlight of the 45-minute service will be the reading of President Richard M. Nixon's Thanksgiving Proclamation.

A special Mass of Thanksgiving will be celebrated at 10 a.m. Thursday at St. Vincent's Chapel in Marinwood in commemoration of the first anniversary of the Latin Mass Society. Celebrant will be Rev. Donald St. Sure.

The society was founded a year ago to assure at least one Latin mass would be celebrated in the parishes of Marin and the Bay Area each Sunday.

Marin Lutheran Church, Corte Madera — Family service at 10 a.m. Rev. Gerald W. Garlid, pastor, will speak on "A New Way Of Looking at Life."

Marin Evangelical Free Church — A special 8 p.m. Thanksgiving night service, with meditations lead by Rev. Sam Walberg, pastor, and Holy Communion. The congregation meets at the Improvement Club, Fifth and H streets in San Rafael.

Greek Orthodox Church of Marin — Special services at 10 a.m. Thursday. The congregation meets at Stewart Chapel on the campus of the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo.

Second Church of Christ Scientist, San Rafael — Special 11 a.m. Thursday service at 901 Las Gallinas Avenue.

St. Paul's Episcopal Church of San Rafael — A holiday Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at 11 a.m. Thursday.

INVESTING

A Good Growth Assured

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. We have recently become grandparents and would like to invest $1,000 as a nest egg for our granddaughter when she is 21. Could you give me a suggestion? R.F.

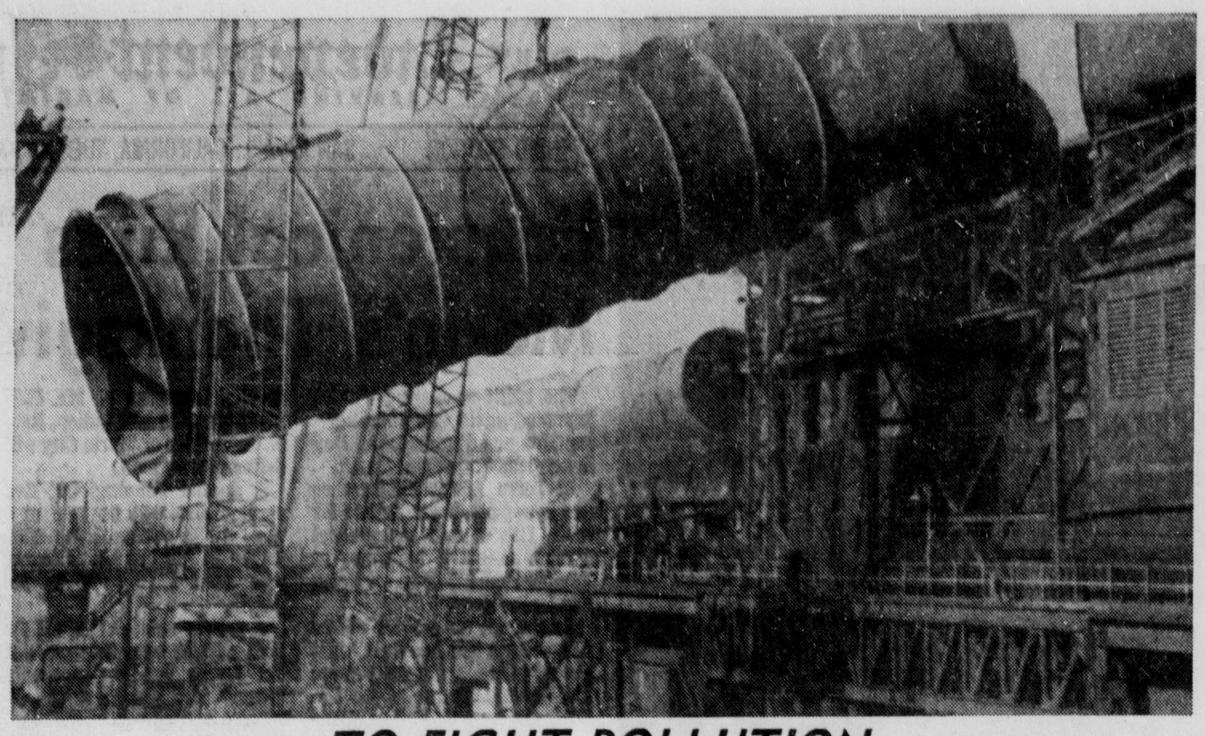
A. Your granddaughter is a very fortunate young lady to have such thoughtful grandparents. A long-term investment, such as you envision, should be in an issue which has exhibited strong past growth and the ability to adapt to changing trends. Health-Tex, founded in 1921, is such an issue. Company manufactures a well-known line of infant, toddler and childrens' clothing. Imaginative advertising has firmly established the brand name and more than 7,000 retailers handle the line.

Shares were offered to the public last April at 19½ and were listed on the Big Board in August. Earnings have increased annually at a healthy rate of 26 per cent compounded over the last 5 years. This rate was maintained in the first 9 months of 1971 when profits were $1.16 a share. Sales also made a record at $45.1 million, up 18 per cent year-to-year. Company has no long-term debt, current ratio is 3.6-to-1 and there are 4 million shares outstanding, 30 per cent closely held.

Q. I bought Morgage Associates (OTC) at $6, it is now $32. Please advise if company will continue to grow. — B.G.

A. While there is nothing negative in the corporate picture at present, I cannot state categorically that growth will continue at the same pace as in the past. Although mortgage loans had jumped 122 per cent to $52 million year-to-year, as of Apr. 30, 1971, notes payable by the company had increased only 68 per cent. Earnings for fiscal 1970-71, adjusted for a 100 per cent stock dividend payable Aug. 31, were 65 cents a share up from 30 cents. For the first quarter of the current fiscal year, net rose sharply to 54 cents a share versus 18 cents in the previous year. While shares command a high multiple, this has been justified by operating results. However, some near-term consolidation is probable.

Bottling spring water is a $100-million-a-year industry in the United States.



TO FIGHT POLLUTION

Engineers at the Bethlehem Steel Corp. at Bethlehem, Pa., install a 95-foot-long, 20-foot-in-diameter 45-ton emission control pipe to their electric furnaces. It is hoped that by passing the dust and fumes emitted from the plant through the pipe to a collection point, pollution levels will meet Pennsylvania's Air Control Act. (UPI Telephoto)

Building Permits In October On Decline

October building permits in Marin County totaled $4,286,624 — a drop of 28.4 per cent from the same month last year, according to figures from the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau.

The decline was 67.8 per cent when compared with the value of permits recorded in September of this year.

Novato accounted for $830,955, of which almost 90 per cent was for residential construction. San Rafael's $805,342 was two-thirds residential. The Tiburon peninsula showed permits totaling $513,050, about 54 per cent commercial.

Mill Valley's $249,741 was 69 per cent residential; Sausalito's $266,552 was 87 per cent residential, and Larkspur's $262,500 about two-thirds residential. In Corte Madera, residential and miscellaneous permits made up 62 per cent of the $202,450 total. San Anselmo had $88,534 — 70 per cent residential; Fairfax $55,175 — 64 per cent residential, and Ross $33,000, all for miscellaneous permits.

West Marin and other unincorporated areas not included in the communities above accounted for $734,935 — 79 per cent residential.

Total permits for the first 10 months of this year amounted to $81.4 million — up from $43.8 million last year for the same period.

George Gilardi Makes Return To Marin County With Bay Products

Newly opened at 50 Belvedere Street, San Rafael, is Bay Products, which marks a return to business in Marin County by George Gilardi of Point Reyes.

Gilardi was 10 years in San Rafael with Hecker Manufacturing Co. until it was purchased several months ago by Combustion Engineering and moved to Richmond. He continued with the company in that city, but has now set up his own company here handling shower doors, medicine cabinets and other Hecker products. Sales are made both to builders and the general public.

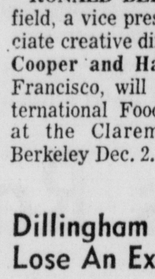
Bay Products' location at 50 Belvedere is temporary until about next March when permanent quarters should be completed at 60 Belvedere.

RALPH L. JOSEPHS of Belvedere has formed his own manufacturers representative firm, Ralph L. Josephs and Associates, headquartered at 760 Market Street, San Francisco. The company provides broker and distributor representation and supervision, assists in developing marketing programs for both foods and non-foods in the western states and counsels on new product and consumer trends in that area.

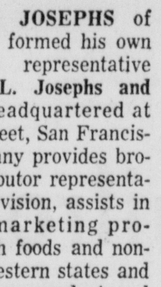
He was formerly vice president of marketing and sales for Spice Islands. Previously he was with the Frenchette Division of Carter-Wallace and also with the Brillo Co.

AXEL MIKKELSEN, director of sales for Pan American World Airways in San Francisco since 1952, has been named sales director for Hong Kong, Macao and Taiwan, effective Jan. 1. He will also be responsible for corporate governmental relations in these territories as director-executive. He has been with Pan American 25 years and has also served in Chicago and St. Louis.

LAWRENCE BECKER of Greenbrae has been appointed director of programming and systems for Qantel Corp., Hayward manufacturer of computer systems and data processing terminals. He was previously with Western Operations, Inc. developing large scale computer systems.



Mikkelsen



Becker

EDWARD F. BRENNAN of Mill Valley has been appointed brand manager for the marketing division for canned tomato products and ripe olives at California Canners and Growers. Previously he was products manager in the finance division and before that product manager for tomato products.

JOHN C. SULLIVAN of Greenbrae, vice president and trust officer at Crocker Bank's San Francisco trust office, will observe his 35th anniversary with the bank Dec. 12. He has been in the trust department since 1949, was made assistant trust officer in 1959 and trust officer in 1961. He became a vice president in 1965.

Berman

RONALD BERMAN of Kentfield, a vice president and associate creative director of Honig-Cooper and Harrington, San Francisco, will address the International Food Technologists at the Claremont Hotel in Berkeley Dec. 2.

Dillingham Will Lose An Executive

HONOLULU (BW) — William A. Simpson Jr., vice president of marketing for the Dillingham Corp., has announced that effective Dec. 31 he will retire from the Dillingham and devote his time to other business interests.

Simpson was previously chairman and chief executive officer of Dillingham Development Co.

Market In A Recoup Near Noon

NEW YORK (UPI) —The stock market recouped some of its early morning loss near noon today. Declines, however, still held a commanding lead on advances.

A variety of factors weighed on the list, including economic uncertainty, world currency problems, and selling for tax purposes. Analysts pointed out, however, that the entire situation was being compounded by fighting in Pakistan and the threat of a new outbreak in the Middle East.

On the Big Board, the day's most active issues were mostly in retreat, as more than twice as many issues declined as advanced, 49 to 327, among the 1,505 issues on the tape.

Among the day's most active issues were Jersey Standard off 7-8, Engelhard Minerals & Chemicals off 1 7-8, Union Carbide down 1-4, Polaroid 1 1-4 lower and Plessey unchanged.

Motors were mostly higher in fractions. Steels, airlines and aircrafts were narrowly mixed.

Hy-Lond Reports Net Income Hike

SONOMA (BW) — Hy-Lond Enterprises (OTC) consolidated net income for the first three months ended Sept. 30 increased to $19,925, compared to $704 for the comparable quarter last year.

Gross revenues at the end of first quarter 1971 were $2,374,157, compared with $1,911,881, for an increase of 24 per cent over the same period last year.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Through Neglect Thousands Lose Their Sight Because Of Cataracts

Cataract is a common cause of blindness, despite the fact that it is curable. In England, for example, one-third of the blind lost their sight because of neglect. The majority were elderly people who took the advice of untrained practitioners or pessimistic friends. They were encouraged to put off the operation or refused through fear, ignorance or fatalism. Cost is not a factor because England has socialized medicine.

This is a pity, yet these attitudes are understandable. The operation is only the first step of the procedure. As soon as the lens is removed the individual has entirely different vision in each eye. He is definitely blind in the operated orbit and without glasses may not see as well as he did before surgery. Most of the victims are worried about this but are apt to think that once the cataract has been removed their sight will again be as good as new.

SHORTLY AFTER surgery glasses are ordered. These thick "pebble" lenses are uncomfortable. At first, objects seem magnified and straight lines curved.

The vision is distorted and "squirmy." One authority likened it to "writhing snakes that never stay still." Meanwhile, when the other eye is treated the story repeats itself.

In time, the majority of people overcome these difficulties. They are able to drive a car, play golf, and live as they did before the opacities clouded the sight. Many get contact lenses that restore peripheral vision and allow them to have two eyes that work in unison.

NOW AND THEN the results of the operation are unfavorable because the eye surgeon does not know that behind the cataract is a degenerated retina that will prevent good vision regardless of surgery. Other complications may occur but the chances of a good result are excellent. We mention this because oldsters should not view the operation with fear and trepidation.

BLOOD CLOTTING TESTS

T.S.T. writes: Why must frequent blood tests be done when a person takes an anticoagulant after he has had a heart attack?

REPLY

Anticoagulant drugs prevent the blood from clotting. These tests ascertain whether too much of the drug has been taken so that the individual is in danger of bleeding.

NUMB AND SWOLLEN

D.B.W. writes: Could a weight gain of 20 pounds cause the ankles and feet to swell and feel numb and heavy?

REPLY

Yes, provided the gain in weight stems from fluid that has settled in the ankles and feet. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on edema of the legs and feet.

IT STARTS EARLY

REPLY

TENDER SOLES

T.R.D. writes: Is there any way to toughen tender soles?

REPLY

The soles are toughened by use in much the same way as the palms get thicker and callused by working with the hands. Soaking the feet in brine may help.

Fifer Park Owner Sells; $1 Million

The sale of Nellen Lands Inc., owner of Fifer Industrial Park in Corte Madera, for approximately $1 million has been reported by a San Francisco real estate firm.

Merritt Sher of Terranomics Corp. said his office, in conjunction with Graham Harris, another San Francisco real estate broker, negotiated the sale about two weeks ago to Western Real Estate Development Corp., a group of San Francisco investors. He said Western plans to make the Nellen properties available for sale, lease or development through his office.

Nellen Lands, also an investment group, earlier had acquired Fifer Industrial Park from the Fifer family. The property now owned by Western covers about 10 acres between Lucky Drive and Highway 101 and the southwest corner of Tamal Vista and Lucky drives. It was described by Sehr as including some commercial property now under short-term lease, 213,000 square feet of undeveloped commercial land and 65,000 square feet of industrial property.

He said Western has also acquired 60,000 square-feet of residential property south of Corte Madera Creek in another transaction.

Judge Will Remain On Magee Case

Judge Leonard M. Ginsburg of Tulare County Superior Court said yesterday he wouldn't disqualify himself from a hearing to determine whether San Quentin inmate Ruchell Magee was illegally imprisoned in 1963.

Ginsburg, scheduled to hear Magee's challenge in Marin Superior Court, filed papers denying Magee's claims he is prejudiced. He said he could give Magee a fair hearing.

Magee has repeatedly attacked his conviction for robbery-kidnapping in Los Angeles in 1963, and a subsequent retrial in the case two years later.

Artist Picked To Lead Board

NEW YORK (UPI) — A 60-year-old Puerto Rican artist and writer who never went to college was elected Monday as the chairman of the city Board of Higher Education, the governing body of the 200,000-student City University of New York (CUNY).

Luis Quero Chiesa, who came to New York in 1929, will serve until May, filling out the unexpired term of Frederick H. Burkhardt. Burkhardt announced his resignation as head of the 21-member board two months ago.

Quero Chiesa, a native of Ponce, was appointed to the board in 1964 as its first Puerto Rican member. His paintings have been shown as part of a traveling exhibit on American art and he is also know for his short stories.

S. Viets Hit Hanoi Premier

PARIS (UPI) —South Vietnam's peace negotiating team today criticized Premier Pham Van Dong of North Vietnam for his statement in Peking that Hanoi will fight against the allies "until complete victory."

In a press statement the Saigon delegation said President Nguyen Van Thieu's regime has always sought direct talks with the North with a view of finding a solution to the conflict on the basis of the South Vietnamese people's selfdetermination.

"The Hanoi and Peking leaders speak all the time about pursuing the war until a total victory, unless the South Vietnamese, Laotian and Cambodian people purely and simply capitulate," it said.

Dental Aide Program Urged

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—California dentists have been urged to help meet the increasing demand for dental services by setting up a program using specially trained assistants.

Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke told the annual alumni meeting of the University of Pacific School of Dentistry Sunday that such unlicensed assistants "would perform many of the menial tasks which today require the time of the professional dentists."

"If a national health plan goes into effect ... and that appears quite possible ... then more people will be seeking dental services than ever before, he said.

Thieves Take Picasso Oil

PARIS (UPI)—Two thieves smashed the window of a Paris art gallery today and fled with a Picasso painting valued at $270,000, police reported.

They said the painting by the 90 year-old master was the "Head of a Harlequin", a painting on wood dating from Picasso's "Rose Period" in 1905.

They said an American industrialist, Heinz Berggruen, who lives some of the time in Paris, had loaned the painting to Knoedler Art Gallery as part of a current Picasso show there.

Auto Protection Bill Signed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Consumer legislation designed to protect the California car owner against an auto repair dealer who gouges him for an overhaul but only replaces his spark plugs has been signed by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Crooked dealers could be put out of business and in jail under the bill, which Reagan said was "the toughest and most significant consumer protection legislation of the year in California."

The measure's author, Sen. Anthony Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, said, "Almost every car owner has been the victim of fraudulent auto repair practices. The new law will finally give the victimized motorist an effective means of redress."

In signing the bill Monday, Reagan declared that it was "aimed at cracking down on a certain irresponsible segment of the auto repair industry which persists in using dishonest and unethical operating methods."

The legislation protects motorists against fraud by requiring state licensing of the some 40,000 dealers in the $2.5 billion-a-year California car repair business.

Dishonest dealers could lose their licenses, be fined up to $1,000 and sentenced to up to six months in jail.

In his statement, Reagan said that an "increasing number of complaints" have been received about the car repair business. He said that fraudulent practices were not only harmful to consumers but also to the industry.

According to Beilenson, estimates of the amount swindled annually from car owners by mechanics range from $250 million to as high as $1.5 billion.

No standards are set for licensing under the bill, but it applies virtually to every dealer—from the mechanic who runs a one-man shop to big new car dealers.

Mechanics employed by dealers would not be licensed.

The measure establishes within the Department of Consumer Affairs a watchdog Bureau of Automotive Repairs. The bureau would license dealers, including most gas stations, investigate complaints and make spot checks. The bureau would be similar to one which now regulates television repair dealers.

The cost of the license would range from $25 to $50 and would finance the operations of the bureau.

After next July 1, it would be illegal to be an auto repair dealer without being licensed.

Licenses could be revoked or suspended for fraud, negligence, making false promises to induce a customer to have his car repaired and "any willful departure from or disregard of accepted trade standards for good and workmanlike repair."

The bill also requires that:

—Dealers must give the customer a signed estimate of the cost of the repairs and notify the owner if the repairs will go over that amount.

—Customers must sign a work order authorizing repairs before they may begin.

—Defective parts which have been replaced must be made available to the customer.

—Dealers must post in a conspicuous place a sign saying that complaints may be made to the Bureau of Automotive Repairs and giving the bureau's telephone number.

This was the third straight year Beilenson has carried auto repair legislation and the eighth consecutive year that the subject has been before the legislature.

Reagan's Legislative Scolding Is Countered From Both Aisles

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan's scolding of the legislature for meeting too long and spending too much taxpayers' money drew angry fire from Democrats today and concurrence from Republicans.

"There's no question that the legislature could have been out of here a long time ago," agreed Assembly Republican leader Robert T. Monagan of Tracy.

Monagan said he will push legislation next year to limit the length of legislative sessions and permit bills to stay alive for two years, as in Congress.

The Democratic-controlled legislature has broken all longevity records and today marked the 324th calendar day of its session. It already had spent $20 million through October and each day it continues to meet costs an extra $11,000 just for such items as expense allowances, printing and clerical help.

Reagan told reporters at a news conference Monday that "something must be done because I think this is disgraceful."

"I think Ronald Reagan is disgraceful," snapped Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, when informed by a newsman of Reagan's remarks. "He's never been willing to govern this state since he has been governor."

Senate Democratic leader George R. Moscone of San Francisco said "the reason we've been here this long is that Republicans refuse to consider an issue on its merits, but feel they first much check it out with the governor.

GOV. RONALD REAGAN
Meets the press

"If the governor would get out of the legislature we could get our work done much faster."

Republican Sen. H. L. Richardson of Arcadia characterized the 1971 session as "pretty much of a flop" and added "we've spent a lot of money, we've increased taxes. By and large I think we've gotten in the way of people rather substantially."

The Legislature's No. 1 accomplishment this year generally is regarded to be an overhaul of the welfare and Medi-Cal health care acts. The "reform" measures were negotiated between Reagan and Democratic legislators in August.

Since that time the legislature has been attempting to compromise on a tax bill and reapportionment plans for legislative and congressional districts.

It gave up several weeks ago trying to pass a major property tax relief program, but now apparently is near agreement on a half-billion-dollar tax increase designed primarily to balance the $6.8 billion state budget.

"Everything that had to be done in this legislative session could have been done ... and they could have been out of here by the end of June or early July," Reagan told newsmen. "I think that there has been footdragging on the part of the leadership of the majority party. And that includes in some instances chairmen of committees.

"I just say there was no need whatsoever for this session to drag on."

Reagan said Republicans are blameless because Democrats control both houses.

Reagan also said there are "legitimate complaints" about the Senate reapportionment plan, which has passed the upper house, but declined to predict whether he will veto it if the measure is sent to him by the full Legislature.

"I am opposed to gerrymanders whether they are Republican or Democrat," Reagan said.

"The people have a right to believe that when a reapportionment comes along it will be based on what is the best representation for the people, not creating a lot of districts that look like skinny octopuses with long sharp fingernails. Or is it octopi?"

One-Liner By Agnew Is Defended

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan has defended as merely a humorous "one-liner" Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's controversial remark about Rep. Paul N. McCloskey, R-Calif., and Benedict Arnold.

"I don't think there was anything in bad taste or wrong about it at all," Reagan told reporters Monday at a news conference.

Agnew, addressing the Republican Governors' Conference last Thursday in French Lick, Ind., said McCloskey was going so broke running for President he was auctioning off his art collection—including "his favorite painting: Benedict Arnold crossing the Delaware."

Agnew's joke was greeted by the GOP governors with scattered chuckles and then silence.

Benedict Arnold was an American traitor during the Revolutionary War. McCloskey, a highly decorated hero of the Korean War, is an outspoken critic of President Nixon's Vietnam policies and is challenging him for renomination.

Reagan, an outspoken orator himself, said he has "a couple of letters" on his own desk about "one-liners I've used in some political speeches.

"I think that it is nitpicking and it always seems to be onesided nitpicking—always aimed at one particular party."

Reagan said Agnew made his "humorous remark" during a series of "one-liners on political matters about potential opponents ... and he was getting pretty good laughs, too."

Asked whether he regarded the remark as funny, Reagan replied: "Yeah, I laughed."

Reagan reiterated that "I think Ted Agnew has been a great vice president and I am one who believes that Ted Agnew should be on the ticket" again next year as Nixon's running mate.

Reagan said "the President has a very large voice in choosing his running mate (but) that doesn't preclude people in his party (from) giving him counsel, and even pressing for some other candidate."

BAGLEY VOTES APPROVAL

'Forgotten Farm Labor' Bill On Governor's Desk

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The legislature has passed and sent to Gov. Ronald Reagan a long-embattled proposal to include an estimated 250,000 "forgotten" California farm laborers in unemployment insurance coverage.

The bill was sent to Reagan yesterday along with a labor-supported package to dramatically increase workmen's compensation benefits and an employer-backed bill to reduce an injured worker's power to sue.

The farm labor legislation by Assemblyman Jack Fenton, D-Montebello, cleared the Assembly without a vote to spare (41-25) on a roll call that fell generally along party lines. There was no debate.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, was among five Republicans voting for the bills.

Under the legislation, an unemployed farm worker could receive a maximum $65 a week for up to 26 weeks, the same as a jobless worker in industry. Fenton also is carrying a separate bill to raise the maximum payment to $75 a week. Unemployment insurance is employer-paid.

DISEASE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Assembly has voted final legislative approval to a bill earmarking $800,000 for the support of services to children afflicted with deadly hyaline membrane disease.

The measure by Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-San Jose, was approved on a 56-4 vote and sent to Gov. Ronald Reagan. It originally carried a $3 million appropriation but was trimmed to $800,000 in the Senate.

Aides to Vasconcellos said the disease attacks the lungs of infants and kills half of its victims through suffocation. It often leads to permanent brain damage among suvivors, they said.

40 Die In Bus Crash

FIREMEN'S PAY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate has passed legislation appropriating $1.6 million from any tax increase enacted this year to boost the pay of state fire fighters by 6 per cent.

The measure by Sen. Donald L. Grunsky, R-Watsonville, was sent to the Assembly Monday on a 28-6 vote.

HORROR TOYS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Assembly has given final legislative passage to a bill banning the manufacture and sale of horror or torture toys in California beginning July 1.

The measure by Assemblyman John Burton, D-San Francisco, was sent to Gov. Ronald Reagan Monday on a 45-8 vote on major Senate amandments.

The bill originally banned the sale of war toys, but the Senate amendments narrowed the bill to outlaw only toys resembling a bomb or grenade. The bill also bans toys designed to depict torture.

Mao, Pham Van Dong Meet In Peking

HONG KONG (UPI)—Chairman Mao Tse-tung of the People's Republic of China conferred with North Vietnamese Premier Pham Van Dong Monday, the New China News Agency (NCNA) said today.

Chairman Mao shook hands with the North Vietnamese delegation to Peking and had his photograph taken with them at the reception hall in Peking, NCNA said.

Brown Takes Role In Muskie Drive

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI)—Former California Gov. Edmund G. "Pat" Brown will be cochairman for the western states of the presidential campaign for Sen. Edmund Muskie.

Brown announced his acceptance of the post Monday, urging Muskie to "announce his availability" and calling the Maine Democrat "the only man ... who can win in '72."

EQUAL BILLING

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation to give women equal billing with men in school textbooks adopted by the state for use by public school children has been approved by the Senate.

The measure by Assemblyman Bill Greene, D-Los Angeles, passed the upper house Monday on a 22-9 vote and was returned to the Assembly for amendment concurrence.

It specifically directs that the texts provide "accurate portrayals" of women in all types of roles in daily life.

JAIL BILL

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill requiring judges sentencing a person for a felony to count the time he has spent in jail prior to and during his trial reached Gov. Ronald Reagan today.

The measure by Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, was approved by the Assembly Monday on a 42-2 vote.

Currently, a judge may consider the time spent in jail before sentencing — called "dead time" — when passing sentence, but does not have to credit him for the time already served.

BAGLEY MEASURE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation exempting candy and gum from the state sales tax, but extending the tax to all hot foods sold in restaurants, has been given final legislative passage by the Assembly.

The measure, which also makes adjustments on motor vehicle use taxes and state gift taxes, would net the state $15.7 million next year. The Assembly voted concurrence 47-14 in Senate amendments Monday.

The bill by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, taxes all hot food regardless of where it is eaten. Currently, hot foods are not subject to the 5 per cent sales tax unless they are eaten on the premises of the restaurant.

The state would lose $18 million a year by exempting candy from the sales tax, beginning Jan. 1, but the loss would be offset by a $23.4 million increase in the tax on restaurant foods.

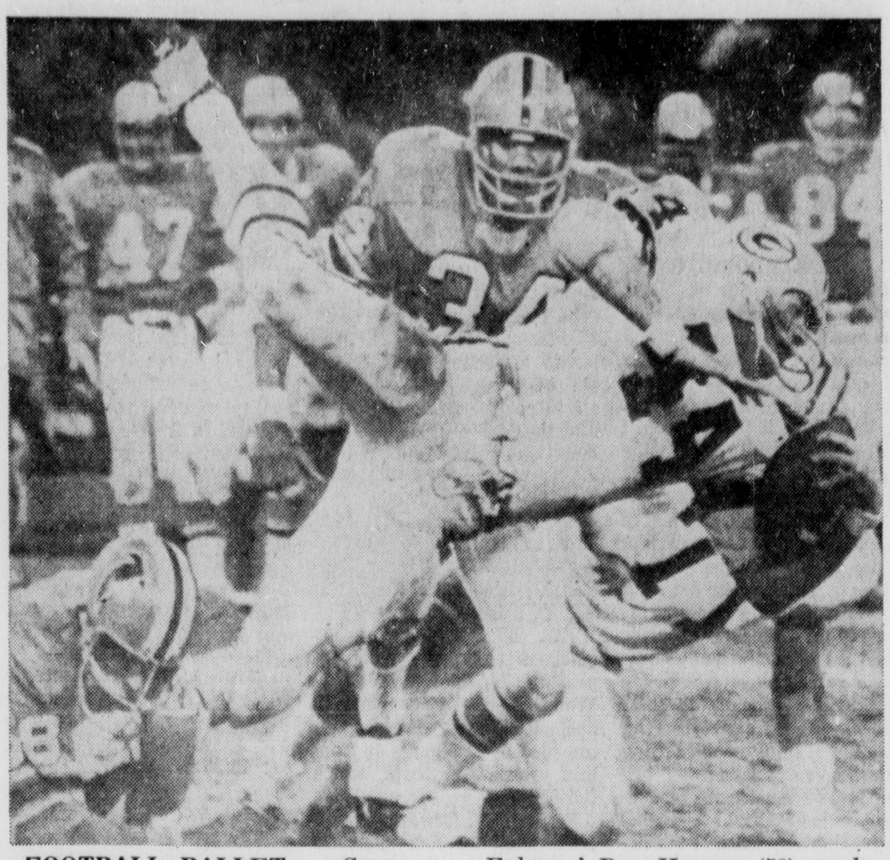
Atlanta 'Outhits' Green Bay, Triumphs 28-21



FOOTBALL BALLET — Green Bay Packer running back Donnie Anderson (44) balanced gracefully before crashing to the ground last night against Atlanta. The Falcons' Don Hansen (58) made the tackle while Falcon safety Ray Brown (34) and Green Bay tackle Francis Peay (71) looked on. Atlanta won, 28-21. (UPI Telephoto)

ATLANTA (UPI) — If anyone doubts that the six-year-old Atlanta Falcons have come of age, check with Green Bay coach Dan Devine.

"The Falcons are tougher than we are physically, that's very obvious," Devine said after Atlanta dominated the Packers far more completely than its 28-21 Monday night victory indicated.

Statistics prove Devine's point.

The Falcons, led by quarterback Bob Berry who completed 16 of 21 passes in his first start in five weeks, outgained the Packers 386 yards to 143 and had a 27-7 edge in first downs.

"If we're hitting people we can beat anyone," said Falcons coach Norm Van Brocklin. "We gave them two of their three touchdowns."

The Falcons drove 82, 53 and 70 yards the first three times they had the ball but were leading only 12-7 after that span. Drives one and three resulted in touchdowns but No. 2 backfired wmen Bob Brown blocked a Bill Bell field goal try and Doug Hart ran 57 yards to score for the Packers.

The Packers, completing their only sustained drive of the entire game with a 14-yard Scott Hunter-to-Donnie Anderson pass, scored 3:27 before halftime and, although outgained 210-91 at that point, led 14-12 at half time.

"Things broke down at the start of the second half," said Devine, referring to Jim Butler's 82-yard kickoff return that set up the Falcons' third touchdown and the Packers' inability to make a first down after getting a second-and-one at their own 46.

"Those were probably the key plays that beat us," said Devine, "I don't know what would have happened if we had gotten that first down — but I sure would like to have had the opportunity to find out."

The Falcons drove 69 yards the next time they got the ball but lost it via a fumble at the Green Bay 21. That delayed them momentarily but they were on the move again moments later after Ken Reaves' intercepted a Hunter pass and when Art Malone scored his second touchdown with 11:43 left in the game, Atlanta went ahead 26-14.

Green Bay closed the gap with 5:58 left when John Brockington ran 24 yards the play after the Packers recovered another Falcon fumble. But the Packers only had the ball one play after that — and that play cost them two points.

The win gives Atlanta, which has now won four of its last five (losing in the final seconds last week to the Naw York Giants) a 5-4-1 record and puts the Falcons one game behind pace-setting Los Angeles (6-3-1) and a half game behind runnerup San Francisco (6-4-0) in the NFC west.

"We're still very much in this thing," said Atlanta defensive end John Zook who helped hobble Green Bay quarterback Scott Hunter Monday night. "But we're going to have to worry about our own games instead of someone else's.

"We're going into the stretch against Minnesota, Oakland and San Francisco and you can't worry about what some other team is doing when you play teams like those."

Zook and his teammates threw Hunter for losses five times — equalling the total times he had been previously dumped all season. With that kind of rush, the rookie from Alabama completed only three of the eight passes he did get away.

"We knew we could rush Hunter if we took the runaway and that's what we did," said Zook.

Hunter's final indignity came in the final minute of play when, after Billy Lothridge had punted out of bounds on the Green Bay one, Zook and company ran the young quarterback clean out of the end zone for a safety.

"That was just another example of Atlanta's toughness," said Devine. "You can't play in this league without toughness and Van Brocklin has weeded his people out."

Must Win Final 4 49er Pair Agree

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Jimmy Johnson and Doug Cunningham are on opposite sides of the fence when it comes to defense and offense, but the two 49ers were in complete agreement on one major point yesterday — the 49ers must win all four remaining games to have any title chance.

SPEAKING BEFORE the Marin Chapter, 49er Goal Rushers at Holiday Inn, the two 49ers said it will take victories over New York Jets, Kansas City, Atlanta and Detroit. The Rams, leading the Niners by a half-game after Sunday's 17-6 triumph, must lose a game, also, for S.F. to repeat as National Football Conference western champs.

When someone asked how the loss to the Rams affected team morale, Johnson, the team's all-star cornerback, said, "A lot of us will be down today, feeling low, but after we see the films Tuesday we'll be through with the Ram game." The team's thoughts will then switch to the Jets and winning, he said.

Some of the questions from the boosters group yesterday were centered around the officiating in the Ram game and the two players, showing they were veterans to the question and answer game as well as the kind on the field, neatly sidestepped most of them. NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle has been known to throw out a few fines when players or coaches openly criticize his faultless boys in stripes.

JOHNSON EXPLAINED that a lot of the penalties are "judgment calls" by officials and nothing can be done about it.

Johnson, as he did in the Ram game, will be playing the rest of the season with his right wrist in a cast. He broke it during the New Orleans game the week before but it takes more than broken bones to stop some players — exactly what I don't know.

Johnson explained he'll play the rest of the season with his broken wrist, without any chance of it healing until the season is over when he can rest it in a plaster cast. He's now playing with a special cast, and although the crack won't widen, it won't mend either.

PAIN? YOU KNOW it. "I took two pain killer pills before the game and three more at halftime," he said.

Cunningham said the reason he was playing more in the Ram game was because regular halfback Vic Washington was coming up with leg cramps and as the offensive players before him, Cunningham was asked about the 49ers' ability to rack up yardage but failure to score touchdowns.

"Bad breaks," he said. "When we get to the 20 we have a pass intercepted or we fumble."

When asked what plays he runs best, Cunning ham, who carries the nickname "Goober," laughed, "The plays I run best are the ones in which I get good blocking."

JOHNSON TOLD the boosters that he feels there will be more scrambling quarterbacks in the NFL. As a defensive back, Johnson said the scramblers are much harder to defend because the back has to watch both the receiver when he cuts and the quarterback, not knowing whether he's passing or scrambling. If the quarterback scrambles long enough, the receiver will eventually get himself open, he said. "The quarterbacks nowadays are getting like linemen — 6-3 or 6-4. I think the draft system will go toward big, scrambling quarterbacks."

Johnson, an 11-year pro and No. 1 49er draft choice out of UCLA, is a brother of former Olympic decathlon champion Rafer Johnson. He has been selected All-Pro the past two years. Cunningham is a five-year pro, a No. 6 49er draft pick out of University of Mississippi who was a starter the last two years before Vic Washington came on the scene.

Chambliss Named A.L.'s Top Rookie

NEW YORK (UPI)—Chris Chambliss won his second consecutive Rookie of the Year Award Monday when the hard-hitting Cleveland first baseman collected 11 of the 24 votes cast by sports writers in American League cities.

Chambliss, last year's top rookie in the American Association where he batted .342 for Wichita, received six more votes than his nearest competitor, Milwaukee Brewer pitcher Bill Parsons, in the balloting for the best first-year man in the American League.

OTHER VOTES

Third in the judgement of the sports writers was Oakland Athletic outfielder Angel Mangual with four votes, followed by Boston Red Sox second baseman Doug Griffin with three. Paul Splittorff was the only other player to receive consideration but the Kansas City Royal southpaw received only one vote.

Chambliss joined the Indians on May 17 from Wichita and wound up the season with a .275 average, nine home runs and 48 RBI. His efforts were not enough to help Cleveland out of the AL Eastern Division cellar, however, but they were good enough to make him the first first-baseman since Walt Dropo of Boston in 1950 to be named the top rookie.

SECOND INDIAN

Chambliss, a month shy of his 23rd birthday, is also only the second Cleveland player to win the award in its 25-year history. Herb Score won the award in 1955.

LOSE OATS

Oakland Regains Keating

OAKLAND (UPI) —The Oakland Raiders have gained a defensive lineman but lost another.

Defensive tackle Tom Keating may play for the first time in eight weeks Sunday when the Raiders host the Baltimore Colts. But Carleton Oats, another defensive trenchman, is in Los Angeles for an examination of a knee injured in last Sunday's win over San Diego.

Oats may require an operation, but even if he doesn't, it is unlikely that he will play against the Colts.

Raider coach John Madden, who has had his problems keeping his defensive line healthy, said Keating will be activated if he's ready.

"This would be a good week for him to come back," Madden said.

Keating broke a bone in his leg in the third game of the season.

"My leg is a little sore," Keating said, "because the muscles atrophied when my leg was in a cast. But I'm all right. I intend to practice all week and unless I break my leg again in practice. I'm going to be able to play."

SVARE NAMED

Chargers Lose Gillman

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)—Sid Gillman's "lifetime contract" with the National Football League San Diego Chargers has expired unexpectedly.

The veteran coach resigned Monday after a disagreement with club president Eugene V. Klein.

First year general manager Harland Svare, who played under Gillman with the Los Angeles Rams, became an interim head coach for the second time in his career.

The three appeared separately at a news conference and the disagreement seemed to concern whether to play out the string or look forward to next year with quarterback John Hadl, an innocent bystander, seeing less action.

Klein five years ago tore up Gillman's contract and gave him a new and better one, to expire at the end of this season.

"There was no such thing as a deadline," Klein said. "I trust Sid did not feel he was under the gun."

"Mr. Klein always told me I had a lifetime contract, so I never bothered to talk contract with him," Gillman said, "But with the countdown getting near, I finally decided this morning to get with him and talk contract."

Both said the meeting was cordial, friendly and business-like, but ended in a way neither fully expected.

"I had no idea I'd be looking for a new coach until 10:30 this morning," Klein said.

According to Gillman, Klein said he would not make an evaluation until the end of the year and ordered him to "scrap some football players and take a look at some new ones."

"I'm a coach," Gillmans said. "I couldn't accept being told I'm going to put Hadl aside or this guy aside. That kind of brought it to a head."

Both consider Hadl one of the game's great quarterbacks, but the disagreement was how to use him the rest of the year. Both are men of conviction who are used to making decisions. Gillman resigned.

During Gillman's 11 years with the Chargers, one in Los Angeles and 10 in San Diego, the club compiled the fifth best record in pro football with 95 wins, 60 losses and nine ties, including a 4-6 mark this year.

Gillman retired as head coach after nine games in 1969 because of illness, and was replaced by Charlie Waller.

The Chargers have won five Western Division titles and one American Football League championship under Gillman, but he has not been popular with the fans in recent years because of a string of third place finishes.

Svare, who replaced Bob Waterfield as coach of the Los Angeles Rams in a similar situation in 1962, emphasized he is happy as general manager and has "no designs on being head coach." He said he plans no major changes as he has just been a fan in the stands this year and knows better than to second guess.

Waller and former Green Bay Packers mentor Phil Bengston are on the coaching staff, and Klein said he did not pick them for the interim assignment because he wants to leave the field wide open for next year for all candidates.

Klein said it was unfortunate the decision had to occur, but he must look to the future, which is roughly the same thing he said in appointing Gillman executive vice president earlier this year.

Pirates' Murtaugh Resigns

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Danny Murtaugh, who twice has managed the Pittsburgh Pirates to world Series victories, announced his retirement today and batting Coach Bill Virdon was named to succeed him.

Neither the retirement nor the replacement came as a surprise.

HEART TROUBLE

Murtaugh, 54, has a history of heart trouble that once before forced his retirement—only to have him return again at the start of the 1970 season—and Virdon had filled-in during the past two seasons when Murtaugh was temporarily sidelined due to illness.

Virdon, 40, was National League rookie-of-the-year in 1955 and played centerfield on Murtaugh's first world championship club in 1960. He batted .267 in an 11-year career.

BEST MANAGER

"I think Dan is the best manager in baseball and it's with extreme regret that he's leaving us," said General Manager Joe L. Brown. "But both Dan and I feel that Bill will take over where Dan left off last year."

Murtaugh said health factors were part of the reason he is not returning.

"Several events last year led me to believe I might run into some difficulties next year," he said.

HEALTH GOOD

"Although doctors have assured me that my health is good, each succeeding season seems to take that much more out of me."

Murtaugh said his decision was reached after much "soul searching" and discussion with his family.

"It naturally is a difficult choice to make, but the availability of a baseball man of the caliber of Bill Virdon reinforces my conviction that I am doing the right thing," he said.

Virdon, who flew in early today from Puerto Rico where he is managing in the winter league, said:

"I don't know how I'm going to take over after watching Dan operate for the last couple of years but it's going to be a pleasure."

It will be Virdon's major league managerial debut.

Terra Linda Gets Water Polo Win

In other season-opening MCAL action, San Marin edged Tamalpais, 8-7, in overtime, San Rafael whipped Drake, 16-2, and Redwood drew a bye.

Novato seized an early lead behind the potent scoring of Jim Praul, who finished with six goals. Terra Linda forged ahead but the Hornets cut the gap to 8-7 before the Trojans pulled away to win. Ted Gazulis led Terra Linda's balanced attack with three goals, while Keith Strange and Todd Gulick contributed two each.

Terra Linda is seeking its third consecutive league championship. The Trojans had a perfect 12-0 record last year and were 11-1 the year before.

This season, the Trojans lost all six of their pre-season games, but "we were playing some pretty good high schools," said coach Charles Metz. "Besides, the season was just ending for them and just beginning for us." At most schools, water polo season coincides with football season.

Scott Dicker scored nine goals to key San Rafael's victory over Drake. San Rafael is shaping up as a strong challenger to Terra Linda, and their game tomorrow at San Rafael will be a crucial early-season collision.

San Marin's victory against Tam came on a sudden-death overtime goal by Dave Milano, his third tally of the game. Jay Woods of San Marin was high scorer with four goals, and Dan Gustafson was outstanding in goal for the Mustangs, blocking 12 shots.

On Wednesday, San Marin will play at Redwood, Drake at Tamalpais and Terra Linda at San Rafael. Novato draws a bye.

San Marin, San Rafael and Terra Linda are tied for the league lead with 1-0 records. Redwood is 0-0, while Drake, Novato and Tamalpais are tied for the cellar at 0-1.

NEBRASKA-OKLAHOMA

Game Stirs Campus Tensions

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — The signs of excitement and tension that have held football fans in their grips for the past week in anticipation of the Oklahoma-Nebraska game Thanksgiving Day are finally beginning to show on the Cornhuskers.

In contrast to last week's low key businesslike practice sessions, Monday's workout for Nebraska was an uproar as here and there one could note a backslap, a spirited shout or a traditional pat on the backside.

"Today was perhaps the most spirited practice we have had," coach Bob Devaney said Monday. "We've had spirited practices before but you could tell that it's getting closer to game time."

49ers See Surge; Jets Regain Namath

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — While the San Francisco 49ers still are trying to figure out how they lost to Los Angeles, they believe they'll regain the top spot in the National Football Conference West division.

"Heck," said rookie fullback Larry Schreiber. "I think we'll be back in first place on Thanksgiving. The Rams play Dallas there and I believe the Cowboys will beat them."

Namath, who has been sidelined all season with a knee injury, could be on the field Sunday when San Francisco meets the New York Jets in New York.

Dr. Nicholas, the Jets team physician, said he had given medical clearance for Namath to play.

"Now it is up to Namath and (coach Weeb) Ewbank," Nicholas said.

Wide receiver Dick Witcher was the only 49er casualty in the loss to the Rams as he suffered a shoulder sprain, but San Francisco coach Dick Nolan said he would be ready to go against the Jets.

Nolan also said cornerback Jim Johnson, who fractured a wrist against New Orleans but played against Los Angeles, would play Sunday.

Warriors Fret Poor Attendance

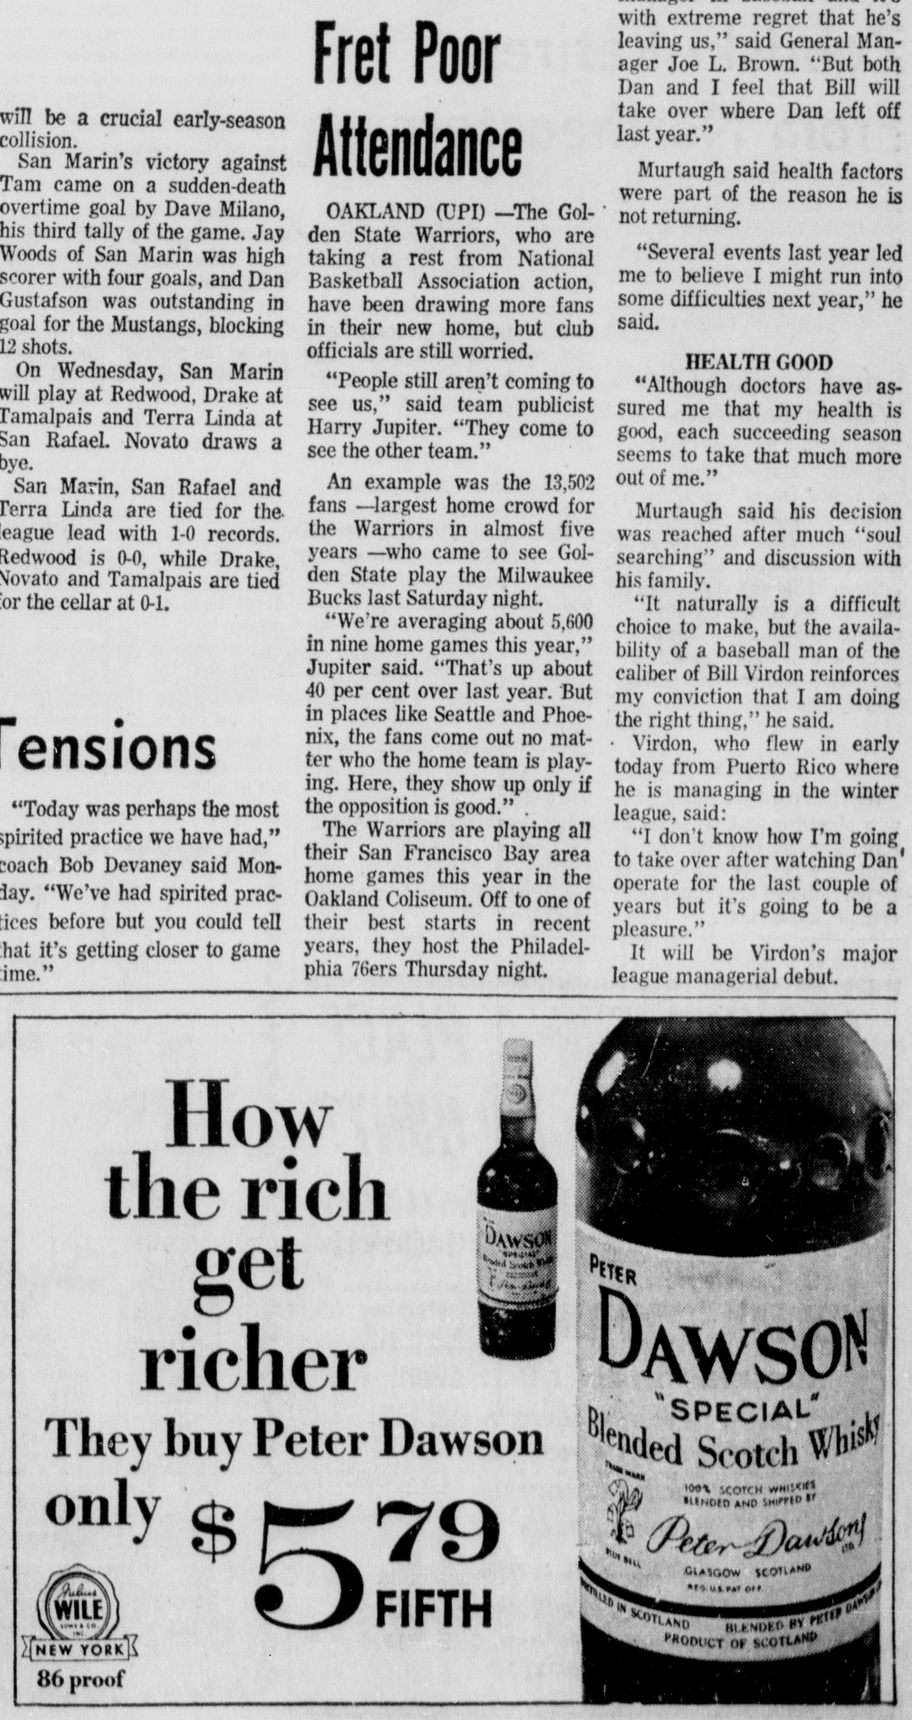
OAKLAND (UPI) —The Golden State Warriors, who are taking a rest from National Basketball Association action, have been drawing more fans in their new home, but club officials are still worried.

"People still aren't coming to see us," said team publicist Harry Jupiter. "They come to see the other team."

An example was the 13,502 fans —largest home crowd for the Warriors in almost five years —who came to see Golden State play the Milwaukee Bucks last Saturday night.

"We're averaging about 5,600 in nine home games this year," Jupiter said. "That's up about 40 per cent over last year. But in places like Seattle and Phoenix, the fans come out no matter who the home team is playing. Here, they show up only if the opposition is good."

The Warriors are playing all their San Francisco Bay area home games this year in the Oakland Coliseum. Off to one of their best starts in recent years, they host the Philadelphia 76ers Thursday night.



FISH AND GAME

Abalone Picking May Get Turn Off

By AL GIDDINGS

"I've had a number of calls regarding the proposed shoreline closings of the Point Reyes Headlands and the Estero de Limantour. To futher clarigy, the Fish and Game Commission at its Nov. 5 meeting in San Diego announced among its "determinations," or proposed 1972 sportfishing regulations, to add two new Sections to the Commission Regulations.

Section 57 would be added to read: "Point Reyes Headlands Reserve (Marin County). No form of marine life may be taken from the ocean area within 1,000 feet of the high tide mark in the Point Reyes Headlands bounded on the west by a line extending due west (trut) from the Point Reyes Lighthouse, and on the easy by a line extending due east (true) from Chimney Rock, without a written permit from the department."

WHAT DOES the above actually mean? The Point Reyes Headlands is the three-mile rocky area from the Point Reyes Lighthouse all the way east to Chimney Rock. This area covered by the proposed closure is one of the three main abalone and rockfish areas of Marin County. Closing the Area entirely would just about eliminate abalone picking and rockfishing there, especially with the 1,000 foot closed zone included in the regulation.

Section 58 would be added to read: "Estero de Limantour Reserve (Marin County). No forms of marine life may be taken below the high water mark in Estero de Limantour without a written permit from the department. Estero de Limantour includes all tideland waters to high water mark in an easterly direction from a line drawn due north (true) from the extreme westerly point of Limantour Spit."

DOES THIS close all of Drake's Estero? No, Estero de Limantour is the eastern most finger of the five fingers of Drake's Estero. Everything would be protected here, but clam digging, etc. would remain open in the rest of the Estero.

The Fish and Game Commission will hold a public meeting for final adoption of the proposed 1972 sport fishing regulations which includes the above two closures on Dec. 10 at Sacramento.

OTHER ITEMS of information:

The Department of Fish and Game's Region III Headquarters has moved from the Ferry Building, San Francisco, to Yountville, Napa County, this past week. The post office box number is 47, Yountville, Calif., 94599.

The silver salmon anglers at Tomales Bay and in the tide waters of Papermill Creek took some nice fish the past few days. Pete Valconezi of Point Reyes took a pair that weighed 17 and 16 pounds on a fly. Bob Davis and Ciero Giamona of Point Reyes had four beauties. About 10 were checked last Saturday. Beautiful fish!

THE TOMALES Bay bass derby is on now; it lasts until Dec. 31. The largest bass taken so far is a 14½ pounder by Joe Britto of Inverness. That should be easy to beat! Check in with Bill Thompson at the Inverness Store for your sign up and the latest local dope.

I got in a duck hunt with Norm Quadros up at the Sacramento Refuge last Wednesday. I didn't want to go, but "Moe" had a reservation so just to please him, I went. You won't believe this! We limited out by noon with two mallards and twelve sprigs. One of the best shoots I've ever had. We never lost a bird doomed either and that always makes for a good hunt.

MY DAUGHTER, Marylu, who is almost 19, took a flying trip to Michigan for a deer hunt. Here's all I've heard to date, and she's been gone a week!

"The country back here's so beautiful. The farm I'm on is so neat! I haven't seen any deer, but had some fresh venison just killed the night before. One of the kids got it when it broke its neck in a fence. You should be here — everyone poaches. You'd love it!"

Candlestick Parking Problem Ires Fans

Each week Candlestick Park's seating capacity increases as double-decking of the stadium progresses. But Candlestick's 8,200-car parking area is frozen. The lot isn't big enough to handle 49er game traffic. The situation is messy. It's going to get worse before it gets better.

Parking around Kezar Stadium was a problem that frayed nerves of 49er fans. Parking at Candlestick still is fraying their nerves.

Through years of experience, 49er fans did a good job of solving Kezar's parking problem. They parked their cars three and four miles from the stadium. The dispersed nature of Kezar parking required considerable footwork to and from the stadium but it did have one plus factor — a fairly fast getaway after the game. There was no concentration of cars in one big lot at Kezar.

The bay prohibits any dispersed parking around Candlestick after the 8,200-car lot is filled. Late arriving fans find this frustrating. In their frustration they have been parking around the perimeter of the lot, blocking exits. And that has become a source of post-game frustration for fans trying to get out of the lot.

Emptying Candlestick's parking lot has become a tedious business. Emptying any parking lot of 8,200 cars takes time. But when exits are blocked the delay becomes unreasonable, especially if there are only two exit streets such as those at Candlestick.

"Next time try a boat," would be an appropriate lure for Candlestick-bound fans caught in bumper-to-bumper traffic. Indeed, some of the smart ones now are using boats.

Candlestick's traffic problem may be a headache to 49er fans but youngsters who live on the Jamestown Avenue approach to the park love it. They're selling parking space on sidewalks in front of their parents' homes. Some have even received parental permission to peddle the home garage space on Sunday afternoons.

Renting garage space around Kezar on game days was an old custom of many Sunset District residents. The closer the garage was to Kezar, the higher the parking fee. A garage a block from the stadium always was good for a $5 per car fee.

Some Sunset residents used to drive their own cars out of garages early on game days and occupy street parking areas. Thus, they could collect not only for garage space but also when they relinquished the street parking area before going for a Sunday drive.

Street parking is prohibited along Jamestown Avenue on game days at Candlestick. But sidewalk parking is permitted. After all, Jamestown residents can't be held in a state of siege.

Texas A & M To Get Bowl Bid If . . .

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI)—Texas A&M will win an invitation to play in the Liberty Bowl in Memphis, Tenn., if the Aggies can defeat Southwest Conference leader Teams on Thanksgiving Day.__

Texas A&M (6-5) would face 11th-ranked Tennessee (7-2) in the Dec. 2 contest.

Arkansas (8-2-1) will go to the Liberty Bowl if Texas A&M loses to the Longhorns. But the Razorbacks will be hoping for an A&M victory, for it would make Arkansas 1971 champions of the Southwest Conference.

As SWC champs, the Razorbacks would then be the host team in the Cotton Bowl against Penn State (10-1).

Texas needs the win to capture the SWC crown and the Cotton bowl berth too. If the Longhorns (7-2) lose to A&M they would be left without a post-season game.

A victory for the Aggies would be a dramatic end to Coach Gene Stallings' comeback this season from a 1-5 record five weeks ago and widespread talk of his being fired.

NEBRASKA BACK HIT FOR LOSS

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — Lancaster County judge Ralph Slocum Monday fined University of Nebraska alternate slot back Glen P. Garson $50 on a charge of taking a police car.

Garson, 19, specifically pleaded guilty to a charge of disturbing the peace.

SEALS HURTING

Webster's Bad Back Examined

OAKLAND (UPI) —While the California Golden Seals are recovering from a gruesome 10-day road trip and waiting to resume National Hockey League play, the discussion is about the condition of winger Tom Webster.

Webster, obtained from the Detroit Red Wings in an early season trade has missed the last 10 games with a back injury.

A Toronto newspaper has reported that Seals owner Charles Finley wanted the trade voided because of the injury, but Finley had no public comment.

PREP BASKETBALL

San Marin Seeks Wright Approach

By LEW CODDINGTON

(Sixth in a series on Marin County Athletic League basketball prospects.)

San Marin will rely on overall team quickness and the individual brilliance of Hoza Wright in an effort to improve last year's fifth-place finish in the Marin County Athletic League basketball race.

The Mustangs were 5-9 in league play last season. Wright is the only returning starter, although help is expected from former substitutes Marty Larson and Greg Mazeres, transfer Bob La Point and a horde of ex-junior varsity players.

"Wright is probably the best one-on-one player in the league," said coach Andy Frauenhofen. The 6-foot-2 forward was second team all-conference last year as a sophomore, finishing ninth in scoring with a 12.1 average. This year he was also all-league in football as a defensive back.

La Point, a 6-2 forward who transferred from Castro Valley, is "a very welcome addition," said Frauenhofer, and will start.

Larson, 5-9, and Mazeres, 5-10, are both senior guards who played frequently as reserves last season, and both will draw starting assignments this year. The third guard will be Mark Sower, a 5-10 junior up from the J.V.s, whom the coach calls "vastly improved."

Another former J.V., John Tate, is expected to start at center, giving San Marin a respectably-sized front line of 6-5, 6-2, 6-2. Tate is a junior.

"We will try to exploit our quickness by doing a lot of pressing on defense," said Frauenhofer. "We have enough depth to do this." The depth is provided by 11 players up from last year's J.V. team, which finished 4-10.

Former J.V. forwards are 6-3 Bart Salig, 6-3 Ken Siler, 6-3 Jon Beade, 6-2 Randy Colfer and 6-1 Fred Doar. Guards are 5-9 Dave Ilchert, 5-7 Brian Reuger and 5-10 Bob Briot. Ron Zechlin at 5-11 can play either guard or forward.

With such depth, Frauenhofer plans to substitute liberally to keep fresh players in the game and keep the press functioning.

"We will use a continuity-type offense," he said. "We have balanced height and a lot of these guys can switch easily from guard to forward.

"This is the best shooting club we've had here," he went on. "Wright and Siler especially are good shooters."

Billie Jean, Rosie Casals See Association Putdown

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Billie Jean King and Rosemary Casals, two of the world's top women tennis players, expect the United States Lawn Tennis Association to set them down "any day now," but they could care less.

"The women's tour won't be playing under USLTA sponsorship in 1972 if we get suspended," said Mrs. King, an outspoken critic of USLTA policies. "All the girls who plan to play on the tour said they will back us all the way."

Mrs. King and Miss Casals, who were one-two in pro money winnings in 1971 with $120,000 and $60,000, respectively, will be in San Francisco in January to help kick off the 1972 Virginia Slims Tour. The San Francisco tourney is being underwritten for the second straight year by British Motors.

Mrs. King and Miss Casals said they expect to be suspended by the USLTA.

"Let's say, we won't be surprised if they suspend us," said Mrs. King.

Zabilski Retires From Northeastern

BOSTON (UPI)—Joe Zabilski, who "made more kids into men and broke more coach's hearts than anybody else," has retired after 24 years as Northeastern University football coach.

Lyons follows a tough act. Zabilski, the New England football coaching "dean" for the region's longest tenure at the same school, sported a career record of 101 wins, 77 losses and six ties.

"All you have to do is have 10 unbeaten seasons to have a shot at that," N.U. Athletic Director Herb Gallagher told Lyons as he took over from Zabilski, who will devote his full time to the duties of associate athletic director.

As perhaps one of the most popular coaches in New England with both friend and foe, Zabilski led Northeastern to 13 winning seasons and three others which split even though the school has steadily upgraded its independent schedule while moving in recent years from the small to the major college class.

Frazier To Fight Daniels

"Believe me," I'm going to be out there smoking and try to keep that title because I don't intend to give it up to anybody," said Frazier, undefeated in 27 fights, including 23 knockouts.

Daniels, who will graduate from Southern Methodist University in a few months with a degree in government, said he felt "good" about the signing because of the "fact that just one man stands between me and the heavyweight title and all the goodies that go with it."

The 10 p.m. (EST) 15-round title fight Jan. 15 will be shown nationally on home television and is expected by Century Telesports Network, the carrier, to draw an audience of 24 million viewers. It is the first time a world heavyweight title fight has been shown live on home television since Muhammad Ali beat Zora Foley.

Daniels, 25, a native ative of Willoughby, Ohio who now lives in Dallas, has a record of 29 victories, four losses and a draw.

Big Bears Weep At Piccolo Film

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Chicago Bears went to a movie Monday evening, and the rough, tough pro football players wound up as sentimental softies.

They were wiping wet eyes, covering sniffles, blowng their noses, and generally using handkerchiefs to good purpose.

The film they saw was "Brian's Song," scheduled for television display Nov. 30, and previewed to the Bears because the subject was the late Brian Piccolo, once their teammate.

The TV network billed the film as a "drama depicting the warm beautiful friendship between Piccolo and teammate Gale Sayers."

It was that. But it also was a study in sadness, and while many of the Bears could remember their teammate Piccolo with pleasure, they could remember too the sorrow occasioned by his illness and death.

Piccolo died in June, 1970, of cancer. He left the Bears midway through the 1969 season when he developed a deep, hacking, incurable cough which later resulted in three operations prior to his death.

The darkened theater hid the Bears and members of their families who had to find handkerchiefs and wipe their eyes when Sayers on the screen told his teammates prior to a game that Piccolo had cancer, and broke down himself.

Pedro Carrasco Quits In Huff Over Victory

MADRID (UPI) —Pedro Carrasco of Spain, said Monday he was quitting boxing because the World Boxing Council refused to recognize his title fight against Mando Ramos of the United States two weeks ago in Madrid.

Carrasco, 28, won an 11th round TKO when Nigerian referee Samuel Odubote disqualified the American for low punching. The result was solidly disputed here and abroad.

"I am retiring from boxing for ever and I do not intend to face Ramos in a return match I have already signed for", a dejected Carrasco said.

A Platoon's Strange Jungle Patrol

A tiny black dot inside a small yellow circle and it showed where 21 American soldiers were using black machetes to hack their way through head-high elephant grass in a combat patrol.

The dot was the 3rd Platoon, Alpha Company of the 1st Battalion, 327th Infantry.

By nightfall on the third day of their patrol in the rocket belt five miles from Da Nang, the platoon had moved their dot to a small hill at one end of Leech Valley. It was duly recorded on the big map back at Fire Base Maude and on bigger maps elsewhere in American headquarters around South Vietnam.

The moving dot is termed "defensive" patrolling, since the United States is pulling its troops out of the war zone. The 21 men of the platoon packed everything from a pair of machine guns to grenades. Gunships and artillery support were a radio call away.

The men could not stop to admire the view as monsoon clouds loitered below the peaks of the surrounding dark green mountains and silver waterfalls flashed in the setting sun. They were hushed and their "L.T." (lieutenant) had trained his binoculars on three Viet Cong stalking across a nearby hill.

While various members of the platoon watched the three men vanish over the hill, Holland tried to confirm that all friendly soldiers in the area were accounted for in order to avoid shooting at possible U.S. or South Vietnamese troops.

"They're still proceeding east and are almost out of sight," land told headquarters. By the time confirmation was given, the three Viet Cong had disappeared. It was the closest the men came to contact during the entire patrol.

Now it was back to normal business. Spec 4 Tom Oldfather, 20, of Waterloo, Iowa, and Spec. 4 Joel Emert, 21, of La Puente, Calif., went into the deep gjss to set out booby traps for night protection.

SFC. Richard H. Daniels, 36, of Lagrange, Ga., watched them go as he cooked some rations over a tiny stove made from a can punched full of holes.

"This platoon has never been in combat together, but they know what they're doing," Daniels said. "I'd go into a firefight with any of them."

"I don't think I've missed anything," PFC. Ralph T. Caudill of Ottowa, W.Va., said about not seeing action during his month in the field. Caudill, 21, is the newest member of the platoon. "These dudes know their stuff—they've been here a while. They never steer you wrong."

But the men were unhappy about an incident earlier in the patrol during which Caudill inherited the machine gun. The soldier who originally carried the weapon went into drug withdrawal convulsions and began screaming just as dusk was beginning to fall the previous day. He was taken out by helicopter.

"Then, because of him, we had to hump out again during the night to a new position because with his screaming, and the helicopter coming in, everybody knew where we were," said PFC. Miguel Vasquez, 21, of Newark, N.J.

There was no other indication of drugs among other patrol members.

Robber Gets $67 In Hub

A man who told his victim he had just been released from jail robbed a San Anselmo ice cream parlor waitress of $67 Saturday, police reported yesterday.

Police said the man purchased an ice cream cone Saturday at the Mr. C Ice Cream Bar at the Pepperwood Restaurant at Redhill Shopping Center.

He then told the waitress he had a gun and demanded money, saying "Please don't call police. I just got out of jail and have a wife and kids."

He fled with the $67, police said.

Reverse Osmosis System For New Kidney Machine

DALLAS (UPI)—Bio-Tronics Corp., a Dallas-based medicale-lectronics firm, has developed a portable artificial kidney system that works on a filter system called reverse osmosis.

The Guardian Hemo-Dialyzer duplicates kidney function by letting blood flow through hollow, porous fibers inside the tube-like unit.

Inside the tube the blood flows in one direction while a chemical solution flows the other direction outside.

Due to a "equalization effect," waste material is transferred from the blood to the outside fluid while beneficial chemicals are transferred into the blood stream.

Presently, the firm says, the only other ways to overcome kidney deterioration are tissue transplants and the use of larger, more expensive kidney machines for the estimated 100,000 persons affected by kidney malfunction each year.

Blood that rises much warmer of 98.6 degrees will be damaged; too cool, and it causes chills in patients.

As further protection, a "blood leak detector" shuts the machine down automatically if a membrane ruptures or a leak occurs.

SCHOOL REPORT'S COOL RECEPTION

By GEORGE NEVIN

A 12-page report answering criticism of education in the Mill Valley School District, particularly its more progressive aspects, was greeted coolly last night.

Trustees and members of the audience who had signed a petition faulting the district for excessive innovation and lack of emphasis on academic subjects asked for more time to evaluate the report.

The document, prepared by Supt. James A. Collins, contained suggestions on how the board might meet the fears and complaints aired by the petitioners at three special board meetings this month and last.

Only one of Collins's numerous proposals was enacted last night: the board agreed to meet at 8 p.m. Dec. 6 at Park School to go over the district's testing program.

One of the points raised by the petitioners at the special meetings was the lack of adequate and proper testing to determine what and how well children were learning.

The board agreed to hire Vernon Dahl, vice-president of the Berkeley Testing Service, to attend the meeting and interpret district test data, at a fee of between $50 and $100.

Other of Collins's recommendations will be studied by the board and discussed at later meetings. These were broken down under two headings, immediate and long-range.

Immediate suggestions were to allow parents dissatisfied with the type of education their children are getting to transfer them to other, more structured schools in the district, and to allow them to bring their dissatisfactions to the school principal, then the superintendent, and then the school board.

Long-range proposals included balancing the staffs at each school to distribute more evenly the traditional and innovative teachers (one of the charges has been that the district discriminates against more conservative teachers), and creation of one or more extra

Pakistani Jets Are Downed

NEW DELHI (UPI)—An Indian cabinet minister told Parliament today that Indian jet fighters shot down three of four intruding Pakistani warplanes Monday and government sources on both sides reported heavy fighting along their borders during the day.

A state of emergency was declared throughout Pakistan in view of what the Islamabad government said was the threat of foreign attack.

A Radio Pakistan broadcast claimed Pakistani troops repelled an attack by regular Indian forces in the Comilla sector of East Pakistan today and "completely annihilated" the 19th Punjab Battalion of the 311th Mountain Brigade, 57th Indian Division. It said the Indians left behind "197 dead bodies." There was no mention of Pakistani casualties.

In Pakistan, the government declared a state of emergency. A broadcast heard here by official Radio Pakistan said "in Pakistan a state of emergency has been declared. A proclamation issued in Islamabad says the president is satisfied that a grave emergency exists in which Pakistan is threatened by external aggression."

Pakistani President A. M. Yahya Khan said Monday that India was waging an undeclared war against the nation. Government sources said fighting with Indian forces was under way in four sectors along the border but gave no details.

In New Delhi, Indian government sources said fighting went on during the day in three sectors "on the border" with Pakistan but declined to detail the intensity of the clashes except to describe them as "battles." They refused to specify whether the fighting was along the border or in Indian or Pakistani territory.

Pakistani newspapers said that if Pakistan is forced to fight for its survival, it will fight with all its might and India too will go up in flames."

Shortly after the broadcast, Prime Minister Indira Gandhi met with senior advisers making up her political affairs committee to discuss the deepening crisis.

Indian Minister of Defense Production Vidya Charan Shukla told parliament four Pakistani Sabrejets intruded into Indian airspace near the village of Boyra Monday. Three of them were shot down by Indian air force Gnat fighters and two of the Pakistani pilots were captured after they parachuted from their planes. He did not say what happened to the other pilot. There was no damage to the Indian jets, Shukla told a cheering parliament.

The disclosure came following charges by Pakistan in the United Nations and over its official radio that Indian troops had launched an all-out offensive across the border into East Pakistan. The charges were denied by the Indian government.

At the same time, further restrictions were put into effect. The Indian government today banned travel into border areas and any flights above them not given specific clearance.

Nixon's Nominees To High Court Clear Committee

Powell is Unanimously Approved; Vote On Rehnquist Is 12 To 4

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lewis F. Powell and William H. Rehnquist were endorsed today by the Senate Judiciary Committee for confirmation as Supreme Court justices — Powell unanimously and Rehnquist by a 12-4 vote.

Opponents of Rehnquist, 47, an assistant attorney general, vowed they would continue to fight his appointment on the Senate floor. The 64-year-old Powell, a Richmond attorney and a former president of the American Bar Association, is expected to have clear sailing.

Voting against confirmation of Rehnquist in the committee were Sens. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., and John V. Tunney, D-Calif. President Nixon announced the selection od Powell and Rehnquist on Oct. 21 to succeed two longtime associate justices, Hugo L. Black and John M. Harlan, who retired within a week of each other in September because of ill health. Black died eight days after his retirement.

Administration leaders expressed confidence that both Rehnquist and Powell would be confirmed —probably early next month —to bring the shorthanded Supreme Court back to its full nine-man strength.

Foes of Rehnquist said they were still unsatisfied with his written responses last weekend to questions about his past actions, particularly in the civil rights field, and would continue to press their case on the floor.

They particularly were critical of Rehnquist's attitude, while practicing law in Phoe-

Sadat Is Firm On Israeli Withdrawals

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

President Anwar Sadat told an African peace mission in Cairo today there can be no peace in the Middle East without an Israeli commitment to withdraw from all occupied Egyptian territory, a Foreign Ministry official said.

Sadat, who had said war with Israel was the only course left open to Egypt, without such a pledge, met for two hours with Presidents Leopold Senghor of Senegal, Maj. Gen. Yakubu Gowan of Nigeria and two top cabinet ministers from Cameroun and Zaire.

Both Egyptian and Israeli newspapers warned again of the dangers of resumed warfare. Israeli officials already have said they are taking at face value Sadat's repeated statements that the Middle East conflict must be resolved this year, either by peace or by war.

Government sources in Paris disclosed that China turned down an invitation from France to take part in the Big Four talks on the Middle East being conducted by their ambassadors to the United Nations in New York. The sources noted that Peking consistently has opposed attempts by the United States, Soviet Union, Britain and France to force any settlement.

In Jerusalem, speakers for 10 political parties and factions representing a cross-section of Israeli's political spectrum took the floor in the Knesset (Parliament) during the day in a special emergency debate called in the wake of Sadat's warlike weekend statements.

One by one they denounced the United States for its "appeasement" of Egypt and castigated Cairo for escalating tensions in the Middle East.

The debate came as Israel carried out a nationwide test of its air raid warning systems—the first in about six months. No civil defense drill accompanied the siren blasts and Israelis took it all in stride.

The Egyptian official said Sadat told the African diplomats that Egypt's position remained the same as he announced Nov. 11-that an Israeli commitment to withdraw from Egyptian territory was the "basis of which there can be peace. Without it there can be no peace."

Israel has adamantly refused to give any such commitment in advance of an overall peace agreement.

The Cairo source said tte African mission submitted "ideas and suggestions" rather than proposals aimed at obtaining further clarification of Egypt's position.

Nixon Fears Any Europe Cutbacks

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon said today that a Senate move to cut U.S. troop strength in Europe by 60,000 could severely damage the American position in "vitally important new initiatives for peace" with the Russians.

Nixon cautioned against the reduction, from a present force of 310,000 GIs in Western Europe. The cut is called for in an amendment approved by the Senate Appropriations Committee last week in the $71 billion defense money bill.

In addition to the troop reduction amendment, Senate doves served notice they would make another attempt to attach to the bill an amendment to force U.S. withdrawal from Indochina by cutting off all funds except for the withdrawal process.

Nixon cautioned against approval of the European troop reduction in a letter to Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., of the Senate Armed Services Committee. The letter was made public by Stennis late this morning and by the White House shortly afterward.

Nixon said a NATO emissary, Manlio Brosio, would be going to Moscow next week to begin discussions on balanced force reductions in Europe by NATO and Communist Warsaw Pact forces.

"At the same time, the Berlin negotiations have entered the final and most difficult stage," Nixon wrote. "As you know, we are also making significant progress in the SALT (strategic arms limitation talks) negotiations.

"We are now preparing to

Rail 'Unable To Meet Debts'

In a petition filed in U.S. District Court and signed by board chairman Charles A. Bertrand, the Reading said it was "unable to meet its debts as they mature."

The railroad, hard hit in recent weeks by the dock and coal strikes, said obligations due and payable totaled about $11 million.

Teacher Salary Hike Proposed

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The State College Board of Trustees will vote today on proposed faculty salary increases averaging 13 per cent, coupled with a 6 per cent increase in fringe benefits.

A board committee unanimously endorsed the pay hike proposal Monday in the wake of a veto last week by Gov. Ronald Reagan on a proposal for a 7.5 per cent wage increase.

The vote was taken after Vice Chancellor C. Mansel Keene told the Faculty and Staff Affairs Committee that state faculty members earn about $266 less a year than their counterparts at other schools.

Nixon Picks Rent Advisory Chief

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon appointed Thomas B. Curtis, a former congressman from Missouri, to head a 14-member board to make recommendations on rents and other landlord-tenant matters during government economic controls.

The Rent Advisory Board will have no real power but will provide advice to the Price Commission on matters involving rents. The commission has deferred most rent matters pending appointment of the board.

Foreign Aid Bill Stays Alive

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon has signed a temporary measure to keep the foreign aid program alive until Dec. 8 while congress works out new legislation. The continuing resolution also extended government spending for the same period for the office of economic opportunity, the District of Columbia and some Defense Department programs.

The president also signed a bill making it illegal to shoot wildlife from an aircraft and another measure continuing for two years the suspension of tariffs on some categories of silk yarn.

College Board Approves 32-Cent N. Campus Tax

A 32-cent building tax rate to finance the first stages of the Indian Valley colleges was approved last night by the Marin Community College District board.

The building tax rate for 1972-73 will raise $2.24 million for the site development of the Novato campus and for improvement of the College of Marin campus in Kentfield, according to Supt. John A. Grasham.

The board thereby sidestepped a roadblock thrown up Nov. 2 when voters refused to pass a $16.8 million bond issue intended to finance the work.

Grasham said that if the bond issue had passed, the building tax rate for 1972-73, now at 25.6 cents, would have been cut to 4 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

While voter disapproval of the bond failed to stop construction of the Novato campus and improvements in Kentfield, it has slowed them down. Grasham said the district's 10-year building plan might require 20 years to complete on the pay-as-you-go basis adopted by the board last night.

Dale A. Fleming, district planner, had urged the board to act by Dec. 1 so he could prepare the necessary applications for state buildings funds.

The district cannot levy the tax unless the projects it would finance are approved by the Board of Governors of the California Community College District and the state Department of Finance, and then included in the state's 1972-73 budget, Grasham said.

The state would pay 40 per cent of any construction cost if the conditions are met, Grasham said. He said the 32-cent rate is a ceiling that will be reached only if all projects are approved.

The work planned for 1972-73 will include preparation of the Novato site for building, architects' drawings, flood control at the Kentfield campus, renovation of the old art building and installation of library equipment at the College of Marin, Grasham said.

The board also asked its staff to prepare a statement on what facilities can be provided, the time schedule, and the number of students that can be handled if the district continues on a pay-as-you-go program, Grasham said.

Illegal Ruling Over Skyscraper

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The sale of part of a city street, which is being used for the construction of an 835-foot skyscraper, was illegal, a judge ruled Monday.

Judge Jay Pfotenhauer, calling for further proceedings, did not decide whether Transamerica Corp. will have to halt construction.

Acting on a suit brought by two taxpayers, the judge ruled that the city underpriced the part of Merchant Street, between Sansome and Montgomery streets, which it sold. The judge noted the city charter prohibits sales at less than 90 per cent of the preliminary appraisal. He found that the city sold the alley-land at $62.50 a square foot and that ithad been appraised originally at $125 a square foot.

Senate Demos Push Big Cut In Taxes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With a majority of the Republicans voting no, the Senate Monday passed a bill cutting business and individual taxes by more than $27 billion over the next three years —far more than President Nixon sought for revival of the economy.

Democrats made good their vow to change the bill to put most of the tax savings in the hands of individuals, ot corporations.

When the bill passed at the end of a marathon 14-hour session by a 64-30 vote, only 16 Republicans voted for it and 26 voted against it.

Their complaint was about the rider attached by the Democrats to provide public financing of presidential election campaigns, a provision expected to give the Democrats $20.4 million for their White House race next year. The Republicans said they would spurn the money.

"A raid on the treasury by every special interest group starting with the Democratic Party," Sen. Gordon Allott, RColo., called the bill. "The economic program of the President has been warped out of recognition. There has been no real effort to curb the insatiable appetite of some senators to grab everything for political gain."

The expectation was that the tax cuts will be whittled down to close to the $15.4 billion over three years provided in tax relief by the House.

The chopping will be done by a House-Senate conference committee which must write a final compromise version.

The bill seeks to enhance the economy by increasing consumer spending through tax cuts; to encourage firms to modernize by allowing them to subtract from taxes the cost of new equipment, and to induce exports through tax savings for firms which sell their products abroad.

It also seeks to create 250,000 new jobs in the auto industry — which directly or indirectly employs one out of six working people —by repealing the 7 per cent auto excise tax and the 10 per cent tax on light trucks retroactive to Aug. 15.

For individuals, the big tax cut comes from raising the $650 lersonal exemption to $675 for income earned in 1971. The House bill provides a $750 exemption for income earned in future years. The Senate figure is $800.

This would cut taxes for a family of four with 10 per cent deductions and $7,500 in taxable income by $72 on this year's earnings, $111 on 1972 earnings and $64 on income earned in 1973 and subsequently. The figures in the House bill for the same family are $29, $77 and $30.

But since Social Security taxes will rise next year for persons earning over $7,800, the increase in take home pay will be nearly nil. The tax increase is $62.40 for those earning $9,000 or more a year. It is achieved by raising the amount of income subject to the 5.2 per cent payroll tax.

Senate Demos Attach Campaign Fund Rider To Tax Cut Proposal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — the Senate Monday handed President Nixon a political dilemma —whether to veto his tax cut bill and undermine his economic recovery program, or sign it and give the Democrats $20.4 million to mount an election campaign against him.

The Democrats take it for granted that the rider they attached to the bill — over bitter Republican hostility—to provide for taxpayer financing of presidential election campaigns will be in the bill when it reaches Nixon's desk.

From the Senate, the bill went Monday night to a House-Senate conference committee, which will meet after Thanksgiving to reconcile difference between the House and Senate versions of the bill. Its compromise version must clear both houses before enactment.

The bill was approved on a 52 to 47 vote with California's two Democratic senators — Alan Cranston and John Tunney — supporting it.

The House version did not carry the campaign finance procedure. But Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., who will head the House delegation to the committee, long has favored such an idea —and is himself a presidential hopeful for 1972 who might benefit from it.

As revised in debate, the measure would allow taxpayers to check a box on their tax returns diverting $1 of their taxes ($2 for a joint return) to the presidential candidate of the party of their choice or to a nonpartisan found.

If enough taxpayers cooperate, the device would permit each major party to receive $20.4 million, based on a formula allotting 15 cents to every person over age 18. George C. Wallace, if he runs, would get $6.3 million.

The Republicans, planning a television-heavy campaign that Democrats say will cost $40 million, will spurn the public money; Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, the national Republican chairman, said they would have "no part of it."

But the Democrats, still $9 million in debt from their 1968 campaign, certainly will take it.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Xerox Developer Wilson Dies

NEW YORK (UPI) — Joseph C. Wilson, chairman of Xerox Corp. and a man responsible for revolutionizing office work around the world, died yesterday of a heart attack suffered while attending a lunch with Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Wilson

Shortly after World War II, Wilson took a gamble on a new copying process that at the time of his death had brought a new dimension to the business world and made the name of his company a common verb in the popular vernacular.

Wilson, 61, attended a Xerox management meeting yesterday at the company's New York office and accepted a luncheon date with Rockefeller, with whom he had worked on two state committees.

Spokesmen for Rockefeller said the governor was "extremely shaken" by the death at his Fifth Avenue apartment.

Wilson was born in Rochester, N.Y., was graduated from the University of Rochester and Harvard Business School and joined Haloid, manufacturer of photographic supplies.

With Haloid, the predecessor of Xerox, Wilson rose to president at the age of 36. Later he developed a new copying process called xerography invented by Chester F. Carlson. The process later took the business world by storm.

'Recycled' Humphrey Backed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assembly majority floor leader Walter Karabian has announced his support of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination, describing him as a "recycled politician."

Karabian

Karabian told a news conference yesterday that Humphrey, who lost the 1968 presidential election to Richard Nixon, is "out of the shadow" of former President Johnson.

"He's a recycled politician," the Monterey Park Democrat said.

"The Hubert Humphrey of today is a man whose judgment has been tempered by long experience and whose character has been strengthened by adversity," he added.

Humphrey has not yet announced his plan regarding the 1972 presidential election.

Mariner Distraction

Scientists also confessed disappointment that the dust storm that has temporarily spoiled their picture-taking is subsiding so slowly that no improvement was noticed in Monday night's photos.

The Mariner sensing mechanism somehow picked up the light from an object "about 100 times brighter than Canopus" Sunday and swung around to fix on that, a spokesman at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory said.

The scientists radioed commands to Mariner that brought it back where it belonged 48 minutes later, but were left to puzzle over the source of the distraction.

Belfast Roundup

BELFAST (UPI) — British troops fired at a gunman carrying a rifle, dispersed a gang of youths with rubber bullets and rounded up security suspects and weapons today in a sweep through Belfast's Roman Catholic districts.

An army spokesman said troops were unable to report whether they hit the gunman during their four-hour search operations in the Ballymurphy and Westrock Road areas of the city.

Election Killings

MANILA (UPI) — Government troops killed 44 Filipino Moslems Monday in two separate incidents which marred special elections in the southern Philippines, a military spokesman said today.

The incidents could touch off international repercussions. A number of Moslem countries, including Malaysia and Libya, have already protested alleged persecution and genocide of the Moslem minority. The government has denied the charge.

A spokesman at constabulary national police headquarters said 27 Moselms were killed and 54 others wounded in an encounter Monday night with army troops in a checkpoint near Magsaysay town in Lanao del Norte province 450 miles south of Manila. Reports said 10 of the wounded Moslems died later. The army suffered two wounded.

Formal SALT Talk

VIENNA (UPI) — Soviet and American delegates to the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT), met for two hours today in another of the unusually intensive meetings which have marked the Vienna discussions.

A conference source said the entire two hours were taken up with formal presentations by the chief delegates, Gerard C. Smith and Vladimir Semenov. Normally, SALT meetings are part formal and part informal conversation, but the last two sessions have both been given over entirely to formal statements.

The source called the meeting "businesslike and serious" and said both sides were "seriously at work." But he refused to speculate on the possibility of an agreement before the end of the year.

Hopes For Morphine

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Drug researchers testing a pain-killing drug discovered accidentally that monkeys will refuse morphine. The finding has raised hopes the drug will work the same way with drug addicts.

The drug is not ready for testing on humans, but experts believe it could suggest a new approach to the problem of narcotic addiction.

Reporters were told of the discovery Monday by Dr. John Adams of the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Special Task Force on Drug Abuse which is helping coordinate industry research in drug abuse — particularly heroin addiction.

Adams emphasized the results were a chance observation and that new tests were being conducted to find out if the compound could have significant application.

Saigon Launches Cambodian Drive

SAIGON (UPI)—Three columns of South Vietnamese troops supported by U.S. jets and helicopters pushed into Cambodia today in a new drive to blunt a guerrilla threat to Phnom Penh and a long-range threat to Saigon.

Army of the Republic of Vietnam (ARVN) troops along a curving 100-mile front moved in landing ships up the Mekong and Bassac Rivers toward the Cambodian capital, in vehicles into the Parrot's Beak area and by helicopter into the Krek rubber plantation area 50 miles north of the Parrot's Beak.

UPI Correspondent Stewart Kellerman, reporting from headquarters for the Krek operation, said 25 guerrillas had been killed Monday and today at a cost of 20 ARVN paratroopers wounded.

He said three paratroop battalions were lifted by U.S. and ARVN helicopters to landing zones respectively one, two and nine miles northwest of Krek.

UPI-independent television news cameraman Tran Dai Minh flew over the first two areas by helicopter and reported paratroops fanning out through the jungles in search of the guerrillas.

The only contact, however, was reported by patrols sent to the area around Chup, 25 miles northwest of Krek.

Kellerman reported 35 ARVN and 30 Army helicopters lifting troops and flying gunship missions in support of the Krek column.

The three columns were reinforcing ARVN troops already in place for a new push against the guerrillas. ARVN soldiers have been operating continuously in Cambodia since the U.S.-AARVN invasion there in May, 1970.

UPI Correspondent Kenneth J. Braddick reported from Can Tho headquarters in the Mekong Delta that the mission of the troops brought upriver in tank landing ships (LST's) was to clear the banks of both the Mekong and Bassac Rivers.

His Ninth Rescue

BILBAO, Spain (UPI)—Jose Maria Peree, 29, dived off the stern of his ship Monday and pulled a drowning man from Bilbao Harbor. It was the ninth person the Spanish sailor has rescued, the news agency Cifra said.

JUNK?? ART??

It's not Picasso, but Mill Valley artist Art Grant says it's better than anything found in a museum. Michele Merola, (above) a 10-year-old fifth grader at Deer Park School, was among 230 students who created junk art yesterday at the Fairfax school under Grant's direction. The program for fifth and sixth graders at Deer Park, Central and Manor schools was sponsored by the parent-teacher associations at the three schools.

200 Remember JFK In Dallas

"We'll never forget. Love, Barbara," it read.

The rain and raw winds were a sharp contrast to that day eight years ago, the kind of November day that comes occassionally in Texas with summerlike temperatures and clear blue skies.

On that day—Nov. 22, 1963—President John F. Kennedy was shot to death with a high powered rifle by an assassin perched in the Texas School Book Depository.

The depository is boarded up now, with "No trespassing" signs posted on it. Two blocks away, the small group gathered in the rain and chill Monday to pay their respects on the eighth anniversary of the late President's death.

"Let us declare today that we will renew ourselves in the spirit of John F. Kennedy and for the ideals he stood for," Mayor Wes Wise said in the brief ceremony.

The ceremony was conducted at the John F. Kennedy Memorial, a 50-foot square structure two blocks from the assassination site. A wreath of multicolored flowers was laid on the center slab bearing the simple gold inscription "John F. Kennedy."

Then there was a moment of silence.

The memorial has no roof and rain fell on the residents and tourists who attended.

World Cities Feel Brunt Of Booming Population

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—More and more of the world's people are moving to the cities, which are getting bigger and more numerous, the United Nations' latest statistical survey shows.

The steady increase in the population to a total of 3.632 billion as of the middle of 1970 and the increase in urban areas were the principal trends emphasized in the U.N. Demographic Yearbook, issued Monday.

Between 1965 and 1970 mankind's birth rate was nearly 2 ½ times greater than his death rate, the study said. The population increased by more than one billion persons in the past 20 years and at the same rate of growth will reach 6.5 billion in 30 years.

The yearbook said there now are seven nations with more than 100 million persons each—the Republic of China, the Soviet Union, the United States, India, Pakistan, Indonesia and Japan.

Not only nations but cities are getting bigger. Only a little more than 10 years ago, the world had 29 cities with a million residents. Now there are 133 such cities.

Innocent Plea To Burglary Charge

I-J Special Report

REDWOOD CITY — Joseph Edwin Tucker, 31, of Novato, has pleaded innocent in San Mateo County Superior Court to a charge of burglarizing a motel room near San Francisco Airport.

A jury trial has been set for Feb. 7, with a pretrail conference to be held Jan. 21.

Tucker was arrested in August after he allegedly tripped a burglar alarm at the Holiday Inn. He was stopped by two bellboys and police.

Brezhnev Report Has Approval

MOSCOW (UPI) —The Communist Central Committee today adjourned a two-day meeting after approving a foreign policy report by Leonid I. Brezhnev, the official news agency Tass reported.

The all-powerful committee also promoted one of the rising stars of the Soviet hierarchy, Mikhail S. Solomentsev, to be an alternate member of the party Politburo.

PUC Thaws Rate Hikes In State

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The California Public Utilities Commission Monday thawed rate increases frozen during the first phase of President Nixon's economic program.

The commission approved 43 rate increases in all. They ranged from natural gas charges to Southern Pacific and Greyhound commuter fares.

Pacific Gas and Electric Co. was granted a $17 million rate increase to be paid by natural gas customers. Commission economists estimated the hike will cost consumers 22 cents on a $10 monthly gas bill.

A 6.5 per cent statewide increase was granted Greyhound bus passenger and freight services.

Representative fare increases granted Greyhound included: San Francisco-Los Angeles, one-way, up from $12.78 to $13.56; San Francisco-San Mateo, one-way, 90 cents to $1.

An average 10 per cent increase in Southern Pacific suburban commute rates between San Francisco and San Jose was approved.

The PUC estimated Greyhound would gain an additional $3.2 million and SP $400,000.

Increases were also granted several independent telephone companies. However, a commission spokesman said these rate hikes will not become effective until the companies apply for them.

The commission said the ruling allows the independent firms to pass on to the customer certain increases generated by the recent $143 million rate increase granted to Pacific Telephone Co.

Increases ranging from 4 to 50 per cent were granted in 28 rate applications filed by a host of transportation companies. The firms ranged from Southern Pacific and Santa Fe to local hauling and warehousing companies.

More Testimony On Payments To Alioto

VANCOUVER, Wash. (UPI) —John M. Nelson, superintendent of Seattle City Light, said Monday he did not tell anyone until 1969 that payments to Mayor Joseph Alioto of San Francisco had gone over $1 million in 1965.

Nelson returns to the witness stand for a third day today in trial of a $2.3 million civil lawsuit against Alioto and two former Washington State officials.

The state and 12 publicly owned utilities are seeking refund of $2.3 million they paid Alioto for serving as their attorney in antitrust suits in the 1960s before he became mayor. Seattle is among the utilities involved in both the current suit and the antitrust suits.

The state and utilities claim they were not told about removal of a $1 million ceiling from Alioto's fee or that he would share the fee with John J. O'Connell, then attorney general of Washington State, and George K. Faler, an assistant to O'Connell. The two men received $802,000.

Nelson had testified earlier that Seattle received a refund of $116,900 on its share of the fee in 1967 after Nelson and others told O'Connell they had learned late in 1966 that the fee ceiling had been removed the previous year.

Nelson said Monday he did not discuss the refund with anyone. "I did not tell anyone the fee had gone over $1 million until some years later—in 1969," Nelson said. Kenneth A. MacDonald, attorney for Faler, asked if that was after the matter had received publicity. "Yes," Nelson replied.

Under cross examination by MacDonald, Nelson said he attended meetings of half a dozen groups from time to time in the 1960s at which representatives of other utilities involved in the antitrust suits were present.

"Conversations about that (the suits) were surprisingly few," he said. "The matter was in good hands, was being pressed and there was not much to talk about."

He said he served as vice chairman of the steering committee of Washington utilities antitrust group, the organization formed by the utilities to press their antitrust claims.

Asked by MacDonald how he was named the steering committee, Nelson replied, "I'm really not quite sure."

Asked how he got off, he answered, "It quit meeting." He said the committee met for less than a year.

MacDonald also asked if Nelson ever had difficulty obtaining information from Faler, who served as coordinator for the group. Nelson said, "No—with the possible exception of a final audit, which was difficult to come by."

MacDonald tried, but failed, to find out from Nelson how much the city of Seattle seeks in the current suit. William Helsell, attorney for the plaintiffs, interrupted the questioning to state that a proposed agreement on a complicated formula setting the amounts to be allocated to individual utilities was being circulated among the plaintiffs for their approval.

MacDonald said, "This is the secret we have never been able to solve."

Sanitary District Hikes Pay

With the wage freeze lifted, the Novato Sanitary District board last night granted an across-the-board pay hike of 5.5 per cent, the maximum allowed.

Dist. Mgr. Charles A. Joseph said the pay increase would cost $9,600 annually, including fringe benefits.

The pay hike was the first since August, 1970, he said. Salary raises usually are considered in August but were held up this year because of the freeze, he reported.

The Novato Sanitary District board also:

Mock Fire Drill For South Marin

Thirteen pieces of firefighting equipment and 26 firemen converged on Strawberry Town and Country Village shopping center yesterday in the first of a series of mutual aid drills involving seven Southern Marin fire departments.

Within 22 minutes of the first alarm, men and equipment from Sausalito, Belvedere, Tiburon, Mill Valley, Alto, Tamalpais Valley and the County of Marin had arrived on the scene of a mock fire at the Ancient Mariner restaurant.

Sausalito Fire Chief Charles E. Master said the drills are being conducted because California Insurance Services, a rating bureau for fire departments, has penalized Southern Marin fire agencies for not getting enough men and equipment to the scene of fires.

Although the departments have had mutual aid agreements for some time, he said, this is the first time interdepartment drills have been conducted in Southern Marin.

The purpose of the drills is to test response time and to familiarize Southern Marin firemen with equipment of other departments, Master said.

$6,250 In Items Taken In Burglary

Thieves broke into the San Geronimo National Golf Clubhouse yesterday morning or the night before and carted away $6,250 worth of clothing and golf equipment.

William Henderson of Novato, the golf professional, told a sheriff's deputy he arrived for work yesterday morning and found that the inside alarm had been turned off.

Missing were 260 sets of golf slacks, 19 putters, four sets of golf clubs and countless sweaters and shirts. About $50 in cash was also missing from the cash register.

Louis Mancini, manager of the clubhouse at 5500 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, told officers that the cook's ring of keys had been taken about a month and a half ago. These may have been used to gain entry.

Two large laundry bags were taken from the clubhouse dressing room, perhaps, according to investigators, to carry some of the loot.

Art Center Given Old Bayside Lease

The Sausalito School District board last night made it official and signed a one-year lease to allow the Sausalito Art Center to occupy the old Bayside School property on Nevada Street, Trustee Warren K. Hansen reported.

The board had approved the new rental agreement at a special meeting Nov. 11 and given the arts center until yesterday to sign the document or face eviction.

Diana Brewer, president of the Sausalito Arts Association, signed the lease yesterday. The new rental contract raises the center's rent from $80 to $150 a month and also changes the time the lease will run from five years to one year.

It contains a clause which permits either the district or center to terminate the contract with 90 days notice.

The squabble over the center lease began in July when the school board voted to evict the center within 30 days because a rental contract signed in 1969 had never been ratified by the federal government which owns the Bayside land.

The board later changed its mind about ousting the center and entered negotiations to arrive at a contract acceptable to the district, the center and the federal government.

The government approved the lease last week.

nix, toward lowering barriers to voting and public accommodation by Negroes.

Some Negro leaders, including members of the Black Caucus in the House, had also called for rejection of Powell but Bayh and other leading foes of Rehnquist made clear early in the hearings they would not oppose Powell.

The committee's decision on both men followed a month of public and private hearings and investigations of the nominees.

With today's committee approval assured, the chief remaining question was how much time opponents of Rehnquist would be allowed to write a minority report detailing their opposition.

It was understood the majority report, favoring confirmation of both nominees, already was written.

Normally the committee allows at least a week for preparation of minority views.

Rehnquist's opponents, however, want longer this time, because the Thanksgiving Day holiday will cut out two work days from this week.

undertake vitally important new initiatives for peace in two great capitals of the world. If these initiatives are to gain positive results in the months and years ahead, I must be able to rely on the firm support and the substantial and creative contribution of a bipartisan Congress."

Nixon said the Appropriations Committee action approving Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield's proposal to trim U.S. forces in Europe to 250,000 was "ill timed." Passage, he said, "would, with one stroke, diminish western military capability in Europe and signal to friend and adversary alike a disarray and weakness of purpose in the American government."

Nixon said implications of approval of the troop cut were much broader than Europe and could seriously affect the delicate military balance in the Mideast as well.

The President's press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, amplified on Nixon's remarks with respect to the Mideast, saying a mandatory, unilateral drawback would "seriously affect the delicate military balance in the eastern Mediterranean area by thinning of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces in that area."

Jets Make Din Over Novato

Scores of jet fighter aircraft set up a din over Novato last night on a series of flights in an unannounced training exercise.

The noise of the flights penetrated a meeting of the city planning commission at Novato Community House and were heard by residents from 10 p.m. past midnight.

Capt. Joseph W. Corfield Jr., public information officer at Hamilton Air Force Base, said the flights were by the 84th Fighter Interceptor Squadron "on an operational exercise."

One resident on the south side said it sounded as though the planes were coming through the window of her home.

Firemen Will Hold Party For Children

Fire Chief Jack Kidder said Santa Claus will be on hand to greet children.

The volunteers also have scheduled nomination of officers for Dec. 13 and election on Dec. 27.

Special Session On Accepting Of Grant

The Rohnert Park City Council will meet in special session at 7:30 p.m. today to accept a $421,000 federal grant to finance half the cost of an overpass at Highway 101 to improve access to Sonoma State College and to link the community's industrial and commercial areas.

The state Highway Commission is expected to approve the remaining $421,000 that will be needed for the work.

SCHOOLS

Collins also recommended formation of several committees, including one to review district discipline policies; one to examine staff inservice (continuous training) needs, and one to sponsor local school meetings to delve into problems mentioned in the petition.

The board also reaffirmed a longstanding policy that it favors providing alternatives and options, a move that drew fire from a trustee and an audience member.

"I don't see how anyone could be against that (the policy)," said Trustee John H. Cutler. "But if I were petitioning I would find scant comfort in it. I think this is one area where the board's actions will have to speak louder than its words."

Thomas D. Spencer, of 429 Live Oak Drive, agreed, calling the reaffirmation "just rhetoric." He charged the meeting with being "extremely general, with serious issues dealt with in a light manner."

He argued that transfers in the middle of the school year would be harmful to children, and complained many of the points raised by petitioners hadn't been dealt with in Collins's report.

Morgan Yamanaka, of 76 South Knoll Road, said he was "disappointed with the meeting." He said trustees should have expressed their views before Collins made his recommendations.

Collins was defended, however, by Trustee John G. Eliot Jr., who said it was appropriate for the superintendent to make some preliminary recommendations before the board acted.

Board member Joseph E. Bodovitz cautioned the petitioners that the board has an obligation to hear their complaints but also to keep in mind those persons who have said they oppose the petition.

"What we're being told," he said, "is that we should react to what was stated in the petition but we shouldn't overreact."

Philadelphia Dope Trial Plea Change

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Thomas B. Vallejo, 28, Langohorne, Pa., one of five persons on trial in federal court in connection with the alleged smuggling of a ton of marijuana, changed his plea from innocent to guilty to two counts of a five-count indictment today.

The trial, now in its second week in U. S. District Court, was interrupted to permit Vallejo to change his plea.

Among the four still on trial is David Miller, 34, of Corte Madera. Another Marinite, Leonard M. Glassberg, 35, of Novato, has pleaded guilty in the case.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Jeffrey Miller told Judge Charles Weiner that Vallejo was pleading guilty to one count involving conspiracy and one involving the pickup of the marijuana at North Philadelphia Airport.

Miller indicated Vallejo would testify as a witness for the prosecution against the four still on trial.

A friend of Edson Whipple, another of the defendants, told the jury Monday that Whipple once told him of a plan to set up a 6,000 acre "pot farming" operation in British Honduras.

Spleen Removal After Accident

Two persons were injured in a collision on Highway 101 at Atherton Avenue in Novato yesterday, according to the California Highway Patrol.

One of the victims, Hannelure Singley, 33, of 550 Sunset Parkway, Novato, was reported in satisfactory condition today at Hamilton Air Force Base Hospital where her spleen was removed following the accident.

Officers said her car, westbound on Atherton Avenue, and a car driven north on Highway 101 by Stanley P. Bazycki, collided at 3:55 p.m.

Bazycki, 29, of 1505 Joan Drive, Petaluma, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a slight concussion and for scrapes and bruises of the scalp.

Two Incumbents Are Sworn In

Returning directors Joseph F. Silviera and Henry V. Alvernaz took the oath of office last night after the Novato Fire District board canvassed the Nov. 2 vote.

New director Richard W. Price will take his oath Wednesday and the new board will officially be formed Friday, according to Jack Kidder, fire chief.

Director Fernando Clementino who was defeated will attend his last meeting as a director at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the main fire station.

By canvass, the vote was Silveira, 3,974, up 12 from the unofficial count reported Nov. 3; Alvernaz, 3,944, up 10; Price, 3,502, up six; and Clementino, 2,629, up 12.

Treated For Crash

Rodney Harrison, 22, of Ukiah, was treated at Marin General Hospital at 8:30 a.m. yesterday for back strain suffered in an auto accident. No further details of the accident were available.

Woman Injures Head In Crash

Shela Ann Cody, of 1313 Beachwood Drive, was treated at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Rafael.

The California Highway Patrol said the accident occurred at 7:45 a.m. when a car driven by John T. Williams, 57, of 408 San Paulo Way, Novato, stopped in heavy traffic and was struck from behind by a vehicle driven by Thomas A. Cody, 34, also of the Petaluma address.

Design Of Office Wins Approval

The Corte Madera Board of Design Review last night approved the design of a real estate office planned for 626 Tamalpais Drive.

The single-story structure designed by town councilman Harold B. Wagstaff would replace an existing home, according to Elizabeth Long, board secretary.

She said final approval of the office for Earl Solvason must come from the town Planning Commission.

The board also approved the design of a new storage yard at Big 4 Rents, 5718 Paradise Drive, after requiring more landscaping, Mrs. Long said.

Window Smashed

A window was smashed between 4:45 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. yesterday at Granada School, according to Corte Madera police.

Five Injured In Cotati Wreck

Five persons were injured in an automobile accident at 5:40 p.m. yesterday at 8025 Gravenstein Highway, Cotati.

Linda Rollins, 23, of Santa Rosa, was reported in satisfactory condition at Hillcrest Hospital with a compound fracture of the right arm, broken ribs and a back injury. James Brummer, 9, of 7704 Gravenstein Highway, also was reported in satisfactory condition with face cuts.

Treated and released were his mother, Janice Brummer, 31, with a head cut; his sister, Margaret Brummer, 11, leg cuts; and Cynthia Morrison, 18, of the same address, arm cuts. The California Highway Patrol had no details of the accident.

UP, UP OR AWAY

Charles Eckles of the Fairfax Design Review board studies the signs of Herb and Joe's Restaurant for possible violations of the city's sign ordinance. The board was touring the city Sunday looking for nonconforming signs and this was one that caught their eye. The larger identification sign will have to be either raised 10 feet above the sidewalk or removed to conform to the ordinance, board members said. When the round of inspection tours is complete — probably in January — all violators will be notified, according to Ernestine Healy, board secretary.

Interim Water Plan Presented

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — A $9.5 million interim water supply plan for Southern Sonoma and North Marin was recommended yesterday to the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors.

The supervisors, sitting as water agency directors, had been awaiting details of the plan as an alternative to the Sonoma-Marin Aqueduct which was overwhelmingly defeated by Marin voters on Nov. 2.

Miller said the plan would be presented in detail to all contractual users including Petaluma. City Engineer David A. Young has warned the city council that all development must halt after next summer unless additional water can be supplied.

Young and the Petaluma City Council have urged that county plans for additional water be carried out quickly so the economic effects of a halt in construction can be reduced as much as possible. Young estimated that Petaluma will be using the maximum amount of water available next summer and that water rationing would be inevitable if more homes were to be built.

Gordon Miller, chief engineer of the Sonoma County Water Agency, yesterday recommended a two-phase plan be started soon to supply an additional 15 million gallons of water per day by 1975.

Miller estimated construction costs at $8,642,000 at current prices, but recommended the board authorize the sale of $9,506,000 in revenue bonds to allow for inflation during the three-year construction period.

The initial plan would include construction of a new 20-inch water line from the Wohler pumping station to new wells on the Russian River and construction of a new booster pump station between Santa Rosa and Cotati.

The second phase would involve installation of a new 30-inch water line from the Russian River to Cotati where it would connect with the present north-south line for Petaluma and North Marin. Miller also proposed construction of a six-million gallon storage tank in the Cotati area for the new water supply.

Miller said the system could be completed in 1975 if construction were to begin in the near future. He said it would increase the water supply from the present capacity of 40 million gallons per day to 55 million.

The supervisors instructed Miller to meet with representatives of cities and districts which buy water on a contract basis to get their reactions to the plan and to report back to the board on Dec. 13.

Policy On Pool Rental Established

The Rohnert Park Recreation Commission last night established a pool rental policy and rate structure.

Recreation Director James Pekkain said the commission agreed that private groups and those from outside the city would be charged $15 per hour for pool use. The rate of city groups, school, service clubs and youth groups was set at $2.50 per hour for each life guard required.

Pekkain said the commission agreed that city-sponsored groups and activities would continue to use the pools free.

In other business, Pekkain reported that a basketball league for girls between fourth and ninth grades would begin Dec. 4 and that an astrology class is tentatively set to start Jan. 14.

He told the commission that the community center is now open for use by college students on Sundays from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

Mailliard Campaign Reform Bill

By BENJAMIN SHORE
I-J Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, has joined 16 other House Republicans in urging passage of the Senate's campaign-spending reform legislation.

The House will resume its consideration of this and several other reform bills after the Thanksgiving recess.

Mailliard, in an interview, said he has "mixed feelings" about laws that would place limits on campaign spending.

"It's a tough question because the costs of campaigning vary from district to district," he said. "I think $50,000 (which is the limit proposed in one House bill) would be too low for a challenger in my district."

Mailliard said he normally spends between $25,000 and $30,000 for his primary and general election campaigns.

The Senate proposal supported by Mailliard would allow flexible spending limits, strong requirements for public disclosure of campaign contributions and an enforcement procedure independent of Congressional control.

But he said he would not oppose any other bill that comes before the House because he is confident it could be toughened in a conference with the Senate.

Mailliard said he never has contributed to his own campaigns, with the exception of his first unsuccessful one in 1948 and then his winning campaign in 1952.

For many years, he instructed his campaign committee to limit individual contributions to $500, but decided recently to raise the limit to $1,000 because of rapidly rising campaign costs.

"Now I'm seriously thinking of raising it to $1,500," he said.

'Adult' Book Dealer Reports Big Theft

A San Rafael book distributor, awaiting trial on a charge of having a warehouse full of obscene magazines, yesterday complained to police that someone had broken into the warehouse and driven away two trucks full of magazines.

Missing were two Dodge vans, valued at $2,700 and $3,000 each, and more than $2,000 worth of "adult magazines," according to Donald Calvin Warnecke, manager of Sand Oak Distributors at 62 Belvedere Street, San Rafael.

Police said the theft apparently occurred about 5:40 a.m. yesterday when a passing bus driver noticed two men driving vans without their headlights on out of the warehouse.

The thieves had apparently climbed on the roof of the building and then drilled their way into the warehouse.

Warnecke along with a partner, Eddie Louis Burleson, are due to go on trial Jan. 10 in Marin Municipal Court on 40 misdemeanor counts of possessing obscene literature with intent to distribute it.

They were arrested almost two years ago in a Christmas Eve raid on the warehouse where hundreds of magazines with titles like "Pussy Willow," "Pleasure Partners" and "Raunchy" were seized.

Youths Jailed In Grand Theft

Two 18-year-old San Rafael youths were booked into Marin County Jail yesterday by Larkspur police on suspicion of grand theft and vehicle tampering.

Police said Donald K. Clark of 281 Woodland Avenue and Kirk E. Shivell of 208 Riviera Drive were arrested at 11:40 p.m. Sunday while taking tires from a car.

Police said they had staked out the car of Jacqueline H. Suttle at 290 Via Casita after a report of suspicous persons near the car.

Each was held on $500 bail to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Tape Deck Stolen

A Clout On Head From An Intruder

A bold burglar crept through a Terra Linda home last night while its occupant slept, then hit him over the head with a barbecue spit before taking off.

Bertram McKee, 64, of 400 Hickory Lane told a deputy sheriff he retired about 9 o'clock last night.

About an hour later, he awakened at a noise in his bedroom and spotted a man's figure standing near the bed. Without warning, the intruder began hitting him with what later turned out to be a barbecue spit taken from his patio.

McKee said he fought back, grabbed the spit, and began swinging at the burglar, who then fled out the front door. The attacker appeared to be 5 feet 8 or 10 inches tall and wore either a sport coat or a suit coat, said McKee.

The officer took McKee to Marin General Hospital where six stitches were used to close the wound on his forehead.

Settlement Is Seen For Teacher Strike

A federal mediator said yesterday there was a possibility of a settlement in the nine-day-old strike by lay teachers at seven Bay Area Roman Catholic high schools, including Marin Catholic in Kentfield.

Gene Barry of the U. S. Mediation and Conciliation Service said after two days of negotiating that the last major stumbling block is whether the teachers will get a raise for the 1971-72 school year.

Barry said the pay increase might be difficult since it would require a tuition increase. Gerald Killian, president of the striking Secondary Teachers Association Local 2240, said it would cost each Catholic in the Archdiocese 1.3 cents per week to grant the strikers demands.

Negotiations were to resume in San Francisco today.

Marin Catholic reported virtually normal operating conditions today. About five pickets paraded outside the school.

A similar strike in New York entered its second day. Two schools were closed and no bargaining session has been scheduled. A spokesman for the Federation of Catholic Teachers said more than 1,000 of the system's 2,800 lay teachers struck, although the Archdiocese of New York disputed the figure.

BERKELEY (UPI) —The University of California at Berkeley has a new vice chancellor—Mark Christensen, professor of geology and geophysics.

Innocent Plea Entered In Trident Robbery

Edward Walter Devaney, 32, accused of the scuba gear robbery of Trident restaurant in Sausalito on Oct. 25, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court.

Judge Robert A. Smallman set preliminary hearing for Dec. 7.

Devaney and his alleged accomplice, William Ettleman of El Cajon, are accused of armed robbery and using an acetylene torch to force open a safe and get away with about $30,000.

Devaney is being held in Marin County Jail in lieu of $150,000 bail, which his attorney tried to lower without success last week.

New Blast At Welfare Operation

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The State Department of Social Welfare has been accused by a Democratic Assemblyman of abandoning "any semblance of lawful behavior" in implementing the state's new Welfare Reform Law.

Assemblyman John J. Miller, D-Berkeley, delivered a sharp verbal blast against State Social Welfare Director Robert B. Carleson at a legislative hearing called to discuss the Welfare Revision Program.

"Mr. Carleson has resorted to blatantly illegal tactics in a last-ditch effort to save his own hide," Miller said Monday regarding certain welfare regulations proposed by Carleson's agency.

The Berkeley lawmaker was the sole witness at the hearing —the third held so far—by a special welfare committee headed by Sen. Anthony C. Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills.

"We legislators know that the governor's welfare reform shuck was built around an incredibly evil and cynical attempt to protect the rich and con the middle-class at the expense of the poor," Miller added.

His charges brought a sharp rejoinder from his Republican colleague, Assemblyman Dixon Arnett of Redwood City, who admonished him to refrain from making "political speeches."

Earlier, Assemblyman John L. Burton, D-San Francisco, and Carleson also engaged in a heated exchange over whether the state welfare agency was properly carrying out the intent of the legislature's welfare reform measure.

Both Burton and Beilenson contended many adult children of parents who are on the state's Aid to the Aged program are contributing more than the basic grant. They said this is contrary to the lawmakers' intent.

Carleson responded that counties were responsible for determining whether full grants should be paid based on the outside income of a recipient.

Novato Board Endorses Marin Plan. . .With An 'If'

The preliminary countywide master plan for Marin was endorsed last night by the Novato Planning Commission which cautioned, however, that any final master plan must incorporate city recommendations for Novato and the surrounding area.

The commission's recommendation that the city council approve the preliminary plan was coupled with notice to the county that suggestions of five specially created citizens committees must show up in the final plan approved by the city.

Commission approval came on a 5-to-0 vote, with commissioners John Schoonover and Richard O'Connell absent.

More than 100 of 112 persons who signed up to serve on the neighborhood committees attended the meeting in Novato Community House, where Werner Von Gundell, Marin County planning director, described the preliminary plan. The committees will study and recommend revisions of the Novato master plan — with which the county plan must not conflict, according to the planning commission.

Some members of the committee expressed concern over approving the preliminary plan before they had a chance to make their study.

Von Gundell assured them that their recommendations would be incorporated into the county plan when it is completed next year. Brian Mattson, Novato planning director, said that in the updating of the Novato master plan, the commission would use the findings of the committees.

The North Marin area has been divided into five community areas, including areas outside the Novato city limits.

Area one encompasses San Marin and the downtown area. Area Two holds everything east of Highway 101; Area Three, everything in west Novato south of Novato Boulevard to Indian Valley Road; Area Four, west of Highway 101 north of Ignacio Boulevard to Diablo Avenue, and Area Five, Marin Country Club Estates, Loma Verde and Hamilton Air Force Base.

Mattson set 8 p.m. next Monday for organizational meetings of the five committees. All committee meetings will be open to the public. Area One will meet in San Ramon School; Area Two in the council chamber in Novato Community House, Area Three in Sinaloa Junior High School, Area Four at Rancho School and Area Five in Loma Verde School.

Commission members and planning staff members will meet with each committee but only on an advisory basis. Each committee will organize as it sees fit, Mattson said.

He said that each committee should study not only its own area, but the entire North Marin area. If there is a disagreement, each committee should present a majority and minority report to the planning commission, he said.

Some of the major topics suggested for coverage by the community committees are: Novato in relation to all of Marin County; environmental quality of development; land use categories in the area and how they relate to specific areas such as Hamilton Air Force Base, Gnoss Field, Novato Bay flats, creeks, Petaluma River and Indian Valley Colleges.

Following the organizational meetings next Monday, each committee will select its time and place of meeting.

Their reports are due in February.

37th Stanford Heart Switch

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI)— Stanford University Medical Center has performed its 37th heart transplant operation. The recipient is a 49-year-old California man. The medical center reported Monday the man was in satisfactory condition following the operation Saturday night.

The patient was not identified, according to a new medical center policy. Sixteen of Stanford's heart transplant patients still are alive.

Son's Location Being Sought

McCready said his son was last seen at Seadrift in Stinson Beach where he lives with his mother. He was dressed at that time in a tan shirt and blue jeans, McCready said.

He said his son is 5-9, weighs 145 pounds and has brown hair, a mustache and a chipped front tooth.

The elder McCready said any information should be forwarded to him at 47 Coronet Avenue or to Adelaide McCready at 13 Seadrift Road.

Suspected Killer Of 5 Is Indicted

NEVADA CITY (UPI)—The Nevada County Grand Jury Monday night and indicted Alexander (John) Vichi on five counts of murder in the gun slaying of his wife and her four children Nov. 7.

Vichi, 41, also was indicted on two counts of assault with a deadly weapon in the wounding of Russell and Charlotte Faylor, the dead woman's parents and grandparents of the children.

No date for an arraignment has been set.

Mrs. Faylor, her right arm and left hand bandaged, testified before the grand jury, which returned the indictments immediately after the half-hour hearing.

Vichi was arrested in Sonoma County nine hours after his estranged wife, Charlene, 31, and the children were found shot to death in their pajamas at the Faylors' Grass Valley home. Vichi was the father of two of the children. The other two were his wife's by a previous marriage.

Tanker Spills Oil Into Ocean

MORRO BAY (UPI)—Crude oil was spilled from a tanker into the Pacific Ocean late Monday and was blown onto a nine-block stretch of sandy beach by brisk wind.

The state Fish and Game Department said the accident occurred as the tanker Lyon's Head, under contract to the Standard Oil Co. of California, was taking on oil from a pipeline which carries it from the San Joaquin Valley.

EXPLORER CAMP OUTS

The Coeducational Scouting Approach

By MARY BURNS

Periodically, Fort Cronkhite and Fort Barry, in the Marin Headlands, host Bay Area Boy Scout troops, and a campout at Rodeo Lagoon or a tour group is not an unusual sight.

The group, Novato Explorer Post 383, has five girls among its nine members. And two of the girls, Carla E. Lewis, 16, and Sharon A. Vandegrift, 17, participated in a weekend camp-out along with six male explorers and 10 members of Boy Scout Troop 83. Both groups are sponsored by Grace Lutheran Church of Novato.

The girls were drawn into the Explorer post because of their love of camping. "When you're in the Girl Scouts, if you get to go camping once a year it's a big thing," Miss Lewis, an ex-Girl Scout, said. She was hooked when she learned that, rain notwithstanding, the scouts camp out at least once a month.

A coed program for Explorers — youths between ages 14 and 18 — is among recent changes in Scouting. Post 383 claims to be the only troop in the Marin County scouting district with female members. It has actively recruited them.

"The girls carry their own weight," Scoutmaster Ricardo G. Kepperd said. They must pitch their own tents and carry their own back packs. So far the presence of girls has presented only one special problem.

Post leaders said they had to assure worried parents their daughters would be safe. They hope to offset further anxiety by adding a married, female committeeman to their staff who will be present on future campouts.

Although "no special treatment" is the official position, the girls say their fellow Explorers are eager to lend a hand. At the Headlands, "they wanted to help us carry our back packs," Miss Vandegrift said smiling. And the male Explorers pitched the girls tent — which fell down 30 minutes later.

Explorer girls enter posts at first class rank. Explorer scouting differs from Boy Scouts in that Explorers work only toward merit badges, rather than rank. The post elects its own officers and supervises its meetings and activities with the assistance of an adult adviser.

Each post specializes in some activity and Post 383 plans to specialize in emergency service. They soon will begin training with their post advisor, Eldon Bilbrey, and ultimately will be qualified to assist police and fire departments in rescue operations.

Bilbrey explained the object of the coed program is to introduce teen-age boys and girls to working together in practical situations with ease. "Teamwork" is the scout leader's recurring theme.

Muir Woods Group Elects

Other officers are Rae S. Taub, vice president; Jayne Jones Calkins, secretary, and Elsie Heimann, reelected as treasurer.

Four Dope Suspects Enter Pleas

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Four men arrested in connection with the confiscation of a truckload of marijuana in Marin on Oct. 17 have pleaded innocent in U.S. District Court to charges of conspiracy and possessing marijuana with intent to distribute it.

Charged are Allan G. Palmer, 30, of Novato; Harry J. Kreamer, 32, of Bolinas; Paul R. Pattengale, 32, of San Francisco, and Allister M. McKenzie, 29, of Boyes Hot Springs.

They are to return to court Dec. 17 for a hearing on pretrail motions.

Kreamer, an attorney, is also due to go on trial Nov. 29 in the federal court on another marijuana charge stemming from an indictment in August. He was arrested at Palmer's Novato home when agents said they found 20 pounds of pot in his car, parked outside the residence at 1709 Indian Valley Road.

Palmer was arrested at the same time on suspicion of harboring a fugitive named Leonard Glasberg, also known as Lenny the Lizard.

Glasberg, a fugitive from federal authorities, was picked up at the Palmer house. He was wanted in Florida on a charge of smuggling about two tons of pot.

The subsequent arrest of the four men came when agents traced a truck containing 800 pounds of marijuana to Northgate Industrial Park.

Pair Buried In A Bin Of Soybeans

VICKSBURG, Miss. (UPI)— Two men working in a bin about the size of a football field at the Paymaster Sxbean Mill were buried under two-million bushels of soybeans Monday.

The bodies of Everett M. Richardson, 20, and Lell Anderson Jr., 24, both of Vicksburg, were recovered several hours later.

'Watchdog' Measure Killed

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Professors at state colleges no longer have to sign for their pay by stating they really did the teaching work they were assigned.

A watchdog measure, it was approved last May, three months after a state college professor was fired for "moonlighting" at one college while a grad student taught one of his daily classes.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

We'll Pay Some More For Civic Center

Marin County has by no means heard the last of the cost of its Civic Center. That is obvious from the lawsuits and counter-suits over the Veterans Memorial Building and the Hall of Justice.

Paul V. Wright Inc. and Ben Oretksy Inc., contractors on the Veterans Memorial Building, are suing the county and the architects — Taliesen Associates, Frank Lloyd Wright Foundation, Aaron G. Green and William Wesley Peters — for $374,795. The contractors claim numerous errors and omissions in the plans were found during construction, causing delays and extra expense. This constitutes breach of contract, they allege.

County and architects have filed countersuits against the contractors, blaming them for a nine-month delay in opening of the building.

A SIMILAR SUIT against the county and the same architects has been filed by Robert E. McKee, Inc., contractor on the Hall of Justice, containing the same kind of allegations.

It claims county and architects "extensively redesigned the building beginning shortly after work had commenced and continuing throughout a major portion of the life of the contract."

And, as with the Veterans Memorial Building, county and architects have filed cross-complaints against McKee.

Who is at fault is something the courts will have to decide — whether the architects, or someone in county government, changed the rules in mid-game, whether the contractors failed to live up to their contracts, etc.

BUT WE KNOW who pays the bill. We do — all of us Marin County taxpayers.

We have paid once already, in increased costs for both buildings beyond the estimates on which the contracts were based. We will pay again, in costs for the court actions. We may pay a third time, if the county is found liable.

The Civic Center construction has seen a series of changes and a series of delays. None of the buildings has opened when scheduled. None has been completed quite as originally planned. And every one has cost more than estimated.

THERE IS NOT MUCH use in crying over this spilled milk — even if it does seem to have gold dust in it. But the county, and jurisdictions within it, might ponder the affaire Civic Center and try to draw some lessons from it.

One lesson might be that the Big Name — whether of architect, builder, administrator, planner, or whatever — is no assurance of satisfaction. The local man who is established here and must live with the results of his work may be a better bet.

Fame pays no tax bills.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Capture Of Dog Disturbs Witness

Today my husband came home very upset. In the vicinity of the Red Cart Grocery, Mill Valley, he saw an animal truck. The dog catcher tried to get on his leash three dogs but they escaped.

Then the man whistled friendly and coaxed to himself a beautiful and expensive hunting dog, white with brown spots (a pet, with a collar on and having a license). The dog ran to him trustfully. He grabbed it and pushed it into the animal truck before the poor thing had even comprehended what happened to it.

Today in a Mill Valley home a pet will be missed. There will be sorrow and tears for the whole family. I only hope this letter will indicate to them where to start looking for their dog.

But there is more to it: I understand that the pound and the Humane Society were created to take care of wounded, sick and starving animals, not catching peoples' pets in the vicinity of their homes, pets having a collar and a license on them.

It will be greatly appreciated if the Marin Humane Society and the Marin County Pound would investigate who was sent out to Mill Valley at the vicinity indicated on Nov. 17 and why this particular dog has been caught. . .

Pond In Corte Madera Park Neglected

Since becoming voting tax payers in this county in August, 1966, your paper has been a source of information and awareness concerning the county, and since March, of Corte Madera. We were wondering if you have any idea what is proposed for the pond in Corte Madera Park?

The people we have talked with in City Hall and neighborhood don't know or have conflicting ideas. It was not mentioned in your article of Nov. 7.

There is at least one year-round resident of the pond: a female mallard, injured by a dog and unable to fly. She is called "Lonesome Lena" or "Loudmouth," for she cries to every passing shadow. Thirteen baby ducklings were hatched this spring and we have seen a muskrat several mudhens, herons, and white cranes.

Due to general neglect we have seen many rats also. The pond smells of stagnant water at times. Recently a neighbor saw grass clippings being thrown in and now the fire department is using it for drill. They start a gas fire (kerosene?) on the side of the pond and spray with foam extinguishers. We could see oil film on the water and where foam had entered the water. We protested both last week and again this Tuesday to no apparent avail.

This pond could be a wonderful wildlife sanctuary; a source of enjoyment for all and education to the neighboring school children. If the human species hopes to preserve its dwindling natural resources we must educate the young. Natural science of any kind was omitted as being offered at the Civic Center in Mayor Norville's article.

Only one of the ducklings mentioned earlier survived; some fell prey to dogs and others to rocks thrown by children. When children are asked why they throw rocks the standard answer is "I don't know"; yet when encouraged to feed the ducks and observe the inhabitants of the pond they are fascinated. We have asked adults not to "sic" their dogs on the ducks and had them act like we were spoiling their fun.

This is a small pond but love and appreciation for our natural heritage could be encouraged here. It is needed as an educational tool for the young so that fun isn't watching your dog mangle a duck. We hope you can help us as our "Charlie Brown" stomachs can't take much more.

U.C. Auditors Found Plenty, But One Proposal Hit Fan

SACRAMENTO — Do you know what those nasty old auditors from the state Department of Finance did?

Why, they went down to the University of California campuses and dug up all sorts of ways to save money. Can you believe it?

The auditors studied 20 separate areas of university operations, and came up with hundreds of suggestions for economies: things such as the use and mis-use of university vehicles. Like, what was that car I saw you with last year in Delano, during the grape strike? Or, how come those brothers had that university go-cart out on the town, that time they went to the Black Panther confab?

And, what abour purchasing policies? How come the university doesn't join with other state agencies which use centralized purchasing? Something special about your paper clips?

AND SPEAKING of purchasing, guess what those needle-nosed auditors found out about buying library books. They found out that the university pays more for its books than the corner book store! Pays about 5 per cent over publisher's retail.

The 5 per cent extra is a service charge for speedy service. Which makes sense, I guess. When a scholar needs a book, man, he really needs it.

But, there's a hitch to it. The library orders a new reference volume — and gets it, speedy-quick. Then it sits on a back shelf for about six months until the Library of Congress catalogs it — sits there waiting for a file number and a reference card. When that arrives the book can be put into circulation.

So much for the 5 per cent service charge.

IT WAS THE AUDIT of university library practices which really threw the whole audit into a tizzy.

One of the auditors said, "Hey, you guys can always sell your rare books and special collections. Uh, just a thought." Well, it really hit the fan. Red herrings all over the stacks.

Now, you know there ain't nobody going to auction off those rare books. Not Governor Reagan. Why, he's a "friend of (Cal's) Bancroft Library." And certainly not Finance Director Verne Orr. He has made that clear. In fact, said Orr, he didn't know a thing about the rare book suggestion until the auditors' confidential work sheets were mysteriously leaked to the press.

So why all the noise about the rare books? Why all the clicks from the clacques? It's the same old stuff. Standard operating procedure for pettifoggers.

SOMEBODY AUDITING your operation? Go through their list of suggestions. Forget the practical ideas. Find a clinker. Make it a red herring and throw it — no, leak it — to the boys in the press room. Then sit back and relax. Another economy move is down the tubes and the empire prevails!

UC's president Charlie Hitch called Verne Orr and apologized for the leak. After the herring was already smelling up the rest of the audit. Hitch is always apologizing.

Take this year's budget for U.C. A measly $337 million. The university said it would have to cut and squeeze and maybe even trim a bit. They squeezed one per cent out of the $28 million library fund, and promised it would not cut library services for the students.

Then they turned around and chopped back on the hours the libraries were open. Why? "Because those penny-pinchers up in Sacramento are slamming the library doors, that's why."

But, there was a hitch to that herring, too. It all came out at a regents' meeting. The library hours were cut because there were certain hours when the libraries were virtually empty.

Since the House Committee on Un-American Activities became the House Committee on Internal Security, it may now appear to be something of a silly anachronism left over from a forgotten past. Yet it proceeds with making First Amendment rights less and less secure.

This is the knowledgeable conclusion of Robert Drinan, MC, SJ, HCIS, which is to say, member of Congress, Jesuit priest and member of the committee which he wants abolished. In addition, as former dean of the Boston College Law School, Representative Drinan is a competent judge of the legal aspects of HCIS's endeavors.

In a lecture at American University, the Massachusetts congressman observed that in about 12 minutes on Oct. 12 the committee decided to place the names of 73 Americans in its files. The names were filed on the basis of committee statements by three men who thought the 73 to be subversive, militant or something, leaving the 73 without redress.

ALL IN A DAY'S WORK, it was. Father Drinan says that the committee's card file now contains names of more than 754,000 Americans who allegedly have engaged in subversive activity, the evidence being "hearsay piled on hearsay" and customarily aimed at persons who have been dissenters or politically unorthodox.

There is no congressional authorization for this data bank. Father Drinan points out, and it is not harmless. Last year federal agencies made 1,348 visits to check the files. The Justice Department looks them over in considering the status of federal employes and job applicants, and even agencies so unrelated to national security work as the Federal Communications Commission check them in reviewing license applications. Thus jobs and business as well as reputations may be at stake in the collection of hearsay piled on hearsay.

ASIDE FROM COMPILING files, the committee through its history has proved a smoking volcano that never fires up effective legislation. Recently its chairman, Rep. Richard Ichord of Missouri, got the committee to recommend, with three dissents, a vote for keeping emergency detention camps. The Nixon administration itself had wanted to get rid of this reminder of concentration camps and the committee's bill got only 49 House votes.
whelming House support when the time for appropriations arises. Its budget of $525,000 is the third largest among the 21 standing committees of the House, and its free-wheeling staff is the largest. The reason is, of course, that House members face re-election every two years, they fear being accused of being soft on communism, and voting for the HCIS is the cheapest internal security they can buy for themselves.

Kennedy Has The Momentum To Win Nomination In '72

WASHINGTON — Momentum is the word. Whether it is all consciously, deliberately planned or whether it is spontaneous is, for the time being, irrelevant. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy is on his way with the very real possibility that he will end up with the presidential nomination of the Democratic party in 1972.

The Kennedy momentum is evident, above all, in the outpouring of publicity not only from commentators long subscribing to the Kennedy mystique but in national magazines and on television screens. This, in turn, reflects his rapid rise in the polls so that today he runs either close to or ahead of Senators Edmund Muskie and Hubert Humphrey.

From some long-time Kennedy family friends comes word that Teddy would prefer to wait for 1976, since '72 promises to be a doubtful year for Democrats. That is not the way he sees it. You can't sit it out. The illusion of a better year might prove to be just that and the party would never forgive you. Besides, Kennedys don't play the waiting game.

THE PUBLICITY BARRAGE comes from two sources. One is the way the senator constantly speaks out on the issues. By comparison the other candidates sound muted, either from caution or because they fail to put it over. The Kennedys have long shown a mastery of the media, an intimate firsthand knowledge.

The Kennedy apparatus on Senate committees dealing with vital headline-making issues is the second source. The first and most important is the subcommittee on medical care, with the senator holding televised hearings around the country on his measure for complete coverage, national health insurance, federally financed. This is opposed to the administration bill that relies on private health insurance in a national pay-as-you-go system.

The senator talks with buoyant self-confidence of the measure recently passed by both houses of Congress that triples the authorization of money to be spent on medical education. He sees this as beginning to make up for one of the biggest deficiencies in medical care — the shortage of doctors, nurses, nursing homes and hospitals. Chairman Wilbur Mills is putting his House Ways and Means Committee through the paces of a measure to finance a new health-care system. Kennedy is confident that when this comes to the Senate it will be possible to work out a compromise advancing medical care, not the whole way to national insurance but a big step forward (and why not a Kennedy-Mills ticket in 1972?).

The Kennedy subcommittee on refugees is another source of headlines. The senator spent most of the August recess inspecting the camps in India where more than 9,500,000 refugees from East Pakistan live on bare subsistence with no future in sight.

THE KENNEDY KNACK for headlines occasionally gets him in trouble. When he compared Britain's role in Ulster to that of the United States in Vietnam and called for British withdrawal, he stirred up a hornets' nest. The angry roar of the British lion echoed around the world.

Here is a probable scenario as faithful Kennedy workers see it. Mayor John V. Lindsay will concentrate his efforts in the last and crucial primary in California. That is a state made to order for the Lindsay telegenic appeal. If he doesn't win, he will come so close as to leave the other contenders looking battered and forlorn.

With no chance to get the nomination himself, Lindsay will nevertheless have damaged the front runners. Out of the alternative? No one else but you know who.

What about Chappaquiddick? The Senator's answer is that a political campaign cannot be based on the constant repetition of one tragic accident. And the threat of assassination of the third and last of the Kennedys? That is a peril to be lived with. Having gone through the ordeal of the murder of his two brothers, nothing can daunt him.

Does he want the nomination? Has a Kennedy ever not wanted public office and personal power? It was conditioned into them by the fierce drive of the founding father, Joseph P. Kennedy.

He will enter no primaries. He will go to the convention in Miami Beach offering the conviction that he, and he alone, can defeat Richard Nixon.

Law And Order Issue Finds Proper Place On Political Scene

By ARNOLD B. SAWISLAK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There is evidence from the big city elections that the wandering law-and-order issue finally has returned to its logical place in the political scheme of things.

It seems unlikely that anyone —politician or voter —believed that a candidate for President or the U.S. Senate could really do much to stop crime in the streets.

But in the late 1960s, when citizens were becoming alarmed about rising crime rates, candidates seeking election to the highest offices of national and state government were busy offering solutions that often stopped just short of promising to strap on pistols and go after the muggers, burglars and rapists themselves.

The fact is that big time politicians were scared to death of the issue and many felt they had to "pin on the sheriff's badge" to be on the right side.

LAW ENFORCEMENT certainly does need federal and state government support, especially to provide funds to improve and expand local police forces, and in the longer run to strike at the root causes of crime — poverty, ignorance, discrimination and the other iniquities of society.

But the key to controlling the kind of person-to-person crime that has alarmed so many Americans is and always was law enforcement at the local level. Neither rhetoric nor cash from Washington and the state capitals will stop hoodlums and junkies from robbing people in their homes or on the streets. Mayors and police chiefs, judges and jailers are the people to see about this kind of problem.

A few years ago, voters of Minneapolis elected a policeman to be mayor, causing some observers to announce the arrival of a straw in the wind. And when Philadelphia, the fourth largest city in the country, elected its former police commissioner, Frank Rizzo, to be mayor, the same observers declared the time had arrived for local officials to get hard nosed about crime or face political oblivion.

But such analyses of the outcome in Philadelphia, where Rizzo's "tough cop" image was the prime issue, and Cleveland, where another law and order candidate beat the candidate of retiring Mayor Carl Stokes, ignore some counter currents in what is now claimed to be the political mainstream for municipal officials.

BOSTON IS AN example. Mayor Kevin White beat Rep. Louise Day Hicks by a sizable margin. Law and order was one of the issues in Boston and Mrs. Hicks should have profited from it if the voters simply wanted a candidate with a get tough line. Boston has a crime problem (54 per cent of citizens interviewed for a recent National League of Cities poll felt unsafe on their neighborhood streets at night) and Mrs. Hicks has a non-nonsense reputation stemming from her days on the Boston school board.

Mrs. Hicks did try to use the law and order issue, but she could not corner White. Instead of accusing her of crying wolf, the mayor emphasized what he was doing to fight crime —such as adding 400 men to the police force —and effectively neutralized the issue.

In San Francisco, something completely in conflict with the get tough theory occurred. Richard D. Hongisto, 34, was elected sheriff, beating the incumbent of 15 years and a couple of other law officers for the post.

Hongisto is a policeman himself —and is about to get a Ph.D. in criminology to boot — but he campaigned for lower penalities for marijuana possession, stricter rules for police use of firearms, and a whole list of other issues generally regarded as liberal. Hongisto will have little law enforcement power himself, but he will run the city's jails and he is pledged to improve the food, medical care and living conditions of the inmates.

Philadelphia and Cleveland are very different cities from Boston and San Francisco. But people anywhere are not all that different and if there is a common lesson to be taken from the four cities it may be that while law and order is very definitely a political issue, voters

The pros and cons of year-around schools appear to be endless. Virtually everyone in Southern Sonoma would be affected by the change and nearly everyone already has an opinion about it.

The methods of extending the school year are many and each seems to be getting at least some attention from the steering committee working on a recommendation to go to the Petaluma Board of Education.

Receiving the most study is the 45-15 plan in which students would be divided into four groups, each in class for 45 days followed by 15 days vacation. This would have one-fourth on vacation at any given time. Also being given close scrutiny is a plan to divide the school year into four quarters with a student in class for three consecutive quarters, but with the vacation periods staggered instead of all being June-September.

IN EITHER CASE, parents must face the prospects of having children on vacation during winter. Families that enjoy winter sports or traveling at off-season rates would be pleased by the change, but the initial reaction is that the majority would not.

Working mothers, especially, are wary of the idea and wonder if they could make child care arrangements for students who get three-week vacations every three months.

City recreation departments in Southern Sonoma, which gear programs for summer vacation months, would be faced with providing programs for 25 per cent of the student population on a year-round basis. Police departments are giving serious thought to possible increased vandalism, littering and shoplifting. Businesses that normally hire student workers in the summer would also be affected.

THE MAIN CONCERN, however, is the effect of the plan on students. Preliminary studies have shown that many students retain more information on the quarter system and 45-15 plan. They would no longer return from a three-month vacation and spend the first six weeks doing refresher work.

While it has not been shown that year-round schooling would definitely reduce or increase operating costs, by making better use of existing buildings and facilities, construction of new schools can be delayed.

The Petaluma Elementary District foresees no enrollment increase for the next five years, but a classroom squeeze will probably continue in Old Adobe District on Petaluma's Eastside, at junior and senior high schools throughout Petaluma High School District, and possible in the Cotati School District in the next several years as Rohnert Park grows. Crowded conditions and schools on double sessions could be eliminated by extending the school year and reducing the student population by 25 per cent.

THE STUDY COMMITTEE is scheduled to sift through all the pros and cons of the various plans and come up with a recommendation for the school board by February, a difficult task to say the least.

It is hoped that students, parents, school personnel and others in the community can keep an open mind about extending the school year — at least until a firm plan is offered. Members of the school board have made it plain that they have not made up their minds.

That FBI Man At Window May Mean Court Appointment

WASHINGTON — The news that the FBI has been investigating CBS correspondent Daniel Schorr caused some trepidation among Washington journalists early last week.

But then the White House explained it all. Mr. Schorr was being investigated, a spokesman said, because he was being considered for a high government job, and the White House wanted to run a check on him before they offered him the position.

Well, all of us relaxed when we heard the explanation, not only because it made sense, but also because it showed that the administration harbored no ill feelings. Mr. Schorr has been a consistent critic of administration policies and if he was being considered for a high government job, that meant any of us could be tapped for public service.

A GROUP OF correspondents were sitting in the White House press room the other day, chuckling over the latest White House press release, when Clyde Mothballer of the Kinzu Telegram Ledger was called to the phone.

He came back whitefaced and said: "That was my mother. The FBI was just at her house and wanted to know what library books I borrowed when I was a kid."

"Congratulations, Mothballer," the AP man said. "That means you're up for an important government job."

"I don't know," Clyde said. "The administration got awfully mad at me about my articles on the Supreme Court appointments. As a matter of fact someone from the White House called my editor and suggested I be sent to Moscow where I understood the government better."

"Don't be silly, Mothballer," the Boston Globe man said, "the administration doesn't hold grudges. I wouldn't be surprised if they made you secretary of the treasury."

"YOU WOULD THINK they would ask me if I wanted a job first," Mothballer said.

"They wanted to surprise you," the Washington Post correspondent assured him. "To think, one of our boys will be in the cabinet!"

"The FBI man didn't say anything to my mother about a cabinet appointment. But he did want to know if I ever played with Daniel Ellsberg as a kid," Mothballer said.

"It's just a smokescreen, Clyde," the Los Angeles Times man said. "They always ask that when they're considering somebody for secretary of defense."

"My mother said they also went around to the neighbors and asked them if I had ever had any strong feelings about Cuba."

"That means you're being put up for head of the CIA," a UPI photographer said. "With Dick Helms being moved upstairs, they're probably looking for a new chief of operations."

"IT'S POSSIBLE," Mothballer said, "but my mother said she caught two of the FBI men going through her trash basket last night."

"That means you're up for an environment job," the NBC man shouted.

"I wish I could be as optimistic as you guys," Mothballer said. "Suppose the FBI was asking questions to intimidate me?"

The Chicago Sun-Times man was shocked. "Bite your tongue, Mothballer," he cried. "The Nixon administration would never stoop to a trick like that, even if they disagreed with every word you wrote."

"He's correct, Clyde," the Newsweek correspondent said. "Attorney General Mitchell would resign before he'd allow the White House to intimidate a newspaperman."

"J. Edgar Hoover wouldn't stand for it," the New York Post man put in.

"I guess you're right," Mothballer nodded. "I'd better call my mother back and reassure her. She just doesn't understand how Nixon's people operate."

Another Quentin Attorney

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court permitted San Rafael attorney Richard Tarrant to withdraw, when defendant Hugo A. Pinell insisted he wanted to hire Bencangey on his own.

Four of the five other attorneys also asked to be relieved of defending their uncooperative clients, who refuse to talk to them and constantly yell for their firing.

Among new attorneys sought by the convicts is Charles R. Garry of San Francisco, who has represented several Black Panther Party members. Inmate John Larry Spain and his present court-appointed attorney, Steven Koolpe, both asked that Garry be substituted.

Other attorneys who want to get out of the case are Deputy Public Defender Frank Cox, representing David Johnson, Richard H.Breiner representing Fleeta Drumgo, and Howard K. Morehouse, representing Willie Tate.

Louis F. Hawkins, who was appointed for Louis N. Talamantez, did not file for withdrawal from the case because he wants first to make sure another attorney is ready to take over Talamantez's defense.

The six men are accused of murdering three correctional officers and two fellow inmates, conspiracy to escape and felony assaults.

During yesterday's arraignment, they shouted obscenities and were ordered out of the courtroom to listen from an adjoining holding cell. In the afternoon, however, most of them listened quietly to arguments on proposed changes of attorneys.

Judge McGuire said he hopes to have a ruling in about a week on the requests for changes of attorneys.

He set the following schedule for future court actions:

Next Monday at 9 a.m. he will hear arguments on whether Willie Tate is competent to represent himself, as he wants to do.

On Dec. 13 at 9 a.m., he will hear all demurrers (legal objections to the grand jury indictment) from the defense.

On Dec. 13 at 2 p.m., he wants the defendants to enter their pleas.

Bencangey, the Beverly Hills attorney assigned to Pinell, said the family and a friend of Pinell's contacted him and asked him to take the case. He has been practicing law for three years.

DIRECTOR — Virgil S. Hollis, Marin County superintendent of schools, has been appointed March of Dimes campaign director for Marin, Napa, Sonoma and Solano counties. The campaign will be held in January.

Police Dept. Gets Home In Tiburon

The Tiburon City Council last night decided to use space in the city hall now set aside for council meetings for headquarters for the city's own police department, which will come into existence in June.

The council turned down a suggestion to rent property next door to the city hall at $825 a month and accepted an invitation from the Reed School District to hold council meetings in the music room at Del Mar School.

The county sheriff's department currently provides police services for Tiburon on a contract basis, but the city has voted to establish its own department.

In a related matter, the council heard from City Mgr. Bert Balmer that about a dozen qualified men have applied for the new chief of police post. These applicants will be screened by an oral board, it was decided, with the council to choose one of the three top applications.

The Tiburon City Council also:

APARTMENTS — Heard the second reading of an ordinance granting a planned development master plan for 36 apartment units on six lots on Marinero Circle.

TAX — Postponed the second reading of a bedroom tax ordinance until further legal clarification could be obtained.

OFFICES — Set a public hearing for Dec. 13 for a zoning ordinance amendment which would prohibit professional offices in duplex and apartment zones except for so-called home occupations.

HEARING — Also set Dec. 13 for a public hearing on a proposed ordinance amendment which would set a 30-foot limit on buildings in Tiburon.

EMERGENCY — Approved the first reading of an ordinance updating the city's emergency plans as required by the state Legislature.

COMMISSION — After a brief closed session, appointed Albert Aramburu and Donald Pickett to vacancies on the park and recreation commission to fill seats formerly held by George Ellman and David Teather.

Creek Union Withdrawal Due Study

The San Anselmo City Council will consider withdrawing from the Ross Valley Flood Control District when the council meets at 8 p.m. today at city hall.

The move was suggested Nov. 9 by Councilman James F. Reed, who said he feared the flood control district could use its taxing power to force San Anselmo to allow a "concrete channel" through the city.

City Administrator Alfred C. Kaeppel said San Anselmo residents are taxed five cents per $100 assessed valuation tax for maintenance of the flood control project, but San Anselmo has been taking care of its creek maintenance on its own.

The council tonight will also respond to an Army Corps of Engineers request for comments on a corps environmental statement for the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control Project.

The council has been critical of the project in the past and has called the corps work through Ross, Kentfield and Larkspur a "concrete bathtub."

Two Veterinarians Elected To Board

Two Marin veterinarians, Robert M. Bramman and Wilhelm F. Braunschweig, have been elected to the board of directors of the Marin County Humane Society — the first veterinarians to be named to the board.

Drug Suspect Pleads Innocent

Linda Jean Mitchell, 26, of San Anselmo, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to a charge she brought unauthorized drugs into San Quentin Prison.

Judge David R. Baty of West Marin Justice Court, sitting in Marin Municipal Court, set a preliminary hearing for Nov. 23.

Justice White Hurts Ankle, Misses Session

An aide said the injury was a minor one but declined to say how the justice incurred it. It kept White off the bench at Monday's court session, although he was in his office working.

Hospitality House Near Prison Backed

Deputy Zoning Administrator Ralph D. Cairns yesterday approved a proposal to convert an old home near the entrance to San Quentin Prison into a "hospitality house."

The proposal, submitted by the Catholic Social Service of Marin, envisions a resting place and information center for families of San Quentin inmates.

It is located at 2 Main Street about 100 feet from the prison's east gate.

A similar proposal last year by the Quakers brought protest from nearby residents who voiced no opposition yesterday to the new proposal.

The Quakers had proposed using the home as a meeting hall also. Their request was approved over the objections of the residents, but was never carried through.

According to James D. Kilty who represented the Catholic agency yesterday, the "hospitality house" is scheduled to open Dec. 4.

He said plans for the future include operating a child care center for children of visiting mothers. That service will need separate approval, however, under Cairn's ruling yesterday.

In other action, the zoning administrator approved construction of a First Southern Baptist Church at 62 Shell Road, Alto, over the objections of a small band of residents.

Residents complained that the church and added traffic it would bring would destroy the rural atmosphere of their neighborhood.

Ceramic Objects Taken At Nursery

Burglars broke into the San Rafael Nursery, 1580 Lincoln Avenue, Thursday and stole $100 worth of ceramic objects, San Rafael police reported.

Police said the burglars gained entry by prying a door open on the north side of the building. Also missing were a gold leaf planter and bamboo wind chimes.

Pair Booked In Pot Probe

A Woodacre couple was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday after San Anselmo police found them in a car said to be stolen and containing a suitcase containing suspected marijuana.

Gerald John Backearis, 27, and Judi Pearl Backearis, 26, both of 348 Redwood Drive, were booked on suspicion of car theft and possession of marijuana. Bail was set at $2,000 each for the couple to appear in Marin Municipal Court tomorrow.

Officers said they stopped the car on Greenfield Avenue about 10:50 a.m. A check revealed it was reported stolen in San Francisco last Friday. The suitcase was found in the trunk and two suspected marijuana cigarettes were found in Backearis's possession, police said.

A 'T' Dropped By Nevada Town

After 106 years of controversy over the spelling, the Nevada Highway Department says it has found official reports of Major Charles McDermit, for whom the Army outpost was named. The major was killed in an Indian skirmish in 1865.

Over the years, McDermit became McDermitt. Now a number of highway signs, state maps and official documents and records must be changed to the correct spelling.

Crafts And Arts Fair Scheduled

A "West Marin Crafts and Arts Fair" will be held Dec. 11 and 12, sponsored by the Sandcastle Gallery and the Home, a newly formed group of dancers and musicians.

The fair will be held from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day. It will be at three locations; Sandcastle Gallery, Mesa Road, and the Home, Third and Main streets, both Point Reyes Station, and Olema Natural Food Store in Olema, said Charles R. Russell, publicity chairman.

Baked goods, jewelry, paintings, leather work, pottery and children's art will be sold. There will be live music and refreshments.

Curriculum Session Slated By Dixie

The Dixie School District board will continue a discussion on school organization and curriculum at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the board room of the administration office.

It will be the third consecutive meeting in which administrators, teachers and parents have discussed these topics.

Slain Guards' Families File $2 Million Claims

Survivors of two guards killed during the macabre Aug. 21 escape attempt at San Quentin Prison have filed claims totaling $2 million against the state and three counties including Marin.

The two claims — asking $1 million in damages each — were filed Friday by the families of Jere P. Graham and Paul W. Krasenes.

Named in the claims besides Marin and the state were San Francisco and Monterey counties.

The claims, identical except for names and addresses, state that "there appears to have been negligence, dangerous conditions, violations of statutes, including, but not limited to, the situations that prevailed at Soledad and San Quentin prisons."

The guards, along with fellow guard Frank P. DeLeon and three inmates, died during the escape attempt by Soledad Brother George Jackson. Jackson was one of the three inmates slain.

(Six inmates are now awaiting trial in connection with the murders of the three guards and two inmates. Jackson was killed by a correctional officer as he dashed for freedom.)

The claims maintain that the families have suffered personal injuries and mental suffering as a result of the killings.

Youth Cited In Auto Case

A 14-year-old boy was cited to juvenile authorities after he was found with a stolen car Saturday night, San Rafael police reported yesterday.

Police said they stopped to help J. Leigh Gregg of 716 Monticello Road, San Rafael, when he appeared to be having car trouble at Del Ganado Road and Las Ovejas Avenue at about 11:15 p.m. Saturday.

A check revealed the car had been stolen earlier from in front of the residence of its owner, Martin H. O'Brien Jr. of 575 Thyme Place, San Rafael, officers said.

NOT NEW TO COMMUNITY

A New Vocation—Family Counseling

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Mill Valley has a new marriage and family counselor — Gordon L. Foster — but he is far from new to the community. Rev. Foster was pastor of the Mill Valley Community Church from 1947 to 1970.

He still lives in the old Victorian home in Mill Valley, where he and his wife, Marjorie, reared their four children.

"Mill Valley is the only home town our children have known," the Rev. Foster said. All but the youngest son of the family of three boys and one girl are now married and have their own homes.

Free from family responsibilities, the Fosters left for Switzerland in September 1970. There Rev. Foster spent a year studying at the Carl Jung Institute for Analytical Psychology in Zurich ... under a study grant from a foundation for Jungian education.

IN HIS SUNNY office in Mill Valley's El Paseo, opened last month, the former Mill Valley Community Church minister spoke of his change in vocations and the approach he will take in his counseling.

"I'm not really starting a new career," he emphasized. "What I'm doing is not all that different. I have taken one part of a pastor's job, counseling, and will be stressing that. I still see myself as a Christian minister, working individually and in small groups with people."

Two aspects of Rev. Foster's background were of special value in counseling, apart from his qualification as a minister with the B. D. degree from the Pacific School of Religion. One was his year's work toward a doctorate in psychology and philosophy at Columbia University and the Union Theological Seminary in New York City. The other was ecumenical experience, which confirmed his broad view of religion.

DURING WORLD War II he had served simultaneously as pastor of the First Congregational Church and the First Presbyterian Church in Santa Rosa, when the pastor of the latter, a close friend, became chaplain in the U.S. Army.

Now a counselor

Rev. Foster explained why his approach to counseling is based on Jung's analytical psychology rather than the Freudian, but he emphasized, "I don't claim to be a Jungian analyst — only a minister with partial training in the Jungian approach.

The essential difference between Freud and Jung, he pointed out, is that Freud bases everything on the sex drive, whereas Jung says sex is not the only source of energy.

"Jungian psychology also accepts the reality of the unconscious as well as the conscious psyche," he explained, adding that this psychology is congenial to the religious aspect of life.

Rev. Foster believes that the importance of the unconscious part of the mind is what people must understand before they can understand themselves and others.

"MY APPROACH is that we have to know ourselves before we can risk letting ourselves be known by others," he said. "Everybody wants intimacy instead of mask-to-mask relationships. A lot of people know only the roles they have been playing. They don't understand their negative feelings, and a counselor should try to uncover the unconscious sources so that they can be understood and not cause destructive results for themselves and others."

There are various means of uncovering the unconscious material, he noted, but said that Jung emphasizes dream analysis.

"Dreams are the language of the unconscious psyche," he explained. "If your conscious mind is way off base, your unconscious will try to show you where. The process of becoming a whole person is getting in touch with this unconscious material and incorporating it so that it does not control you and so that you can use its positive values. Jung says dreams are as real as anything in life."

Interpreting this dream material, however, the minister warned, is not a simple matter but one for which special training is needed. "People should beware of the dream book," he cautioned, observing that objects as symbols do not always have the same significance. "A tree may mean one thing in one person's life and something entirely different in another's life," he said.

The minister discussed some of the problems he expects to handle.

OLDER PEOPLE: "My psychology is exceptionally good for people in the second half of life. In the West the young man has to develop his conscious mind to find his place in the world, but the penalty for 40 years of concentration on this can mean neglect of the inner world so that its existence is not admitted.

"The task of the second half of life is to discover the neglected side of one's self. Your old age can be just as exciting as the first half but on a different basis." Retirement can mean loss of meaning, he noted.

Marriage: Counseling in this area, he said, consists largely of working with couples who need someone not involved in their problems to help find solutions.

Divorce: "Two people often manage to get along as long as they are busy working out security, building and maintaining a home and rearing children. Then suddenly they may look at each other and find themselves strangers. They may find they don't know how to talk to each other or even like each other." They have to find out who they are, he said.

YOUTH: "ANY kind of big problem, such as finding your place in life is much harder now that there are so many options and so many life styles. A great many things have affected the feeling side of young people's lives, and they have bizarre ways of dealing with them." The counselor finds very hopeful the fact that so many are seeking less materialistic values today.

Individuals Searching for Meaning: "I am primarily interested in the suffering people go through when they can no longer find meaning in life. We are only able to deal with our lives when we can see meaning."

WHILE Rev. Foster enjoys working with individuals, he feels the group approach is valuable.

"I do hope, as the year goes on, to do some group counseling," he says. "Dealing with some things in a group can be very helpful and much less expensive. A therapy group I could work with would be one which would employ a variety of methods and use all that men and science are learning about relationships."

The former pastor said he is allowing himself a year to see if he can accomplish what he hopes to in the private counseling field. At the end of that time he expects to know a great deal more about which problems are common and which are special in Marin.

A LONG COMMUTE

Isolated Area Gets A Doctor

By RICHARD J. SCHNEIDER

EAGLE, Colo. (UPI)—This mountain community of 800 is still conducting a nationwide campaign to lure a doctor, but in the meantime they've got Dr. Mary Jo Jacobs who doesn't mind commuting 60 miles roundtrip three days a week.

Dr. Jacobs opened her part-time practice in Eagle in October. She says she doesn't mind commuting.

"It"s been beautiful, ideal," she said in an interview. "The canyons have been gorgeous. Every day it changes."

Eagle has been without a doctor for the past three years. The town'-s plea for a full-time physician has received nationwide publicity — but no takers. The townsfolk even strung a long banner across Main Street proclaiming "Eagle Needs a Doctor."

IN THE MEANTIME who is the wife of a doctor and mother of four children, drives to Eagle three days a week —Monday, Wednesday and Friday. She treats patients in the Eagle Medical Clinic, a three-year-old facility built by the town. Much of its equipment is second hand.

"We had to scrounge our equipment," she said. The large equipment came from the Gillman Mine hospital which closed down several years ago and gave its equipment to the Vail Clinic, 30 miles away.

"There were a lot of things that they couldn't use and weren't going to use at Vail, so they were nice enough to let us have some of that, examining tables and so forth," Dr. Jacobs said.

"We are still trying to get an X-ray machine," she added. "There is one up at the Gillman hospital but it has to be checked out to see if it's suitable for moving and if it's safe for usage."

DR. JACOBS medicine. She and her husband, an obstetrician-gynecologist who set up a practice in Glenwood last summer, practiced in rural New Mexico for eight years and Montana for four years.

"I got a lot of winter driving in when we lived in northwestern Montana," she said. "We lived in quite a severe winter region. I don't mind the bad roads."

Dr. Jacobs is not sure just how long she will be practicing in Eagle.

"I came here with the understanding that I would work until they could find a full-time doctor who would live here and assume the practice," she said.

Since the advertising began 18 months ago, about 60 doctors have made inquiries while 20 actually looked the town over, said Mrs. Marillia McCain, a board member for the clinic.

SOME DOCTORS distance from the nearest hospital, 30 miles away at Glenwood Springs, and many wives weren't too enthusiastic about the rural life, Mrs. McCain said.

The distance doesn't bother Dr. Jacobs. With modern technology and communications, "I can take a blood test today and they can call me on it tomorrow from Denver."

The problem, as Dr. Jacobs sees it, is with the person who gets sick and must travel a long distance to get medical care.

Her personal plans call for eventually owning and operating a mobile medical clinic throughout Eagle, Garfield and Pitkin Counties to screen residents and determine who might need hospital care.

"Many areas are growing rapidly and have no doctors," she said.

And in the meantime, Eaglites are getting medical care.

THE COLORADO community of Eagle has been without a doctor for three years, so Dr. Mary Jo Jacobs doesn't mind the 60 mile commute from her home in Glenwood, Colo. Dr. Jacobs drives to Eagle three days a week to treat patients in the Eagle Medical Clinic, a three year old facility built by the town. She hopes eventually to operate a mobile medical clinic through Eagle, Garfield and Pitkin counties.

Parents Urged To Foster Myth Of Santa Claus

NEW YORK (UPI)—A noted child psychiatrist says parents should foster the myth of Santa Claus so their young children can accept Christmas gifts without feeling obligated to parents and relatives.

Dr. Bruno Bettelheim, writing in the current issue of Ladies Home Journal, said Monday belief in Santa "is the only way some children can permit themselves to enjoy Christmas presents.

"Many children feel they don't deserve presents from their parents," he said. "Even more children sense that accepting gifts from parents or relatives creates an obligation. None of this is true while children believe in Santa."

Belief in Santa is not only pleasurable in itself, Bettelheim said, but is "an important step in developing adult concepts."

New Handbook Out On Dinner Hints

What shall I cook for dinner? This can be a difficult problem for family meal planners not just once in a while, but 365 days a year. Imagine, then, how difficult it can be for people in food service operations like hospitals and institutions who are responsible for planning menus for hundreds of people every day.

A new handbook of ideas, "Volume Feeding Menu Selector," which was written for these people, can also be helpful in planning family meals. Published by Cahners Books in Boston, it's based on 15 years of menu suggestion columns by Alta B. Atkinson, administrative dietitian at Harvard University Food Services.

About 14,000 suggestions for menu items from appetizers to desserts are arranged in menu selector charts, 10 to a month, with seasonal foods and holiday meals in the appropriate months.

FIRST, PICK an entree such as Maryland fried chicken with boiled potatoes from the poultry column. From the same column, add the complementary dishes which will go with the main dish.

For example, you may choose spiced fruit cocktail, if you'd like an appetizer. For a vegetable, chive buttered carrots. A Waldorf salad and coffee ice cream with marshmallow sauce would complete this meal nicely. This adds up to a complete meal, and only uses up one of the 240 possible choices for the month.

Each month's menu selector puts together 240 different menus, offering 2,880 dinner ideas — enough for seven and a half years of dinners without any duplications. The charts are set up according to foods that go well together, alleviating worry about what-goes-with-what.

Each chart is divided into four columns, one each for a main dish of meat, poultry, seafood and miscellaneous dishes which include foreign foods, main-dish vegetables like stuffed peppers and egg or cheese dishes. These columns are subdivided by appetizer, entree, vegetable, salad and dessert for each meal.

This is the way professional menu-makers use the Menu Selector, but whenever you need a fresh idea, you can open the book at random and put your finger on one.

STILL MORE alternatives are listed in the sections called "Added Attractions" which follow each month's menu selectors. These give you ideas for special occasions, varieties of ordinary foods, substitutions for worn-out dishes and new methods of preparing food you already use.

Some brunch ideas from one of the sections are French toast and broiled bacon-wrapped prunes, creamy scrambled eggs with butter-browned pastrami, breakfast pepper steak with poached egg, banana nut waffles, pan fried ham and pineapple with curried scrambled eggs, blueberry and link sausage pancakes. For holiday entertaining, there's a selection of buffet ideas.

Leftover poultry items could be used for turkey pancakes, chicken croquettes, chicken-almond appetizer, risotto of chicken livers, broiled chicken salad sandwich au gratin or scalloped turkey and savory stuffing.

PEASANTS, POOH AND PIGLET Little girls who like to dress up for special occasions in long skirts and peasant fashions can go to holiday parties in fashions from the Winnie-the-Pooh Collection. Pooh and Piglet give their approval to the lass in a cotton challis skirt in a purple paisley and floral print with rick rack trim. Her leno-weave blouse is adorned with lace, and both pieces of the nostalgic look are machine washable.

History Of Canning

CHICAGO (UPI) — The idea of canning food originated in France and came about because of a contest.

In 1795, according to Encyclopedia Britannica, the French government was having a revolution at home and a war with several European nations. Consequently, there was an acute need of food supplies for the military.

The government offered a prize of 12,000 francs for the discovery of a practical method of food preservation. The prize was not won until 1809 when Nicholas Appert, a Parisian confectioner, displayed an assortment of food preserved in glass bottles.

Appert's method was to put the bottled food in boiling water for varying lengths of time. The same principle underlies food preservation today, the development of conditions within a food that are unfavorable for the growth of spoilage organisms.

THE GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

DEAR SUE:

I'm always loaning to my friends, sometimes even to my enemies.

I don't mind sheets of paper and the like, but things like glue, erasers, pens, pencils, gym clothes, socks and money get used up or worn out!

I can't say I'm fresh out, because people can see those things in my desk or locker, and I usually have a little extra cash.

I'm going broke because they never pay back.

If you aren't the type who can say "No!" what's the next best thing, Sue? — LOANED OUT

DEAR L.O.:

I know a man who owns a lot of tools. Relatives and friends borrowed them so much, he forgot which were where; and even what, exactly, he had in the first place.

So he tacked a "hot list" on the bulletin board in his garage. Each time someone borrows something, his or her name goes on the list. When the item comes home, the name disappears. His H.L. has become so well accepted that people add and subtract their own names.

Maybe you could tape a "hot list" to the inside of your desk, "L.O." If the kids didn't catch on, at least you'd know which owe you the most so you can start "borrowing back" from them. — SUE

DEAR HELEN:

I'm in love with this fellow of 24, but my parents say he has no future. Okay, so he's a laborer, but he's saving money so he can go to college again. I recently got him on the night shift at the company where I work. Mom says I'll have to quit because she won't allow us to be in the same building, with overlapping shifts.

I told her that I'd leave home if she didn't stop trying to run my life. After all, I'm 20. She said she could have me picked up — not as a runaway, because I'm over 18 — but as a mental case.

I'm a normal, healthy, girl who holds down a good job. Is it insane to want to marry the man you love? — BRENDA

DEAR BRENDA:

No!

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

I have many hang-ups I could bother you with, but I'm forgetting my troubles to send you a compliment. I think it's really fantastic that you are working together as a mother-daughter team, and you're both doing a great job!

You've helped me solve some of my problems already — and the best part: you've started "talk" between kids and their parents.

You've said in the past, Helen, that you hardly ever print "bouquets," so I'll add a question, then maybe it will make Generation Rap.

Would you please — again — tell us where we can write to overseas servicemen who want mail? — THINKS YOU'RE BOTH FAN-TAS-TIC!

DEAR FAN:

Thanks, good buddy, we love you too!

The address: Send your letters — or Christmas Cards —to servicemen inside envelopes (or boxes, if your club sends a bunch of letters) to:

VIETNAM MAIL CALL,
Box 3104-A,

First Feast Resembled A Barbecue

NEW YORK (UPI)—Three and a half centuries ago our forefathers sat down to the first Thanksgiving dinner.

The festive meal most Americans will eat this Nov. 25 bears almost no resemblance to the 1621 original in either menu or manner of cooking. For this we can be thankful.

Before all you traditionalists take aim, hear this: research by the Plymouth-Provincetown Celebration Commission indicates that the first such harvest festival probably was more like a community barbecue than a family meal with comfortable indoor seating.

Moreover, what the Pilgrims ate had to be gathered wild from woods, fields and streams, or shot, killed, skinned and dressed for cooking.

RECORDS ARE skimpy of the actual bill of fare shared by the Pilgrims with their Indian guests. Foods mentioned specifically include venison, wild duck, wild goose, clams, other shellfish, eel, wild plums and berries, white bread, corn bread, leeks, watercress and other "sallet herbs" and sweet, strong wine made from wild grapes. No cranberry sauce and no pumpkin or mince pie.

The commission said turkey is widely assumed to have been part of the main course, chiefly because of the many references to "wild turkies" in historical papers of the period.

The commission also said wild cranberries were plentiful in 1621 in bogs near Plimoth (now Plymouth, Mass.) but the Pilgrims are thought not to have found use of them in time for the first Thanksgiving. But 51 years later, John Josselyn wrote in "New England's Rarities Discovered" that "The Indians and English use them juch boyling them with Sugar for Sauce to eat with their meat; and it is a delicate Sauce, especially for roasted Mutton; Some make tarts with them as with Goose Berries."

AS FAR BACK as the 13th Century the handsome geometrics were appreciated as motifs for Oriental rug designs. This updated wool rug by Karastan is equally at home in the 20th Century living room, as is the classic furniture.

INSIDE YOUR HOME

By CAROLYN S. MURRAY

Most of us use the term Oriental rug to describe any elaborate overall design or repetitive design executed in traditional colors and patterns. But within that term Oriental is a whole world of design information.

There are easily 40 different kinds of Oriental rugs. They have one thing in common — they are usually handwoven or hand-knotted of wool or silk fibers. If you look up Oriental rugs in an encyclopedia of design you'll find six subheadings of Chinese, Caucasian, Indian, Persian, Turkoman and Turkish.

IF YOU READ about Persian rugs, you'll find additional categories such as Bijar, Feraghan, Hamadan, Kerman, Sarook. And each of these types has a character of its own, although the motifs found in Persians reflect an interest in birds, gardens, animals, vines and flowers. These themes are arranged around a main central medallion.

Colors are delicate in the Kermans, while Sarooks mix stronger colors with the pastel tones. And there are more types of Persians than mentioned here. So you can see how generic and unspecific the word Oriental is when it comes to describing a rug.

Originally the place names became attached to designs that were made or shipped from an area of the world. Now we merely repeat the design name, although copies of Oriental rug motifs continue to be made hundreds and thousands of miles away from the original source.

One American company, Karastan Mills, has consistently tried to maintain quality design and materials in their contemporary Oriental rugs. Yet they continued to add 20th-Century colorations and wearability factors to the basic design concept. The rug illustrated today is an example. Karastan calls this "Ivory Bokhara," and it's worked in the finest imported worsted wools. The pattern of stylized octagons is framed with a series of geometric-designed borders. Traditionally, the number of borders determined the value of the rug.

THE BOKHARA category appears in your design dictionary under the general group of Turkomans. They were rugs woven by the nomadic tribes of Afghanistan, Baluchistan and Turkestan and have distinctive geometric designs. While most Bokharas revolve around red values, this interpretation by Karastan has a clear ivory background and rich wine-red border — a pleasing balance of color for an eclectic American environment.

A Morale Builder

A good morale builder for a sick little girl is to arrange her hair in a glamorous way perhaps adding a fresh ribbon. She may also feel a lot happier if allowed to wear one of mommy's pretty bed jackets.

New Concept In Home Sewing

A new concept for home sewing, the manufacturer calls this roll of tape, 10 yards long, ¾ inch wide and of a supple textile more like cloth than paper. The tape is vertically marked and invisibly perforated along the vertical lines, to serve as an adjustable guide to flawless topstitching. The horizontal markings are for measuring.

On the back the tape is adhesive so it sticks firmly to the garment fabric while doing its several jobs. Then, it can be peeled off with one quick motion.

The new tape helps guide every kind of topstitching, functional or decorative, including parallel rows, curves and zipper stitching. The width of the tape can be narrowed by pulling off one, two, three or four strips at the perforations.

New Length For Evening Clothes

Watch for a "new" length to evening clothes for the spring and summer season. Actually, it's a familiar length that's been in and out of fashion for decades.

It's the nearly-to-ankle length and almost every designer of note on the New York scene uses it in glamor gowns for evening. If you don't want to display ankles, there still are plenty of to-the-floor numbers.

A Safety Tip

Before cleaning the face of an electric clock, disconnect the clock as a safety measure. Move both hands to 12 o'clock to expose maximum surface, then wipe face, hands and any glass door with a sponge wrung out of thick suds.

Put Gerber Convention To Use After North's Two-No Opener

Most bridge players know about the Blackwood Convention, which uses a jump to four notrump to ask partner to show how many aces he has. The Gerber Convention, which uses a jump to four clubs for excatly the same purpose, is especially useful if partner's previous bid is one or two notrump. Named after John Gerber, of Houston, for many years one of the great bridge players of the world, the convention is illustrated in today's hand.

GOOD BALANCE

North's opening bid of two notrump promises balanced distribution, strength in all four suits and a count of 22 to 24 points in high cards. South would issue a general invitation to slam if he had 9 or 10 points, by bidding four notrump. This would invite North to go on with 24 points, to pass with 22 points and to use his judgment with 23 points.

With the actual hand, South is interested only in how many aces his partner has. He jumps to four clubs, using the Gerber Convention.

DIAMOND RESPONSE

North is supposed to respond four diamonds with no aces or with all four; four hearts, with one ace; four spades, with two aces; four no-trump with three aces.

North obediently bids four diamonds to show his four aces, and South jumps at once to a grand slam in hearts. North is tempted to bid seven no-trump to score the honors, but he resists temptation.

TRUMP COUP

Declarer wins the first trick with the ace of spades and should immediately ruff a low spade. South then cashes the king and ace of hearts in that order.

West's discard discloses the bad news, and South ruffs another spade to reduce to the same number of trumps as that held by East. Declarer next cashes the queen of clubs and leads a diamond to dummy.

GOOD CLUBS

South continues with dummy's good clubs, discarding diamonds from his hand. If East ruffs, South overruffs and draws the last trump; if East discards, South throws all of his diamonds and then any lead from dummy puts East's trumps in the middle. South would be unable to produce this position if he had not "wasted" two of his trumps.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with two notrump (22 to 24 points), and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - K 8 7 4
♡ - J 7 6 2
◇ - 6
♣ - 10 9 7 5.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid three clubs, the Staymen Convention, asking partner to bid a major suit of four or more cards. If he does, you will raise his suit to game; if he bids three diamonds (denying a major), you will bid three no-trump.

First Challenge In 34 Years To Span's Insurance Brokers

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

A committee of Golden Gate Bridge District directors, frustrated by an accelerating decline in insurance coverage on the span, recommended unanimously yesterday that another broker be given a crack at the job.

It was the first challenge in 34 years to the district's insurance broker, Marsh and McLennan Inc.

At immediate issue was some $200,000 a year in premiums for disaster coverage. Other policies bring the district's total premiums to well over $500,000 a year.

With the replacement cost of the bridge at $200 million, disaster insurance now covers less than 16 per cent of the cost in event of total loss in an earthquake, or $32 million. Only four years ago, coverage was at $55 million.

Marsh and McLennan's senior vice president, J.B. Wright, blamed the falling coverage on a jittery worldwide insurance industry. with more and more companies declining to cover high risks.

A rival broker, however, Bayly, Martin and Fay Inc., convinced the committee that it at least could stem the loss of coverage by overhauling the district's insurancepolicies.

Wright warned that changing brokers could cause some insurers to cancel their coverage of the bridge, but then acknowledged that companies he had in mind probably were going to cancel their coverage anyway.

The district's insurance consultant, Donn P. McVeigh, won committee endorsement of his recommendation that Marsh and McLennan and Bayly, Martin and Fay be the district's joint brokers. This would give the district the strengths of both firms, he said, and protect against the remote chance that Wright was right when he predicted a complete change of brokers would cause cancellation of some coverage.

Director Dean N. Meyer of Mill Valley, however, added a condition to the committee's action that would designate Bayly, Martin and Fay as "team captain" of the joint brokerage.

How this joint effort would work out was unclear in light of Wright's comment before the committee vote that his firm did not "particularly want to dilute our income."

Another indication of rocky relations was evident in comments by Samuel Alcorn, vice president of Bayly, Martin and Fay. He said a joint brokerage "would necessitate a change in personnel at Marsh and McLennan." He also criticized "the rigidity of position of the current broker," a remark apparently aimed at Wright.

McVeigh added that the present insurance plan under Wright was "intolerable. It's not acceptable at all. It's an awful lot of premium going out for nothing."

McVeigh stressed that while there was no way to insurance against total loss of the bridge, federal disaster funds probably would be available in such a case.

He also noted that if the district had accumulated a special self-insurance fund instead of paying premiums for disaster insurance, it would have had by now a fund large enough to handle all but major losses.

Previous challenges to Marsh and McLennan have been summarily rejected by the committee in past years when coverage was higher.

The committee's recommendation will go to the full board on Dec. 10.

Judge Supports CRLA In Halt Of New Hirings

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The state and federal government have been temporarily enjoined from any new hirings under the Emergency Employment Act until plans are developed for bringing migrant farm workers into the program.

The action was taken Monday by Federal Judge Thomas McBride in issuing a temporary restraining order against the U.S. Labor Department and the state in a suit filed by California Rural Legal Assistance (CRLA).

In the suit filed last Tuesday in U.S. District Court, seven Mexican-American farm workers claimed they were excluded from hiring under the $1 billion program because the jobs require education, experience and language abilities they do not have.

The court found the act was intended to grant preference in hiring to certain disadvantaged persons, including migrant farm workers, and ordered the state and federal government to develop the necessary plan.

TAIPEI (UPI)—A spokesman for China Airlines (CAL) said today debris from its Caraville jetliner which crashed Saturday night with the loss of 25 lives has washed ashore on a tiny island in the Pescadores.

Airline investigators said they believe the plane blew up in the air, substantiating eyewitness reports earlier from villagers living on the small island of Wang An, 20 miles south of Makung.

The CAL spokesman said the villagers found paper cups bearing the insignia of CAL, several sweaters and many pieces of airline metal which had washed ashore. The plane was bound from Taipei to Hong kong.

Steps Taken For Library Expansion

The San Rafael Library board last night authorized chairman Ella May Minneman to seek a joint meeting with the city council on Dec. 13 to discuss library expansion, with the possibility of placing a bond issue on next June's primary election ballot.

The council also will be presented a proposal by Andrew James Ring III and Tak Enomoto, San Rafael architects, for pre-bond-election design work on expansion of the library at Fifth Avenue and E Street. Ring and Enomoto last night outlined work they would undertake for a fee of $7,000, which would include design and cost estimate.

The work would be predicated on inspection by a structural engineer of the soundness of the old Carnegie Library, which the architects hope to incorporate into a new building more than doubling the available space. A preliminary inspection in 1968 by engineer Robert W. Copple disclosed no major structural defect.

Ring and Eonomoto said they could complete the design and estimate within three months of receiving a go-ahead from the council.

The board was informed that Neil Schwed, self-employed insurance man of 127 Surrey Lane, and R. M. Mertz, Pacific Gas and Electric Co. executive of 283 Mountain View Avenue, have applied for the vacancy on the board left by resignation of Hanlon P. Tharp. No action was taken on an endorsement pending receipt of more applications.

Mrs. Minneman announced that Mrs. Eleanor G. Murray, longtime library board chairman, has agreed to serve as honorary chairman of a Friends of the Library organization. An open house to inaugurate the "Friends" program, which had been planned for Christmas holiday week, was postponed until an indefinite date in January because Mrs. Vivian Smith, head librarian, will be away on vacation during the holiday.

Greenbrae Service Plan Clears Hurdle

Formation of a special service area in Greenbrae cleared its first hurdle last night as the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission gave its approval.

The action came before a packed audience at Marin Civic Center. The crowd appeared to be split over imposing a tax rate to maintain landscaped street medians and neighborhood entrances.

According to Robert Peterson, the commission's executive officer, the vote to approve the service area came after lengthy discussion with some residents voicing opposition to another taxing agency.

The matter was to be forwarded to county supervisors who were to consider setting a public hearing date today. If letters of protest are received from at least 50 per cent of the homes in Greenbrae, the proposal automatically fails.

The issue would be forced to a vote if a petition signed by at least 10 per cent of Greenbrae's 2,036 registered voters is submitted at the public hearing.

The area proposed for inclusion in the service area would be north of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and between Manor Road on the west and Via La Cumbre on the east.

The Greenbrae Property Owners Association, which requested the formation, is handling landscaping maintenance, having assumed that responsibility from developer Neils J. Shultz Jr. about a year ago.

The cost of maintenance would be between $14,000 and $20,000 a year, which would mean a tax rate of between 12 and 18 cents per $100 assessed valuation if the service area is formed, Peterson said.

The commission also approved the annexation of the Paul Debes property, at the intersection of Los Ranchitos and Ranch roads, to Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District.

The area is composed of about seven acres.

2 Farm Groups Against Butz

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two farm organizations mounted lobbying campaigns today in an effort to block President Nixon's nomination of Purdue University Dean Earl L. Butz as the new Agriculture secretary.

The Senate Agriculture Committee voted 8-6 Monday to send the nomination to the Senate floor. The full Senate is not expected to vote until next week on the confirmation of Butz, 62, who once was an assistant to controversial Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson.

A National Farmers Organization (NFO) spokesman said NFO President Oren Lee Staley would visit the Capitol today to press his anti-Butz campaign in private interviews with several senators. The National Farmers Union (NFU), the other major farm group which announced opposition to Butz, said its grassroots units would be working on their home state senators.

Lortie was convicted on the kidnaping charge two months ago. He is to stand trial next month on a charge of noncapital murder in the death of LaPorte on Oct. 17, 1970.

In passing sentence, Mr. Justice Jean-Paul Bergeron said he did not impose the maximum sentence of life imprisonment because Lortie "rose above the laws of the jungle long enough to give aid to an injured kidnap victim."

Riles: Reading Tests Useless

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The statewide testing program for elementary and high school students has been described as "completely useless" by state schools chief Wilson Riles.

Riles said the reading tests given to first, second, and third grade students are not used to improve education.

"What use is it to give every child in the first grade and whatever grade, a reading test," Riles said, "and do nothing about the results?"

He told a conference of county school superintendents Monday the money spent on the tests could be better used improving other areas of education.

END OF THE LINE — An antique rail car follows a caboose over the Greenbrae Bridge toward its destination, a railroad car refurbishing company in Greenbrae. Yesterday's trip was one of the last two runs over the Sausalito rail line, which will be officially abandoned Thursday by Northwestern Pacific Railroad. (Independent-Journal photo by Bob Hax)

Sausalito's Railroad Era At End

By PAT ANGLE

Sausalito's colorful 96-year history as a "railroad town" ended abruptly this afternoon when the last Northwestern Pacific train, consisting of an engine and caboose, chugged into the bayside city, then out again.

The 7.2 mile rail line, the last in Southern Marin, will be officially abandoned Thanksgiving Day, according to R.A. Sederholm, public relations representative for Southern Pacific Railroad, of which Northwestern Pacific is a subsidiary.

Today's run was not an official one, according to Sederholm, but simply "some business the railroad has to take care of." The caboose which the engine will tow into Sausalito has been purchased by a Sausalito man, according to Sederholm, who was unable to name the buyer.

The final train was to leave Petaluma at noon, arriving in Sausalito between 1:30 and 2 p.m. to deposit the caboose, then leave again, for the last time.

The run marked the end of an era which began January 7, 1875, when passenger service to Sausalito was inaugurated by the North Pacific Coast Railroad which built the rail system through marin. The first freight — 300 sacks of potatoes — was shipped from Tomales to Sausalito by rail the same year.

In 1873 the Sausalito Land and Ferry Co. donated 30 acres along Richardson Bay as a depot site and by the end of 1874, Chinese laborers had placed North Pacific Coast track across the county.

The early trains connected with a ferry service between Sausalito and San Francisco, originally operated by the Sausalito Land and Ferry Co. and later by North Pacific Coast.

By the 1890s, North Pacific Coast had lines to West Marin, San Rafael, Corte Madera, Mill Valley and Alto, among others. Several Marin cities, including Larkspur, Kentfield, San Anselmo and Fairfax eventually grew up along the railroad right-of-way.

In the 1890s the railroad had 15 locomotives and 400 pieces of rolling stock running along its 81-miles stretch of track. But the line, plagued by a series of bad accidents and lawsuits merged in 1907 with the North Shore and San Francisco railroads to become the Northwestern Pacific Railroad.

Southern Pacific acquired Northwestern Pacific in 1929.

The railroad line to Sausalito, with the connecting ferry service to San Francisco, continued to grow during the next 30 years. But increased use of the automobile and the construction of the Golden Gate Bridge in 1937 lessened the popularity of ferries and trains among the county's commuters.

In 1941, NWP abandoned commuter train and ferry service and Sausalito's position as a major rail center declined rapidly. Since World War II, the line to Sausalito has been only a little-used spur track to deliver goods to the city's business firms.

Today's train will also be the last to pass through the Corte Madera tunnel, a Marin landmark which in earlier days divided Marin in the minds of its residents. In those days an individual either lived north or south of the tunnel, a designation often used to explain the location of a particular home or business.

The Northwestern Pacific line from San Rafael to Eureka will be the only major rail line left in Marin, Sederholm said.

Yesterday an enthusiastic group of Sausalito young people celebrated the city's next-to-last railroad run as an antique rail car, owned by actor Sterling Hayden's daughter Gretchen was towed to the D.B. Morgan Rail Car Co. in Greenbrae for major refurbishing.

The old executive car, originally built in 1893 by the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad, was purchased by Hayden from the railroad in 1966 and has reposed in Sausalito near the Tiki Junction since that tiem.

It is currently used as an office by a friend of Miss Hayden's, Peter Laufer, a news reporter for KSAN FM Radio in San Francisco. After the car is refurbished, with the brakes repacked and new airhoses installed, Laufer said he hopes to find another location for it, somewhere in Marin.

Yesterday, the spirits flowed freely as Laufer, Miss Hayden and about a dozen of their friends gathered aboard the brass and polished wood car to await an engine and caboose from the San Rafael NWP depot.

The engine & caboose arrived about 3:40 p.m., about an hour after they were due, in company of a box car it had picked up in northern Sausalito. It left minutes later for the trip to Greenbrae, spurred on by the shouts and applause of the small group gathered on the track.

Southern Pacific officials refused to allow the young people to make the semifinal trip on the Sausalito line, but Laufer sneaked aboard and made the 40-minute run locked in the car's porter's quarters peering out from behind the curtains and waving surreptitiously at friends who gathered along the track.

FINALE — The Corte Madera tunnel, a long-time Marin landmark, gets a final taste of the sights and sounds of a train traveling through it. On Thursday the tunnel will be abandoned by the railroad, along with 7.2 miles of track on its Sausalito line.

2nd Arrest In Grocer Slaying

Inspectors Jack Clear and Frank Falzon said they were in the Haight-Ashbury District when they spotted James Hayes, 18, for whom a warrant had been issued in the Oct. 27 slaying of John Eng, 54.

Hayes' brother, Delbert, 20, had been arrested earlier this month.

Eng's store was robbed of about $100.

Ecumenical Rites To Mark Marin's Thanksgiving Eve

The spirit of sharing will be keynoted again this Thanksgiving Eve and Thanksgiving Day in services throughout Marin.

In Terra Linda, 10 churches and synagogues will gather for their 11th annual ecumenical service at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Temple Rodef Sholom on North San Pedro Road.

INVESTING

A Good Growth Assured

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. We have recently become grandparents and would like to invest $1,000 as a nest egg for our granddaughter when she is 21. Could you give me a suggestion? R.F.

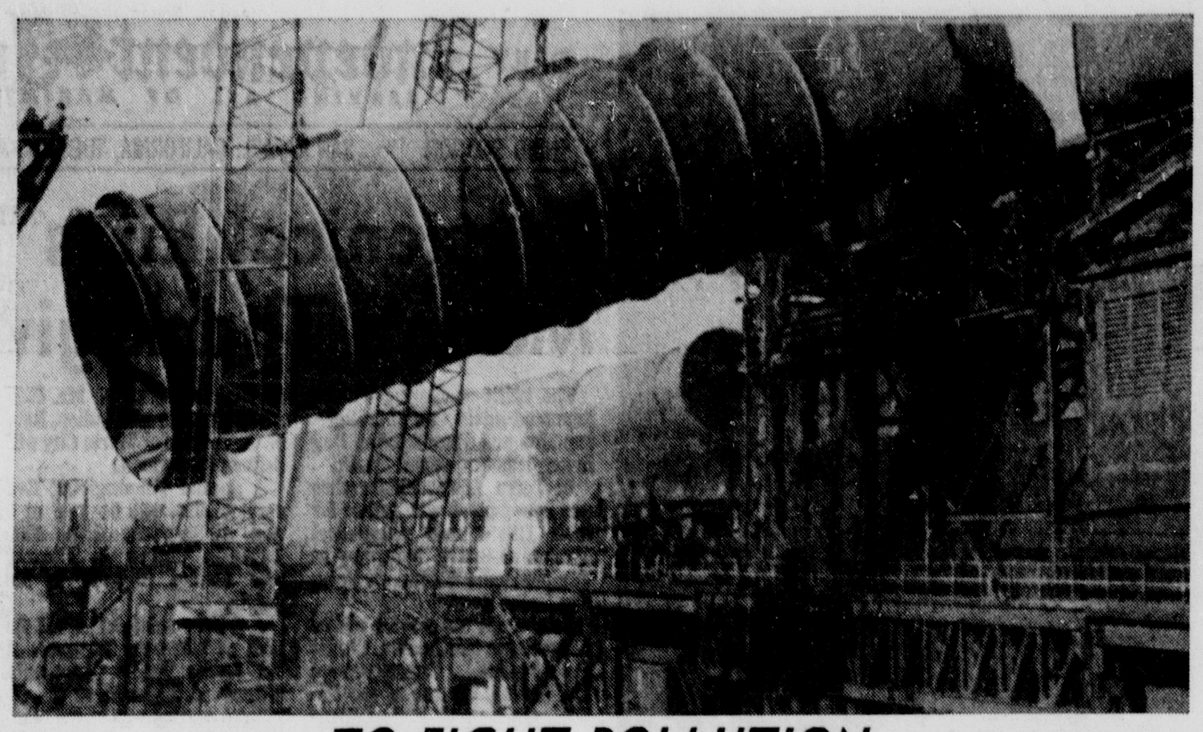
A. Your granddaughter is a very fortunate young lady to have such thoughtful grandparents. A long-term investment, such as you envision, should be in an issue which has exhibited strong past growth and the ability to adapt to changing trends. Health-Tex, founded in 1921, is such an issue. Company manufactures a well-known line of infant, toddler and childrens' clothing. Imaginative advertising has firmly established the brand name and more than 7,000 retailers handle the line.

Shares were offered to the public last April at 19½ and were listed on the Big Board in August. Earnings have increased annually at a healthy rate of 26 per cent compounded over the last 5 years. This rate was maintained in the first 9 months of 1971 when profits were $1.16 a share. Sales also made a record at $45.1 million, up 18 per cent year-to-year. Company has no long-term debt, current ratio is 3.6-to-1 and there are 4 million shares outstanding, 30 per cent closely held.

Q. I bought Morgage Associates (OTC) at $6, it is now $32. Please advise if company will continue to grow. — B.G.

A. While there is nothing negative in the corporate picture at present, I cannot state categorically that growth will continue at the same pace as in the past. Although mortgage loans had jumped 122 per cent to $52 million year-to-year, as of Apr. 30, 1971, notes payable by the company had increased only 68 per cent. Earnings for fiscal 1970-71, adjusted for a 100 per cent stock dividend payable Aug. 31, were 65 cents a share up from 30 cents. For the first quarter of the current fiscal year, net rose sharply to 54 cents a share versus 18 cents in the previous year. While shares command a high multiple, this has been justified by operating results. However, some near-term consolidation is probable.

Bottling spring water is a $100-million-a-year industry in the United States.



TO FIGHT POLLUTION

Engineers at the Bethlehem Steel Corp. at Bethlehem, Pa., install a 95-foot-long, 20-foot-in-diameter 45-ton emission control pipe to their electric furnaces. It is hoped that by passing the dust and fumes emitted from the plant through the pipe to a collection point, pollution levels will meet Pennsylvania's Air Control Act. (UPI Telephoto)

Building Permits In October On Decline

October building permits in Marin County totaled $4,286,624 — a drop of 28.4 per cent from the same month last year, according to figures from the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau.

The decline was 67.8 per cent when compared with the value of permits recorded in September of this year.

Novato accounted for $830,955, of which almost 90 per cent was for residential construction. San Rafael's $805,342 was two-thirds residential. The Tiburon peninsula showed permits totaling $513,050, about 54 per cent commercial.

Mill Valley's $249,741 was 69 per cent residential; Sausalito's $266,552 was 87 per cent residential, and Larkspur's $262,500 about two-thirds residential. In Corte Madera, residential and miscellaneous permits made up 62 per cent of the $202,450 total. San Anselmo had $88,534 — 70 per cent residential; Fairfax $55,175 — 64 per cent residential, and Ross $33,000, all for miscellaneous permits.

West Marin and other unincorporated areas not included in the communities above accounted for $734,935 — 79 per cent residential.

Total permits for the first 10 months of this year amounted to $81.4 million — up from $43.8 million last year for the same period.

Market In A Recoup Near Noon

NEW YORK (UPI) —The stock market recouped some of its early morning loss near noon today. Declines, however, still held a commanding lead on advances.

A variety of factors weighed on the list, including economic uncertainty, world currency problems, and selling for tax purposes. Analysts pointed out, however, that the entire situation was being compounded by fighting in Pakistan and the threat of a new outbreak in the Middle East.

On the Big Board, the day's most active issues were mostly in retreat, as more than twice as many issues declined as advanced, 49 to 327, among the 1,505 issues on the tape.

Among the day's most active issues were Jersey Standard off 7-8, Engelhard Minerals & Chemicals off 1 7-8, Union Carbide down 1-4, Polaroid 1 1-4 lower and Plessey unchanged.

Motors were mostly higher in fractions. Steels, airlines and aircrafts were narrowly mixed.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Through Neglect Thousands Lose Their Sight Because Of Cataracts

Cataract is a common cause of blindness, despite the fact that it is curable. In England, for example, one-third of the blind lost their sight because of neglect. The majority were elderly people who took the advice of untrained practitioners or pessimistic friends. They were encouraged to put off the operation or refused through fear, ignorance or fatalism. Cost is not a factor because England has socialized medicine.

This is a pity, yet these attitudes are understandable. The operation is only the first step of the procedure. As soon as the lens is removed the individual has entirely different vision in each eye. He is definitely blind in the operated orbit and without glasses may not see as well as he did before surgery. Most of the victims are worried about this but are apt to think that once the cataract has been removed their sight will again be as good as new.

SHORTLY AFTER surgery glasses are ordered. These thick "pebble" lenses are uncomfortable. At first, objects seem magnified and straight lines curved.

The vision is distorted and "squirmy." One authority likened it to "writhing snakes that never stay still." Meanwhile, when the other eye is treated the story repeats itself.

In time, the majority of people overcome these difficulties. They are able to drive a car, play golf, and live as they did before the opacities clouded the sight. Many get contact lenses that restore peripheral vision and allow them to have two eyes that work in unison.

NOW AND THEN the results of the operation are unfavorable because the eye surgeon does not know that behind the cataract is a degenerated retina that will prevent good vision regardless of surgery. Other complications may occur but the chances of a good result are excellent. We mention this because oldsters should not view the operation with fear and trepidation.

BLOOD CLOTTING TESTS

T.S.T. writes: Why must frequent blood tests be done when a person takes an anticoagulant after he has had a heart attack?

REPLY

Anticoagulant drugs prevent the blood from clotting. These tests ascertain whether too much of the drug has been taken so that the individual is in danger of bleeding.

NUMB AND SWOLLEN

D.B.W. writes: Could a weight gain of 20 pounds cause the ankles and feet to swell and feel numb and heavy?

REPLY

Yes, provided the gain in weight stems from fluid that has settled in the ankles and feet. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on edema of the legs and feet.

IT STARTS EARLY

REPLY

TENDER SOLES

T.R.D. writes: Is there any way to toughen tender soles?

REPLY

The soles are toughened by use in much the same way as the palms get thicker and calused by working with the hands. Soaking the feet in brine may help.

Judge Will Remain On Magee Case

Judge Leonard M. Ginsburg of Tulare County Superior Court said yesterday he wouldn't disqualify himself from a hearing to determine whether San Quentin inmate Ruchell Magee was illegally imprisoned in 1963.

Ginsburg, scheduled to hear Magee's challenge in Marin Superior Court, filed papers denying Magee's claims he is prejudiced. He said he could give Magee a fair hearing.

Magee has repeatedly attacked his conviction for robbery-kidnapping in Los Angeles in 1963, and a subsequent retrial in the case two years later.

Artist Picked To Lead Board

NEW YORK (UPI) — A 60-year-old Puerto Rican artist and writer who never went to college was elected Monday as the chairman of the city Board of Higher Education, the governing body of the 200,000-student City University of New York (CUNY).

Luis Quero Chiesa, who came to New York in 1929, will serve until May, filling out the unexpired term of Frederick H. Burkhardt. Burkhardt announced his resignation as head of the 21-member board two months ago.

Quero Chiesa, a native of Ponce, was appointed to the board in 1964 as its first Puerto Rican member. His paintings have been shown as part of a traveling exhibit on American art and he is also know for his short stories.

Fifer Park Owner Sells; $1 Million

The sale of Nellen Lands Inc., owner of Fifer Industrial Park in Corte Madera, for approximately $1 million has been reported by a San Francisco real estate firm.

Merritt Sher of Terranomics Corp. said his office, in conjunction with Graham Harris, another San Francisco real estate broker, negotiated the sale about two weeks ago to Western Real Estate Development Corp., a group of San Francisco investors. He said Western plans to make the Nellen properties available for sale, lease or development through his office.

Nellen Lands, also an investment group, earlier had acquired Fifer Industrial Park from the Fifer family. The property now owned by Western covers about 10 acres between Lucky Drive and Highway 101 and the southwest corner of Tamal Vista and Lucky drives. It was described by Sehr as including some commercial property now under short-term lease, 213,000 square feet of undeveloped commercial land and 65,000 square feet of industrial property.

He said Western has also acquired 60,000 square-feet of residential property south of Corte Madera Creek in another transaction.

Glen Camp, one of the back country camps at Point Reyes National Seashore, will be closed from January through March, park superintendent John L. Sansing said.

The closure will permit reseeding and rehabilitation of the camp.

Wildcat Group Camp will be opened for use by families and individuals while Glen Camp is closed. Reservations may be made by telephoning seashore headquarters. A camping permit is required.

S. Viets Hit Hanoi Premier

PARIS (UPI) —South Vietnam's peace negotiating team today criticized Premier Pham Van Dong of North Vietnam for his statement in Peking that Hanoi will fight against the allies "until complete victory."

In a press statement the Saigon delegation said President Nguyen Van Thieu's regime has always sought direct talks with the North with a view of finding a solution to the conflict on the basis of the South Vietnamese people's selfdetermination.

"The Hanoi and Peking leaders speak all the time about pursuing the war until a total victory, unless the South Vietnamese, Laotian and Cambodian people purely and simply capitulate," it said.

Dental Aide Program Urged

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—California dentists have been urged to help meet the increasing demand for dental services by setting up a program using specially trained assistants.

Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke told the annual alumni meeting of the University of Pacific School of Dentistry Sunday that such unlicensed assistants "would perform many of the menial tasks which today require the time of the professional dentists."

"If a national health plan goes into effect ... and that appears quite possible ... then more people will be seeking dental services than ever before, he said.

Thieves Take Picasso Oil

PARIS (UPI)—Two thieves smashed the window of a Paris art gallery today and fled with a Picasso painting valued at $270,000, police reported.

They said the painting by the 90 year-old master was the "Head of a Harlequin", a painting on wood dating from Picasso's "Rose Period" in 1905.

They said an American industrialist, Heinz Berggruen, who lives some of the time in Paris, had loaned the painting to Knoedler Art Gallery as part of a current Picasso show there.

Auto Protection Bill Signed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Consumer legislation designed to protect the California car owner against an auto repair dealer who gouges him for an overhaul but only replaces his spark plugs has been signed by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Crooked dealers could be put out of business and in jail under the bill, which Reagan said was "the toughest and most significant consumer protection legislation of the year in California."

The measure's author, Sen. Anthony Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, said, "Almost every car owner has been the victim of fraudulent auto repair practices. The new law will finally give the victimized motorist an effective means of redress."

In signing the bill Monday, Reagan declared that it was "aimed at cracking down on a certain irresponsible segment of the auto repair industry which persists in using dishonest and unethical operating methods."

The legislation protects motorists against fraud by requiring state licensing of the some 40,000 dealers in the $2.5 billion-a-year California car repair business.

Dishonest dealers could lose their licenses, be fined up to $1,000 and sentenced to up to six months in jail.

In his statement, Reagan said that an "increasing number of complaints" have been received about the car repair business. He said that fraudulent practices were not only harmful to consumers but also to the industry.

According to Beilenson, estimates of the amount swindled annually from car owners by mechanics range from $250 million to as high as $1.5 billion.

No standards are set for licensing under the bill, but it applies virtually to every dealer—from the mechanic who runs a one-man shop to big new car dealers.

Mechanics employed by dealers would not be licensed.

The measure establishes within the Department of Consumer Affairs a watchdog Bureau of Automotive Repairs. The bureau would license dealers, including most gas stations, investigate complaints and make spot checks. The bureau would be similar to one which now regulates television repair dealers.

The cost of the license would range from $25 to $50 and would finance the operations of the bureau.

After next July 1, it would be illegal to be an auto repair dealer without being licensed.

Licenses could be revoked or suspended for fraud, negligence, making false promises to induce a customer to have his car repaired and "any willful departure from or disregard of accepted trade standards for good and workmanlike repair."

The bill also requires that:

—Dealers must give the customer a signed estimate of the cost of the repairs and notify the owner if the repairs will go over that amount.

—Customers must sign a work order authorizing repairs before they may begin.

—Defective parts which have been replaced must be made available to the customer.

—Dealers must post in a conspicuous place a sign saying that complaints may be made to the Bureau of Automotive Repairs and giving the bureau's telephone number.

This was the third straight year Beilenson has carried auto repair legislation and the eighth consecutive year that the subject has been before the legislature.

Reagan's Legislative Scolding Is Countered From Both Aisles

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan's scolding of the legislature for meeting too long and spending too much taxpayers' money drew angry fire from Democrats today and concurrence from Republicans.

"There's no question that the legislature could have been out of here a long time ago," agreed Assembly Republican leader Robert T. Monagan of Tracy.

Monagan said he will push legislation next year to limit the length of legislative sessions and permit bills to stay alive for two years, as in Congress.

The Democratic-controlled legislature has broken all longevity records and today marked the 324th calendar day of its session. It already had spent $20 million through October and each day it continues to meet costs an extra $11,000 just for such items as expense allowances, printing and clerical help.

Reagan told reporters at a news conference Monday that "something must be done because I think this is disgraceful."

"I think Ronald Reagan is disgraceful," snapped Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, when informed by a newsman of Reagan's remarks. "He's never been willing to govern this state since he has been governor."

Senate Democratic leader George R. Moscone of San Francisco said "the reason we've been here this long is that Republicans refuse to consider an issue on its merits, but feel they first much check it out with the governor.

GOV. RONALD REAGAN
Meets the press

"If the governor would get out of the legislature we could get our work done much faster."

Republican Sen. H. L. Richardson of Arcadia characterized the 1971 session as "pretty much of a flop" and added "we've spent a lot of money, we've increased taxes. By and large I think we've gotten in the way of people rather substantially."

The Legislature's No. 1 accomplishment this year generally is regarded to be an overhaul of the welfare and Medi-Cal health care acts. The "reform" measures were negotiated between Reagan and Democratic legislators in August.

Since that time the legislature has been attempting to compromise on a tax bill and reapportionment plans for legislative and congressional districts.

It gave up several weeks ago trying to pass a major property tax relief program, but now apparently is near agreement on a half-billion-dollar tax increase designed primarily to balance the $6.8 billion state budget.

"Everything that had to be done in this legislative session could have been done ... and they could have been out of here by the end of June or early July," Reagan told newsmen. "I think that there has been footdragging on the part of the leadership of the majority party. And that includes in some instances chairmen of committees.

"I just say there was no need whatsoever for this session to drag on."

Reagan said Republicans are blameless because Democrats control both houses.

Reagan also said there are "legitimate complaints" about the Senate reapportionment plan, which has passed the upper house, but declined to predict whether he will veto it if the measure is sent to him by the full Legislature.

"I am opposed to gerrymanders whether they are Republican or Democrat," Reagan said.

"The people have a right to believe that when a reapportionment comes along it will be based on what is the best representation for the people, not creating a lot of districts that look like skinny octopuses with long sharp fingernails. Or is it octopi?"

One-Liner By Agnew Is Defended

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan has defended as merely a humorous "one-liner" Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's controversial remark about Rep. Paul N. McCloskey, R-Calif., and Benedict Arnold.

"I don't think there was anything in bad taste or wrong about it at all," Reagan told reporters Monday at a news conference.

Agnew, addressing the Republican Governors' Conference last Thursday in French Lick, Ind., said McCloskey was going so broke running for President he was auctioning off his art collection—including "his favorite painting: Benedict Arnold crossing the Delaware."

Agnew's joke was greeted by the GOP governors with scattered chuckles and then silence.

Benedict Arnold was an American traitor during the Revolutionary War. McCloskey, a highly decorated hero of the Korean War, is an outspoken critic of President Nixon's Vietnam policies and is challenging him for renomination.

Reagan, an outspoken orator himself, said he has "a couple of letters" on his own desk about "one-liners I've used in some political speeches.

"I think that it is nitpicking and it always seems to be onesided nitpicking—always aimed at one particular party."

Reagan said Agnew made his "humorous remark" during a series of "one-liners on political matters about potential opponents ... and he was getting pretty good laughs, too."

Asked whether he regarded the remark as funny, Reagan replied: "Yeah, I laughed."

Reagan reiterated that "I think Ted Agnew has been a great vice president and I am one who believes that Ted Agnew should be on the ticket" again next year as Nixon's running mate.

Reagan said "the President has a very large voice in choosing his running mate (but) that doesn't preclude people in his party (from) giving him counsel, and even pressing for some other candidate."

BAGLEY VOTES APPROVAL

'Forgotten Farm Labor' Bill On Governor's Desk

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The legislature has passed and sent to Gov. Ronald Reagan a long-embattled proposal to include an estimated 250,000 "forgotten" California farm laborers in unemployment insurance coverage.

The bill was sent to Reagan yesterday along with a labor-supported package to dramatically increase workmen's compensation benefits and an employer-backed bill to reduce an injured worker's power to sue.

The farm labor legislation by Assemblyman Jack Fenton, D-Montebello, cleared the Assembly without a vote to spare (41-25) on a roll call that fell generally along party lines. There was no debate.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, was among five Republicans voting for the bills.

Under the legislation, an unemployed farm worker could receive a maximum $65 a week for up to 26 weeks, the same as a jobless worker in industry. Fenton also is carrying a separate bill to raise the maximum payment to $75 a week. Unemployment insurance is employer-paid.

DISEASE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Assembly has voted final legislative approval to a bill earmarking $800,000 for the support of services to children afflicted with deadly hyaline membrane disease.

The measure by Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-San Jose, was approved on a 56-4 vote and sent to Gov. Ronald Reagan. It originally carried a $3 million appropriation but was trimmed to $800,000 in the Senate.

Aides to Vasconcellos said the disease attacks the lungs of infants and kills half of its victims through suffocation. It often leads to permanent brain damage among suvivors, they said.

40 Die In Bus Crash

FIREMEN'S PAY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate has passed legislation appropriating $1.6 million from any tax increase enacted this year to boost the pay of state fire fighters by 6 per cent.

The measure by Sen. Donald L. Grunsky, R-Watsonville, was sent to the Assembly Monday on a 28-6 vote.

HORROR TOYS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Assembly has given final legislative passage to a bill banning the manufacture and sale of horror or torture toys in California beginning July 1.

The measure by Assemblyman John Burton, D-San Francisco, was sent to Gov. Ronald Reagan Monday on a 45-8 vote on major Senate amandments.

The bill originally banned the sale of war toys, but the Senate amendments narrowed the bill to outlaw only toys resembling a bomb or grenade. The bill also bans toys designed to depict torture.

Mao, Pham Van Dong Meet In Peking

HONG KONG (UPI)—Chairman Mao Tse-tung of the People's Republic of China conferred with North Vietnamese Premier Pham Van Dong Monday, the New China News Agency (NCNA) said today.

Chairman Mao shook hands with the North Vietnamese delegation to Peking and had his photograph taken with them at the reception hall in Peking, NCNA said.

Brown Takes Role In Muskie Drive

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI)—Former California Gov. Edmund G. "Pat" Brown will be cochairman for the western states of the presidential campaign for Sen. Edmund Muskie.

Brown announced his acceptance of the post Monday, urging Muskie to "announce his availability" and calling the Maine Democrat "the only man ... who can win in '72."

EQUAL BILLING

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation to give women equal billing with men in school textbooks adopted by the state for use by public school children has been approved by the Senate.

The measure by Assemblyman Bill Greene, D-Los Angeles, passed the upper house Monday on a 22-9 vote and was returned to the Assembly for amendment concurrence.

It specifically directs that the texts provide "accurate portrayals" of women in all types of roles in daily life.

JAIL BILL

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill requiring judges sentencing a person for a felony to count the time he has spent in jail prior to and during his trial reached Gov. Ronald Reagan today.

The measure by Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, was approved by the Assembly Monday on a 42-2 vote.

Currently, a judge may consider the time spent in jail before sentencing — called "dead time" — when passing sentence, but does not have to credit him for the time already served.

BAGLEY MEASURE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation exempting candy and gum from the state sales tax, but extending the tax to all hot foods sold in restaurants, has been given final legislative passage by the Assembly.

The measure, which also makes adjustments on motor vehicle use taxes and state gift taxes, would net the state $15.7 million next year. The Assembly voted concurrence 47-14 in Senate amendments Monday.

The bill by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, taxes all hot food regardless of where it is eaten. Currently, hot foods are not subject to the 5 per cent sales tax unless they are eaten on the premises of the restaurant.

The state would lose $18 million a year by exempting candy from the sales tax, beginning Jan. 1, but the loss would be offset by a $23.4 million increase in the tax on restaurant foods.

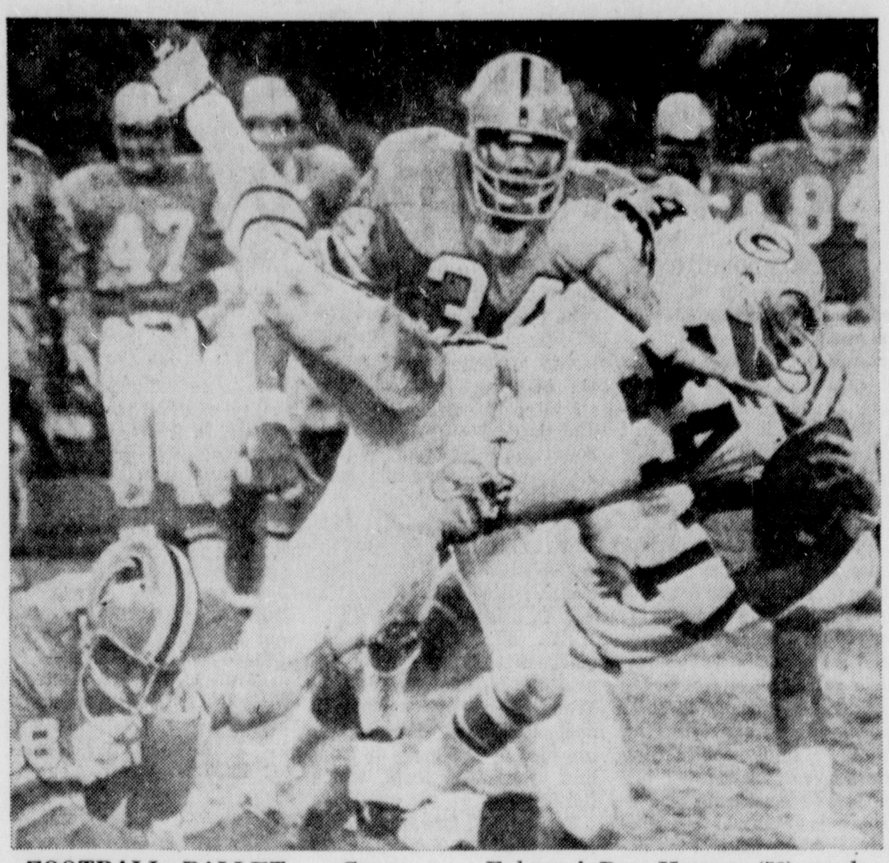
Atlanta 'Outhits' Green Bay, Triumphs 28-21



FOOTBALL BALLET — Green Bay Packer running back Donnie Anderson (44) balanced gracefully before crashing to the ground last night against Atlanta. The Falcons' Don Hansen (58) made the tackle while Falcon safety Ray Brown (34) and Green Bay tackle Francis Peay (71) looked on. Atlanta won, 28-21. (UPI Telephoto)

ATLANTA (UPI) — If anyone doubts that the six-year-old Atlanta Falcons have come of age, check with Green Bay coach Dan Devine.

"The Falcons are tougher than we are physically, that's very obvious," Devine said after Atlanta dominated the Packers far more completely than its 28-21 Monday night victory indicated.

Statistics prove Devine's point.

The Falcons, led by quarterback Bob Berry who completed 16 of 21 passes in his first start in five weeks, outgained the Packers 386 yards to 143 and had a 27-7 edge in first downs.

"If we're hitting people we can beat anyone," said Falcons coach Norm Van Brocklin. "We gave them two of their three touchdowns."

The Falcons drove 82, 53 and 70 yards the first three times they had the ball but were leading only 12-7 after that span. Drives one and three resulted in touchdowns but No. 2 backfired wmen Bob Brown blocked a Bill Bell field goal try and Doug Hart ran 57 yards to score for the Packers.

The Packers, completing their only sustained drive of the entire game with a 14-yard Scott Hunter-to-Donnie Anderson pass, scored 3:27 before halftime and, although outgained 210-91 at that point, led 14-12 at half time.

"Things broke down at the start of the second half," said Devine, referring to Jim Butler's 82-yard kickoff return that set up the Falcons' third touchdown and the Packers' inability to make a first down after getting a second-and-one at their own 46.

"Those were probably the key plays that beat us," said Devine, "I don't know what would have happened if we had gotten that first down — but I sure would like to have had the opportunity to find out."

The Falcons drove 69 yards the next time they got the ball but lost it via a fumble at the Green Bay 21. That delayed them momentarily but they were on the move again moments later after Ken Reaves' intercepted a Hunter pass and when Art Malone scored his second touchdown with 11:43 left in the game, Atlanta went ahead 26-14.

Green Bay closed the gap with 5:58 left when John Brockington ran 24 yards the play after the Packers recovered another Falcon fumble. But the Packers only had the ball one play after that — and that play cost them two points.

The win gives Atlanta, which has now won four of its last five (losing in the final seconds last week to the Naw York Giants) a 5-4-1 record and puts the Falcons one game behind pacesetting Los Angeles (6-3-1) and a half game behind runnerup San Francisco (6-4-0) in the NFC west.

"We're still very much in this thing," said Atlanta defensive end John Zook who helped hobble Green Bay quarterback Scott Hunter Monday night. "But we're going to have to worry about our own games instead of someone else's.

"We're going into the stretch against Minnesota, Oakland and San Francisco and you can't worry about what some other team is doing when you play teams like those."

Zook and his teammates threw Hunter for losses five times — equalling the total times he had been previously dumped all season. With that kind of rush, the rookie from Alabama completed only three of the eight passes he did get away.

"We knew we could rush Hunter if we took the runaway and that's what we did," said Zook.

Hunter's final indignity came in the final minute of play when, after Billy Lothridge had punted out of bounds on the Green Bay one, Zook and company ran the young quarterback clean out of the end zone for a safety.

"That was just another example of Atlanta's toughness," said Devine. "You can't play in this league without toughness and Van Brocklin has weeded his people out."

Must Win Final 4 49er Pair Agree

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Jimmy Johnson and Doug Cunningham are on opposite sides of the fence when it comes to defense and offense, but the two 49ers were in complete agreement on one major point yesterday — the 49ers must win all four remaining games to have any title chance.

SPEAKING BEFORE the Marin Chapter, 49er Goal Rushers at Holiday Inn, the two 49ers said it will take victories over New York Jets, Kansas City, Atlanta and Detroit. The Rams, leading the Niners by a half-game after Sunday's 17-6 triumph, must lose a game, also, for S.F. to repeat as National Football Conference western champs.

When someone asked how the loss to the Rams affected team morale, Johnson, the team's all-star cornerback, said, "A lot of us will be down today, feeling low, but after we see the films Tuesday we'll be through with the Ram game." The team's thoughts will then switch to the Jets and winning, he said.

Some of the questions from the boosters group yesterday were centered around the officiating in the Ram game and the two players, showing they were veterans to the question and answer game as well as the kind on the field, neatly sidestepped most of them. NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle has been known to throw out a few fines when players or coaches openly criticize his faultless boys in stripes.

JOHNSON EXPLAINED that a lot of the penalties are "judgment calls" by officials and nothing can be done about it.

Johnson, as he did in the Ram game, will be playing the rest of the season with his right wrist in a cast. He broke it during the New Orleans game the week before but it takes more than broken bones to stop some players — exactly what I don't know.

Johnson explained he'll play the rest of the season with his broken wrist, without any chance of it healing until the season is over when he can rest it in a plaster cast. He's now playing with a special cast, and although the crack won't widen, it won't mend either.

PAIN? YOU KNOW it. "I took two pain killer pills before the game and three more at halftime," he said.

Cunningham said the reason he was playing more in the Ram game was because regular halfback Vic Washington was coming up with leg cramps and as the offensive players before him, Cunningham was asked about the 49ers' ability to rack up yardage but failure to score touchdowns.

"Bad breaks," he said. "When we get to the 20 we have a pass intercepted or we fumble."

When asked what plays he runs best, Cunningham, who carries the nickname "Goober," laughed, "The plays I run best are the ones in which I get good blocking."

JOHNSON TOLD the boosters that he feels there will be more scrambling quarterbacks in the NFL. As a defensive back, Johnson said the scramblers are much harder to defend because the back has to watch both the receiver when he cuts and the quarterback, not knowing whether he's passing or scrambling. If the quarterback scrambles long enough, the receiver will eventually get himself open, he said. "The quarterbacks nowadays are getting like linemen — 6-3 or 6-4. I think the draft system will go toward big, scrambling quarterbacks."

Johnson, an 11-year pro and No. 1 49er draft choice out of UCLA, is a brother of former Olympic decathlon champion Rafer Johnson. He has been selected All-Pro the past two years. Cunningham is a five-year pro, a No. 6 49er draft pick out of University of Mississippi who was a starter the last two years before Vic Washington came on the scene.

Chambliss Named A.L.'s Top Rookie

NEW YORK (UPI)—Chris Chambliss won his second consecutive Rookie of the Year Award Monday when the hard-hitting Cleveland first baseman collected 11 of the 24 votes cast by sports writers in American League cities.

Chambliss, last year's top rookie in the American Association where he batted .342 for Wichita, received six more votes than his nearest competitor, Milwaukee Brewer pitcher Bill Parsons, in the balloting for the best first-year man in the American League.

OTHER VOTES

Third in the judgement of the sports writers was Oakland Athletic outfielder Angel Mangual with four votes, followed by Boston Red Sox second baseman Doug Griffin with three. Paul Splittorff was the only other player to receive consideration but the Kansas City Royal southpaw received only one vote.

Chambliss joined the Indians on May 17 from Wichita and wound up the season with a .275 average, nine home runs and 48 RBI. His efforts were not enough to help Cleveland out of the AL Eastern Division cellar, however, but they were good enough to make him the first first-baseman since Walt Dropo of Boston in 1950 to be named the top rookie.

SECOND INDIAN

Chambliss, a month shy of his 23rd birthday, is also only the second Cleveland player to win the award in its 25-year history. Herb Score won the award in 1955.

SVARE NAMED

Chargers Lose Gillman

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)—Sid Gillman's "lifetime contract" with the National Football League San Diego Chargers has expired unexpectedly.

The veteran coach resigned Monday after a disagreement with club president Eugene V. Klein.

First year general manager Harland Svare, who played under Gillman with the Los Angeles Rams, became an interim head coach for the second time in his career.

The three appeared separately at a news conference and the disagreement seemed to concern whether to play out the string or look forward to next year with quarterback John Hadl, an innocent bystander, seeing less action.

Klein five years ago tore up Gillman's contract and gave him a new and better one, to expire at the end of this season.

"There was no such thing as a deadline," Klein said. "I trust Sid did not feel he was under the gun."

"Mr. Klein always told me I had a lifetime contract, so I never bothered to talk contract with him," Gillman said, "But with the countdown getting near, I finally decided this morning to get with him and talk contract."

Both said the meeting was cordial, friendly and businesslike, but ended in a way neither fully expected.

"I had no idea I'd be looking for a new coach until 10:30 this morning," Klein said.

According to Gillman, Klein said he would not make an evaluation until the end of the year and ordered him to "scrap some football players and take a look at some new ones."

"I'm a coach," Gillmans said. "I couldn't accept being told I'm going to put Hadl aside or this guy aside. That kind of brought it to a head."

Both consider Hadl one of the game's great quarterbacks, but the disagreement was how to use him the rest of the year. Both are men of conviction who are used to making decisions. Gillman resigned.

During Gillman's 11 years with the Chargers, one in Los Angeles and 10 in San Diego, the club compiled the fifth best record in pro football with 95 wins, 60 losses and nine ties, including a 4-6 mark this year.

Gillman retired as head coach after nine games in 1969 because of illness, and was replaced by Charlie Waller.

The Chargers have won five Western Division titles and one American Football League championship under Gillman, but he has not been popular with the fans in recent years because of a string of third place finishes.

Svare, who replaced Bob Waterfield as coach of the Los Angeles Rams in a similar situation in 1962, emphasized he is happy as general manager and has "no designs on being head coach." He said he plans no major changes as he has just been a fan in the stands this year and knows better than to second guess.

Waller and former Green Bay Packers mentor Phil Bengston are on the coaching staff, and Klein said he did not pick them for the interim assignment because he wants to leave the field wide open for next year for all candidates.

Klein said it was unfortunate the decision had to occur, but he must look to the future, which is roughly the same thing he said in appointing Gillman executive vice president earlier this year.

Pirates' Murtaugh Resigns

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Danny Murtaugh, who twice has managed the Pittsburgh Pirates to world Series victories, announced his retirement today and batting Coach Bill Virdon was named to succeed him.

Neither the retirement nor the replacement came as a surprise.

HEART TROUBLE

Murtaugh, 54, has a history of heart trouble that once before forced his retirement—only to have him return again at the start of the 1970 season—and Virdon had filled-in during the past two seasons when Murtaugh was temporarily sidelined due to illness.

Virdon, 40, was National League rookie-of-the-year in 1955 and played centerfield on Murtaugh's first world championship club in 1960. He batted .267 in an 11-year career.

BEST MANAGER

"I think Dan is the best manager in baseball and it's with extreme regret that he's leaving us," said General Manager Joe L. Brown. "But both Dan and I feel that Bill will take over where Dan left off last year."

Murtaugh said health factors were part of the reason he is not returning.

"Several events last year led me to believe I might run into some difficulties next year," he said.

HEALTH GOOD

"Although doctors have assured me that my health is good, each succeeding season seems to take that much more out of me."

Murtaugh said his decision was reached after much "soul searching" and discussion with his family.

"It naturally is a difficult choice to make, but the availability of a baseball man of the caliber of Bill Virdon reinforces my conviction that I am doing the right thing," he said.

Virdon, who flew in early today from Puerto Rico where he is managing in the winter league, said:

"I don't know how I'm going to take over after watching Dan operate for the last couple of years but it's going to be a pleasure."

It will be Virdon's major league managerial debut.

Terra Linda Gets Water Polo Win

In other season-opening MCAL action, San Marin edged Tamalpais, 8-7, in overtime, San Rafael whipped Drake, 16-2, and Redwood drew a bye.

Novato seized an early lead behind the potent scoring of Jim Praul, who finished with six goals. Terra Linda forged ahead but the Hornets cut the gap to 8-7 before the Trojans pulled away to win. Ted Gazulis led Terra Linda's balanced attack with three goals, while Keith Strange and Todd Gulick contributed two each.

Terra Linda is seeking its third consecutive league championship. The Trojans had a perfect 12-0 record last year and were 11-1 the year before.

This season, the Trojans lost all six of their pre-season games, but "we were playing some pretty good high schools," said coach Charles Metz. "Besides, the season was just ending for them and just beginning for us." At most schools, water polo season coincides with football season.

Scott Dicker scored nine goals to key San Rafael's victory over Drake. San Rafael is shaping up as a strong challenger to Terra Linda, and their game tomorrow at San Rafael will be a crucial early-season collision.

San Marin's victory against Tam came on a sudden-death overtime goal by Dave Milano, his third tally of the game. Jay Woods of San Marin was high scorer with four goals, and Dan Gustafson was outstanding in goal for the Mustangs, blocking 12 shots.

On Wednesday, San Marin will play at Redwood, Drake at Tamalpais and Terra Linda at San Rafael. Novato draws a bye.

Warriors Fret Poor Attendance

OAKLAND (UPI) —The Golden State Warriors, who are taking a rest from National Basketball Association action, have been drawing more fans in their new home, but club officials are still worried.

"People still aren't coming to see us," said team publicist Harry Jupiter. "They come to see the other team."

An example was the 13,502 fans —largest home crowd for the Warriors in almost five years —who came to see Golden State play the Milwaukee Bucks last Saturday night.

"We're averaging about 5,600 in nine home games this year," Jupiter said. "That's up about 40 per cent over last year. But in places like Seattle and Phoenix, the fans come out no matter who the home team is playing. Here, they show up only if the opposition is good."

The Warriors are playing all their San Francisco Bay area home games this year in the Oakland Coliseum. Off to one of their best starts in recent years, they host the Philadelphia 76ers Thursday night.

LOSE OATS

Oakland Regains Keating

OAKLAND (UPI) —The Oakland Raiders have gained a defensive lineman but lost another.

Defensive tackle Tom Keating may play for the first time in eight weeks Sunday when the Raiders host the Baltimore Colts. But Carleton Oats, another defensive trenchman, is in Los Angeles for an examination of a knee injured in last Sunday's win over San Diego.

Oats may require an operation, but even if he doesn't, it is unlikely that he will play against the Colts.

Raider coach John Madden, who has had his problems keeping his defensive line healthy, said Keating will be activated if he's ready.

"This would be a good week for him to come back," Madden said.

Keating broke a bone in his leg in the third game of the season.

"My leg is a little sore," Keating said, "because the muscles atrophied when my leg was in a cast. But I'm all right. I intend to practice all week and unless I break my leg again in practice. I'm going to be able to play."

NEBRASKA-OKLAHOMA

Game Stirs Campus Tensions

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — The signs of excitement and tension that have held football fans in their grips for the past week in anticipation of the Oklahoma-Nebraska game Thanksgiving Day are finally beginning to show on the Cornhuskers.

In contrast to last week's low key businesslike practice sessions, Monday's workout for Nebraska was an uproar as here and there one could note a backslap, a spirited shout or a traditional pat on the backside.

"Today was perhaps the most spirited practice we have had," coach Bob Devaney said Monday. "We've had spirited practices before but you could tell that it's getting closer to game time."

49ers See Surge; Jets Regain Namath

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — While the San Francisco 49ers still are trying to figure out how they lost to Los Angeles, they believe they'll regain the top spot in the National Football Conference West division.

"Heck," said rookie fullback Larry Schreiber. "I think we'll be back in first place on Thanksgiving. The Rams play Dallas there and I believe the Cowboys will beat them."

Namath, who has been sidelined all season with a knee injury, could be on the field Sunday when San Francisco meets the New York Jets in New York.

Dr. Nicholas, the Jets team physician, said he had given medical clearance for Namath to play.

"Now it is up to Namath and (coach Weeb) Ewbank," Nicholas said.

Wide receiver Dick Witcher was the only 49er casualty in the loss to the Rams as he suffered a shoulder sprain, but San Francisco coach Dick Nolan said he would be ready to go against the Jets.

Nolan also said cornerback Jim Johnson, who fractured a wrist against New Orleans but played against Los Angeles, would play Sunday.

Abalone Picking May Get Turn Off

By AL GIDDINGS

"I've had a number of calls regarding the proposed shoreline closings of the Point Reyes Headlands and the Estero de Limantour. To futher clarigy, the Fish and Game Commission at its Nov. 5 meeting in San Diego announced among its "determinations," or proposed 1972 sportfishing regulations, to add two new Sections to the Commission Regulations.

Section 57 would be added to read: "Point Reyes Headlands Reserve (Marin County). No form of marine life may be taken from the ocean area within 1,000 feet of the high tide mark in the Point Reyes Headlands bounded on the west by a line extending due west (trut) from the Point Reyes Lighthouse, and on the easy by a line extending due east (true) from Chimney Rock, without a written permit from the department."

WHAT DOES the above actually mean? The Point Reyes Headlands is the three-mile rocky area from the Point Reyes Lighthouse all the way east to Chimney Rock. This area covered by the proposed closure is one of the three main abalone and rockfish areas of Marin County. Closing the Area entirely would just about eliminate abalone picking and rockfishing there, especially with the 1,000 foot closed zone included in the regulation.

Section 58 would be added to read: "Estero de Limantour Reserve (Marin County). No forms of marine life may be taken below the high water mark in Estero de Limantour without a written permit from the department. Estero de Limantour includes all tideland waters to high water mark in an easterly direction from a line drawn due north (true) from the extreme westerly point of Limantour Spit."

DOES THIS close all of Drake's Estero? No, Estero de Limantour is the eastern most finger of the five fingers of Drake's Estero. Everything would be protected here, but clam digging, etc. would remain open in the rest of the Estero.

The Fish and Game Commission will hold a public meeting for final adoption of the proposed 1972 sport fishing regulations which includes the above two closures on Dec. 10 at Sacramento.

OTHER ITEMS of information:

The Department of Fish and Game's Region III Headquarters has moved from the Ferry Building, San Francisco, to Yountville, Napa County, this past week. The post office box number is 47, Yountville, Calif., 94599.

The silver salmon anglers at Tomales Bay and in the tide waters of Papermill Creek took some nice fish the past few days. Pete Valconezi of Point Reyes took a pair that weighed 17 and 16 pounds on a fly. Bob Davis and Ciero Giamona of Point Reyes had four beauties. About 10 were checked last Saturday. Beautiful fish!

THE TOMALES Bay bass derby is on now; it lasts until Dec. 31. The largest bass taken so far is a 14½ pounder by Joe Britto of Inverness. That should be easy to beat! Check in with Bill Thompson at the Inverness Store for your sign up and the latest local dope.

I got in a duck hunt with Norm Quadros up at the Sacramento Refuge last Wednesday. I didn't want to go, but "Moe" had a reservation so just to please him, I went. You won't believe this! We limited out by noon with two mallards and twelve sprigs. One of the best shoots I've ever had. We never lost a bird doomed either and that always makes for a good hunt.

MY DAUGHTER, Marylu, who is almost 19, took a flying trip to Michigan for a deer hunt. Here's all I've heard to date, and she's been gone a week!

"The country back here's so beautiful. The farm I'm on is so neat! I haven't seen any deer, but had some fresh venison just killed the night before. One of the kids got it when it broke its neck in a fence. You should be here — everyone poaches. You'd love it!"

SAN RAFAEL'S EASY RIDER

San Rafael's Russ Powell, shown competing in a recent race, will join the 250cc National motorcycle class for Americans and Canadians in the Trans-American Motorcycle Association International event Sunday at Carnegie Cycle Park between Livermore and Tracy. Powell will be competing in three, 20-minute events against the likes of AMA National champ Dick Mann of Richmond.

Candlestick Parking Problem Ires Fans

Each week Candlestick Park's seating capacity increases as double-decking of the stadium progresses. But Candlestick's 8,200-car parking area is frozen. The lot isn't big enough to handle 49er game traffic. The situation is messy. It's going to get worse before it gets better.

Parking around Kezar Stadium was a problem that frayed nerves of 49er fans. Parking at Candlestick still is fraying their nerves.

Through years of experience, 49er fans did a good job of solving Kezar's parking problem. They parked their cars three and four miles from the stadium. The dispersed nature of Kezar parking required considerable footwork to and from the stadium but it did have one plus factor — a fairly fast getaway after the game. There was no concentration of cars in one big lot at Kezar.

The bay prohibits any dispersed parking around Candlestick after the 8,200-car lot is filled. Late arriving fans find this frustrating. In their frustration they have been parking around the perimeter of the lot, blocking exits. And that has become a source of post-game frustration for fans trying to get out of the lot.

Emptying Candlestick's parking lot has become a tedious business. Emptying any parking lot of 8,200 cars takes time. But when exits are blocked the delay becomes unreasonable, especially if there are only two exit streets such as those at Candlestick.

"Next time try a boat," would be an appropriate lure for Candlestick-bound fans caught in bumper-to-bumper traffic. Indeed, some of the smart ones now are using boats.

Candlestick's traffic problem may be a headache to 49er fans but youngsters who live on the Jamestown Avenue approach to the park love it. They're selling parking space on sidewalks in front of their parents' homes. Some have even received parental permission to peddle the home garage space on Sunday afternoons.

Renting garage space around Kezar on game days was an old custom of many Sunset District residents. The closer the garage was to Kezar, the higher the parking fee. A garage a block from the stadium always was good for a $5 per car fee.

Some Sunset residents used to drive their own cars out of garages early on game days and occupy street parking areas. Thus, they could collect not only for garage space but also when they relinquished the street parking area before going for a Sunday drive.

Street parking is prohibited along Jamestown Avenue on game days at Candlestick. But sidewalk parking is permitted. After all, Jamestown residents can't be held in a state of siege.

Texas A & M To Get Bowl Bid If . . .

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI)—Texas A&M will win an invitation to play in the Liberty Bowl in Memphis, Tenn., if the Aggies can defeat Southwest Conference leader Teams on Thanksgiving Day.

Texas A&M (6-5) would face 11th-ranked Tennessee (7-2) in the Dec. 2 contest.

Arkansas (8-2-1) will go to the Liberty Bowl if Texas A&M loses to the Longhorns. But the Razorbacks will be hoping for an A&M victory, for it would make Arkansas 1971 champions of the Southwest Conference.

As SWC champs, the Razorbacks would then be the host team in the Cotton Bowl against Penn State (10-1).

Texas needs the win to capture the SWC crown and the Cotton bowl berth too. If the Longhorns (7-2) lose to A&M they would be left without a post-season game.

A victory for the Aggies would be a dramatic end to Coach Gene Stallings' comeback this season from a 1-5 record five weeks ago and widespread talk of his being fired.

NEBRASKA BACK HIT FOR LOSS

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — Lancaster County judge Ralph Slocum Monday fined University of Nebraska alternate slot back Glen P. Garson $50 on a charge of taking a police car.

Garson, 19, specifically pleaded guilty to a charge of disturbing the peace.

SEALS HURTING

Webster's Bad Back Examined

OAKLAND (UPI) —While the California Golden Seals are recovering from a gruesome 10-day road trip and waiting to resume National Hockey League play, the discussion is about the condition of winger Tom Webster.

Webster, obtained from the Detroit Red Wings in an early season trade has missed the last 10 games with a back injury.

A Toronto newspaper has reported that Seals owner Charles Finley wanted the trade voided because of the injury, but Finley had no public comment.

PREP BASKETBALL

San Marin Seeks Wright Approach

By LEW CODDINGTON

(Sixth in a series on Marin County Athletic League basketball prospects.)

San Marin will rely on overall team quickness and the individual brilliance of Hoza Wright in an effort to improve last year's fifth-place finish in the Marin County Athletic League basketball race.

The Mustangs were 5-9 in league play last season. Wright is the only returning starter, although help is expected from former substitutes Marty Larson and Greg Mazeres, transfer Bob La Point and a horde of ex-junior varsity players.

"Wright is probably the best one-on-one player in the league," said coach Andy Frauenhofen. The 6-foot-2 forward was second team all-conference last year as a sophomore, finishing ninth in scoring with a 12.1 average. This year he was also all-league in football as a defensive back.

La Point, a 6-2 forward who transferred from Castro Valley, is "a very welcome addition," said Frauenhofer, and will start.

Larson, 5-9, and Mazeres, 5-10, are both senior guards who played frequently as reserves last season, and both will draw starting assignments this year. The third guard will be Mark Sower, a 5-10 junior up from the J.V.s, whom the coach calls "vastly improved."

Another former J.V., John Tate, is expected to start at center, giving San Marin a respectably-sized front line of 6-5, 6-2, 6-2. Tate is a junior.

"We will try to exploit our quickness by doing a lot of pressing on defense," said Frauenhofer. "We have enough depth to do this." The depth is provided by 11 players up from last year's J.V. team, which finished 4-10.

Former J.V. forwards are 6-3 Bart Salig, 6-3 Ken Siler, 6-3 Jon Beade, 6-2 Randy Colfer and 6-1 Fred Doar. Guards are 5-9 Dave Ilchert, 5-7 Brian Reuger and 5-10 Bob Briot. Ron Zechlin at 5-11 can play either guard or forward.

With such depth, Frauenhofer plans to substitute liberally to keep fresh players in the game and keep the press functioning.

"We will use a continuity-type offense," he said. "We have balanced height and a lot of these guys can switch easily from guard to forward.

"This is the best shooting club we've had here," he went on. "Wright and Siler especially are good shooters."

San Marin opens its season Dec. 3 at Rancho Cotate. The Mustangs travel to Redwood Jan. 7 in their league opener.

The schedule:

December — 3 (Fri.) at Rancho Cotate, 8:15 p.m.; 4 (Sat.) Angly of Sebastopol, 8:15 p.m.; 8-11 (Wed.-Sat.) Drake Tournament; 14 (Tue.) at Healdsburg, 7:30 p.m.; 17 (Fri.) at John Swett of Crockett, 8:15 p.m.; 28 (Tue.) St. Elizabeth of Oakland, 8:15 p.m.; 30 (Thu.) Petaluma, 8:15 p.m.

Billie Jean, Rosie Casals See Association Putdown

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Billie Jean King and Rosemary Casals, two of the world's top women tennis players, expect the United States Lawn Tennis Association to set them down "any day now," but they could care less.

"The women's tour won't be playing under USLTA sponsorship in 1972 if we get suspended," said Mrs. King, an outspoken critic of USLTA policies. "All the girls who plan to play on the tour said they will back us all the way."

Mrs. King and Miss Casals, who were one-two in pro money winnings in 1971 with $120,000 and $60,000, respectively, will be in San Francisco in January to help kick off the 1972 Virginia Slims Tour. The San Francisco tourney is being underwritten for the second straight year by British Motors.

Mrs. King and Miss Casals said they expect to be suspended by the USLTA.

"Let's say, we won't be surprised if they suspend us," said Mrs. King.

Rafael Racquet Club Wins In Palo Alto

The Rafael Racquet Club; representing Marin County, won the Junior Davis Cup playoffs Saturday in Palo Alto, defeating teams from Orinda, Palo Alto and Modesto.

Dave Holloway, who plays No. 3 for Rafael, won his match, as did the doubles team of John Weiss and Gene Lechelt. No. 1 player Eric Chilton won by default.

Pistons

DETROIT (UPI) — Steve Mix, who played in just 61 games in three seasons with the Detroit Pistons, was placed on waivers by the National Basketball Association Club Monday.

Zabilski Retires From Northeastern

BOSTON (UPI)—Joe Zabilski, who "made more kids into men and broke more coach's hearts than anybody else," has retired after 24 years as Northeastern University football coach.

But Zabilski, 54, whose retirement was confirmed Monday, left a legacy of a former star player and veteran assistant coach in Robert "Bo" Lyons to succeed him.

Lyons follows a tough act. Zabilski, the New England football coaching "dean" for the region's longest tenure at the same school, sported a career record of 101 wins, 77 losses and six ties.

"All you have to do is have 10 unbeaten seasons to have a shot at that," N.U. Athletic Director Herb Gallagher told Lyons as he took over from Zabilski, who will devote his full time to the duties of associate athletic director.

As perhaps one of the most popular coaches in New England with both friend and foe, Zabilski led Northeastern to 13 winning seasons and three others which split even though the school has steadily upgraded its independent schedule while moving in recent years from the small to the major college class.

Big Bears Weep At Piccolo Film

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Chicago Bears went to a movie Monday evening, and the rough, tough pro football players wound up as sentimental softies.

They were wiping wet eyes, covering sniffles, blowng their noses, and generally using handkerchiefs to good purpose.

The film they saw was "Brian's Song," scheduled for television display Nov. 30, and previewed to the Bears because the subject was the late Brian Piccolo, once their teammate.

The TV network billed the film as a "drama depicting the warm beautiful friendship between Piccolo and teammate Gale Sayers."

It was that. But it also was a study in sadness, and while many of the Bears could remember their teammate Piccolo with pleasure, they could remember too the sorrow occasioned by his illness and death.

Piccolo died in June, 1970, of cancer. He left the Bears midway through the 1969 season when he developed a deep, hacking, incurable cough which later resulted in three operations prior to his death.

The darkened theater hid the Bears and members of their families who had to find handkerchiefs and wipe their eyes when Sayers on the screen told his teammates prior to a game that Piccolo had cancer, and broke down himself.

MADRID (UPI) —Pedro Carrasco of Spain, said Monday he was quitting boxing because the World Boxing Council refused to recognize his title fight against Mando Ramos of the United States two weeks ago in Madrid.

"I am retiring from boxing for ever and I do not intend to face Ramos in a return match I have already signed for", a dejected Carrasco said.

Frazier To Fight Daniels

"Believe me," I'm going to be out there smoking and try to keep that title because I don't intend to give it up to anybody," said Frazier, undefeated in 27 fights, including 23 knockouts.

Daniels, who will graduate from Southern Methodist University in a few months with a degree in government, said he felt "good" about the signing because of the "fact that just one man stands between me and the heavyweight title and all the goodies that go with it."

The 10 p.m. (EST) 15-round title fight Jan. 15 will be shown nationally on home television and is expected by Century Telesports Network, the carrier, to draw an audience of 24 million viewers. It is the first time a world heavyweight title fight has been shown live on home television since Muhammad Ali beat Zora Foley.

Daniels, 25, a native ative of Willoughby, Ohio who now lives in Dallas, has a record of 29 victories, four losses and a draw.

A Platoon's Strange Jungle Patrol

A tiny black dot inside a small yellow circle and it showed where 21 American soldiers were using black machetes to hack their way through head-high elephant grass in a combat patrol.

The dot was the 3rd Platoon, Alpha Company of the 1st Battalion, 327th Infantry.

By nightfall on the third day of their patrol in the rocket belt five miles from Da Nang, the platoon had moved their dot to a small hill at one end of Leech Valley. It was duly recorded on the big map back at Fire Base Maude and on bigger maps elsewhere in American headquarters around South Vietnam.

The moving dot is termed "defensive" patrolling, since the United States is pulling its troops out of the war zone. The 21 men of the platoon packed everything from a pair of machine guns to grenades. Gunships and artillery support were a radio call away.

The men could not stop to admire the view as monsoon clouds loitered below the peaks of the surrounding dark green mountains and silver waterfalls flashed in the setting sun. They were hushed and their "L.T." (lieutenant) had trained his binoculars on three Viet Cong stalking across a nearby hill.

First Lt. Ed Holland of West Islip, N.Y., passed the glasses on and hunkered down by a gnarled tree, listening to the crackle of his radio through a plastic-covered receiver jammed against his left ear.

While various members of the platoon watched the three men vanish over the hill, Holland tried to confirm that all friendly soldiers in the area were accounted for in order to avoid shooting at possible U.S. or South Vietnamese troops.

"They're still proceeding east and are almost out of sight," land told headquarters. By the time confirmation was given, the three Viet Cong had disappeared. It was the closest the men came to contact during the entire patrol.

Now it was back to normal business. Spec 4 Tom Oldfather, 20, of Waterloo, Iowa, and Spec. 4 Joel Emert, 21, of La Puente, Calif., went into the deep gjss to set out booby traps for night protection.

SFC. Richard H. Daniels, 36, of Lagrange, Ga., watched them go as he cooked some rations over a tiny stove made from a can punched full of holes.

"This platoon has never been in combat together, but they know what they're doing," Daniels said. "I'd go into a firefight with any of them."

"I don't think I've missed anything," PFC. Ralph T. Caudill of Ottowa, W.Va., said about not seeing action during his month in the field. Caudill, 21, is the newest member of the platoon. "These dudes know their stuff—they've been here a while. They never steer you wrong."

But the men were unhappy about an incident earlier in the patrol during which Caudill inherited the machine gun. The soldier who originally carried the weapon went into drug withdrawal convulsions and began screaming just as dusk was beginning to fall the previous day. He was taken out by helicopter.

"Then, because of him, we had to hump out again during the night to a new position because with his screaming, and the helicopter coming in, everybody knew where we were," said PFC. Miguel Vasquez, 21, of Newark, N.J.

There was no other indication of drugs among other patrol members.

"Out here, it's a new challenge every day and a lot of it isn't covered by the manuals," he said.

He then told the waitress he had a gun and demanded money, saying "Please don't call police. I just got out of jail and have a wife and kids."

He fled with the $67, police said.

Reverse Osmosis System For New Kidney Machine

DALLAS (UPI)—Bio-Tronics Corp., a Dallas-based medicale-lectronics firm, has developed a portable artificial kidney system that works on a filter system called reverse osmosis.

The Guardian Hemo-Dialyzer duplicates kidney function by letting blood flow through hollow, porous fibers inside the tube-like unit.

Inside the tube the blood flows in one direction while a chemical solution flows the other direction outside.

Due to a "equalization effect," waste material is transferred from the blood to the outside fluid while beneficial chemicals are transferred into the blood stream.

Presently, the firm says, the only other ways to overcome kidney deterioration are tissue transplants and the use of larger, more expensive kidney machines for the estimated 100,000 persons affected by kidney malfunction each year.

Blood that rises much warmer of 98.6 degrees will be damaged; too cool, and it causes chills in patients.
